

WUKY (FM) University of Kentucky

Issues/Program List: 4th Quarter 2022

(October, November, December 2022)

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining directly and relatedly to COVID-19 and other issues that could impact the health, quality of life, healthcare and potentially health care costs of Lexingtonians.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	October 4, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	Findings from a new University of Kentucky College of Medicine study published in the Journal of Biological Chemistry May 28 may lead to a new treatment against Toxoplasma gondii , the parasite that causes toxoplasmosis. Dr. Greg talks with Gentry Matthew Gentry, Ph.D in the Department of Molecular and Cellular Biochemistry, about the breakthrough research.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	October 11, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	The University of Kentucky is home to a new center that will advance research on the medical use of cannabis. The center will conduct research on the health effects of cannabis, including its risks and benefits when used to treat certain medical conditions. Dr. Greg speaks with UK Cannabis Center director Shanna Babalonis.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	October 18, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	The Curiosity Fair at UK is an annual, community event that highlights the role of curiosity in education. There is always a wide variety of disciplines, and the event is an informal and fun way for participants to engage with new people and ideas. Faculty, staff and students create “Curiosity Stations” or short demos that represent ideas from their classes or fields or research. Dr. Greg talks with co-organizer Dr. Hannah Ruehl and past presenter Dr. Lou Hirsch about what to expect this year.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	October 25, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	November is both National Caregiver’s Month and National Alzheimer’s Awareness Month. UK HR Elder Care will be hosting a Senior Caregiving Week offering two great caregiving events November 1-3. Dr. Greg gets a preview from UK Eldercare specialist Terri Weber and shares his own profound revelations from taking the virtual dementia tour several years ago.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 2, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	This week Dr. Greg talks with friend and colleague Vaneeet Arora, Associate Professor and Associate Director - Clinical Microbiology in the UK College of Medicine, about how best to avoid the potential triple whammy of COVID 19, influenza, and RSV.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 9, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	An innovative University of Kentucky program called #iCANendthetrend, provides tobacco use prevention services to youth, families and community members across Kentucky. It was developed by Melinda Ickes, Ph.D., UK College of Education faculty in the Department of Kinesiology and Health Promotion, and college students who served as tobacco-free ambassadors. □ Dr. Greg talks with Melinda about where she wants the program to go next.

Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 16, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	The Sanders-Brown Center on Aging's annual Markesbery Symposium is Saturday November 19th at Central Bank Center in Lexington. Dr. Greg gets a preview from Dr. Pete Nelson, Professor of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine. The symposium is free and open to the public.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 23, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	For many of us the holidays can quickly go from Seasons Greetings to Seasons Eatings! UK Health and Wellness registered dietitians Dr. Karen Bryla McNees and Vanessa Oliver have strategies to help you survive the holidays without busting your buttons, or becoming too much of the life of the party.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 30, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	Bereaved children struggling with unsupported grief may have difficulties in school, have trouble regulating emotions and relationships, and exhibit a higher incidence of depression and anxiety. Without experiences that can help normalize grief and process its accompanying feelings, these children may continue to struggle—sometimes for decades. Dr. Greg talks with Leila Salisbury, executive director of the new Kentucky Center for Grieving Children and Families about their mission and the programs currently on offer.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	December 14, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	What do you do when you witness someone struggling with suicidal thoughts or when someone tells you they intend to harm themselves? The University of Kentucky offers an online program called QPR to equip you with the right answers and actions. Think of it as a CPR program for mental health crises. Dr. Greg talks with Marc Woods, Chief Nursing Officer for Behavioral Medicine at UK HealthCare and Eastern State Hospital about QPR, which stands for Question, Persuade and Refer.
WUKY's Weekend Edition	December 17, 2022	9:35-9:39am	WUKY is collaborating with Martha Greenwald, creator and curator of 'Who We Lost KY' a writing project where friends and families who have lost loved ones to the pandemic or a natural disaster, pay tribute and in some cases, say their final goodbyes. Today we hear from Jennifer Goldberg who wrote 'Should I Fall' in tribute to her grandfather.
WUKY's Weekend Edition	December 24, 2022	9:35-9:39am	WUKY is collaborating with Martha Greenwald, creator and curator of 'Who We Lost KY' a writing project where friends and families who have lost loved ones to the pandemic or a natural disaster, pay tribute and in some cases, say their final goodbyes. This week Laura Jackson of Fayette County reads Christmas Flowers; a story remembering her aunt Becky Breece-Straley.

