

WUKY (FM) University of Kentucky

Issues/Program List: 3rd Quarter 2022

(July, August, September 2022)

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining directly and relatedly to COVID-19 and other issues that could impact the health, quality of life, healthcare and potentially health care costs of Lexingtonians.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	July 12, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	Blood donations have been down during the pandemic and officials hope that situation will change this summer. While the arrival of summer can be exciting, it also ushers in what the medical community calls “trauma season” when warm weather and increase in outdoor activities results in a higher number of unintentional injuries requiring emergency care. As many of these injuries are potentially life-threatening, there is also an increase in the need for blood transfusions, so keeping up the blood supply becomes even more important. This week Dr. Greg talks about summer blood drives with Morgan H. McCoy, assistant professor of pathology and laboratory medicine at the UK College of Medicine.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	July 19, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	The BA.5 omicron subvariant, which is now the most prevalent coronavirus strain in the United States, is four times more resistant to COVID-19 vaccines, according to a new study by the Mayo clinic, but health officials say those shots remain your best defense against the virus. This week Dr. Greg talks again with Vaneet Arora, Associate Director - Clinical Microbiology in the UK College of Medicine, about the latest developments in the