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the general election in Kentucky.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
WUKY's Morning Edition	October 17, 2022	7:44-7:49am	WUKY is pleased to co-sponsor, along with CivicLex, a unique event featuring all six of the candidates for Council at Large seats. The Council-At-Large forum and ice cream social happens Thursday night October 20th from 6 to 8:30 at the Pam Miller Downtown Arts Center. For a preview we talked with Megan Gulla, director of programs for CivicLex.
WUKY's Morning Edition	October 20, 2022	8:44-8:49am	Incumbent Mayor Linda Gorton and challenger Councilmember David Kloiber fielded questions from audience members on the lack of affordable housing and the beautification of Lexington's north side but as the city broke the previous homicide record over the weekend, both say making Lexington safer would be their top priority. Their opinions diverged on how best to do that.
WUKY's All Things Considered	October 20, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Candidates for Lexington's At-Large Council seats and the Vice Mayor spot took part in a unique forum Thursday night that a more up-close-and-personal feel.
WUKY's Morning Edition	October 24, 2022	7:44-7:49am	Election day is drawing near. In fact, this Wednesday is the first opportunity to cast an absentee ballot, provided you have an acceptable reason to do that. There's no better time to study up on the candidates in city and county races. Did you know there's a one stop website for this kind of voter and candidate information? CivicLex has once again compiled all of the data for you, nice and convenient, online. CivicLex director of programs Megan Gulla joins us to talk about lex.vote.
WUKY's Morning Edition	October 31, 2022	7:44-7:49am	Voting is already underway in the 2022 election and we hope you will be casting your ballot in the coming days. So as a public service to the civic-minded, we talk to LexVote's Megan Gulla; she's also the director of programs for the non-partisan, non-profit CivicLex.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	November 7, 2022	8:44-7:49am & 4:44-5:49pm	Kentucky's Amendment No.2 — specifically stripping any abortion protections from the state constitution — has captured the lion's share of media attention leading up to Tuesday's election. Amendment No. 1, however, may have escaped your radar. So, in this WUKY In-Depth report, we take a look at how it originated and what it will do if approved.

WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	November 7, 2022	7:44-7:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	Tomorrow is the big day across the country. Here in Lexington thousands of registered voters will make their way to the polls. Megan Gulla, director of programs for the non-partisan CivicLex and LexVote.com is back with one more installment of Know Before You Go.
WUKY's Election Connection	November 8, 2022	6:30-10:30pm	WUKY provided live updates on the general election in Lexington with reports from both the Gorton and Kloiber campaign headquarters. In addition we had up to the minute results in the Urban County Council races and other local and regional contests.
WUKY's One on One	November 18, 2022	5:50-5:58pm	WUKY goes 'One on One' with Dan Wu; the first Asian American elected to the Urban County Council. The incoming vice mayor will head up the most diverse council in Lexington's history.
WUKY's One on One	December 20, 2022	5:50-5:58pm	2022 was another year for the record books — in good ways and bad. WUKY asked the governor to weigh in on the coming economy, the state of the pandemic, his political future, and what he sees as the biggest challenge facing Kentucky.

Description of the issue: The Rise in Gun Violence in Lexington

WUKY's All Things Considered	October 12, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Mayor Linda Gorton on Tuesday announced the start of the One Lexington Gun Violence Prevention Grant Program. We talk with One Lexington director Devine Carama.
WUKY's All Things Considered	October 19, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Lexington now has its 25 license plate reader cameras in place and police are reporting on how the pilot camera program is aiding their department's work.
WUKY's Morning Edition	October 20, 2022	8:44-8:49am	Incumbent Mayor Linda Gorton and challenger Councilmember David Kloiber fielded questions from audience members on the lack of affordable housing and the beautification of Lexington's north side but as the city broke the previous homicide record over the weekend, both say making Lexington safer would be their top priority. Their opinions diverged on how best to do that.
WUKY's All Things Considered	October 21, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	City and community leaders on Friday released a four-year strategic plan to fight violent crime in Lexington.

WUKY's All Things Considered	October 27, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	It was a morning filled with anxiety for Henry Clay High School students, parents, and staff Thursday as the school was put under lockdown after reports of a potential weapon on campus. While no injuries were reported and the measure was described as a precautionary step, it still left parents rattled — and questioning the school's security system.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 2, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	Lexington leaders launch a new approach to ending domestic violence. It's called 'It's Time'.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 2, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	The death of 22-year-old Desman LaDuke continues to draw scrutiny as family members question whether everything was done to avoid the tragic outcome of what they describe as a "mental health crisis."
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 28, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	Lexington's mayor and public safety leaders in Lexington want more digital eyes on the city's roadways with full implementation of the FLOCK program. Karyn Czar reports.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 30, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Lexington leaders weighed the expansion of the city's license plate reader pilot program on Tuesday. The Urban County Council voted against a measure that would have pumped the brakes on the process.

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to a legal challenge to Kentucky's abortion law.

WUKY's All Things Considered	October 28, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Backers and detractors of Amendment No. 2, a proposed abortion-related change to the state constitution, are trading fire over the campaigns being waged for and against the amendment. WUKY's Josh James reports on the different ways the two groups are couching the issue.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	November 9, 2022	7:44-7:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	Kentucky voters have rejected a proposed constitutional amendment that would have removed any protection for abortion rights from the constitution of their deeply red state.
WUKY's Morning Edition	November 14, 2022	7:44-7:49am	In the midterm elections, Kentucky voters said no to Amendment 2, which would have added language to the state constitution making it more difficult to challenge abortion restrictions. It would have also thrown a wrench into abortion rights advocates' legal arguments ahead of a state Supreme Court case set to start Tuesday. Now, that case will move ahead as expected.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 15, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	A week after Kentuckians voted down a ballot measure that would have stripped any abortion protections from the state constitution, the Kentucky Supreme Court heard arguments on the issue Tuesday.

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the documentation and improvement of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion in Lexington and Central Kentucky.

WUKY's All Things Considered	October 14, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	It's been nearly five years since Confederate statues of John Hunt Morgan and John C. Breckinridge were removed from the front lawn of Lexington's Old Courthouse. The move followed legal battles that were ultimately settled by then Kentucky Attorney General Andy Beshear. Within hours of the decision, the statues were down. The charge was led by Russell Allen and WUKY's DeBraun Thomas, members of Take Back Cheapside, the group that had been working to have the sculptures moved from the former site of the Cheapside slave auction block, one of the largest in the South. Thomas will be featured in the documentary 'Taking Cheapside' that will be screened at the Lyric Theatre Saturday night.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	October 17, 2022	8:44-8:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	Monday marks five years since Lexington removed a pair of Confederate statues from downtown, leading to a transformation of a former slave-trading market site, but the controversy now appears more like a prelude than a final chapter.
WUKY's All Things Considered	October 24, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	Frankfort city officials issued formal apologies Saturday to the families of victims who were lynched at the city's Singing Bridge more than a century ago.
WUKY's Morning Edition	October 31, 2022	8:44-8:49am	A new Head Start center is coming to an East End neighborhood in Lexington. The city hopes it'll be a project that keeps a local community intact amid increased development in the area.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 7, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	A racial-slur-laden assault on a UK student prompted a large campus protest Monday night.

WUKY's Morning Edition	November 9, 2022	8:44-8:49am	The Education & Civil Rights Initiative, the local NAACP, and UK faculty and students participated in a virtual town hall Wednesday night to discuss racial violence on campus in the wake of an attack on a Black student that went viral early this week.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 10, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	WUKY is participating in this year's Public Media Day of Action on Thursday November 10th. It's a movement led by Public Media for All; a diverse coalition of public media workers of color, whose purpose is to raise awareness of the negative effects of a lack of diversity, equity and inclusion in public media while sharing solutions for individuals and organizations. To provide a historical perspective of the media landscape, Doug Boyd from the Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History in the UK Libraries is here with a segment of Saving Stories looking at how Lexington's daily mainstream newspapers handled coverage of African American communities. In 2004 the editor of the Lexington Herald Leader apologized for the newspaper's failures in covering the 1960's Civil Rights Movement.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 18, 2022	5:50-5:58pm	WUKY goes 'One on One' with Dan Wu; the first Asian American elected to the Urban County Council. The incoming vice mayor will head up the most diverse council in Lexington's history.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 22, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	University of Kentucky President Eli Capilouto says the school is continuing work on several initiatives to expand diversity and inclusiveness. His message to the campus Tuesday was an update on how the school is still responding after the arrest of a white student this month who was accused of physically assaulting a Black student worker while using racial slurs. The accused woman later withdrew and was permanently banned. Capilouto said the episode is a painful reminder of how important it is to continue having conversations about diversity and inclusion. He says several projects to solidify and institutionalize diversity, equity and inclusion efforts are ongoing or completed.
WUKY's All Things Considered	December 2, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Lexington's Central Bank Center, Rupp Arena, and the Lexington Opera House have launched a new partnership aimed at making events at the venues more inclusive for people with sensory issues.

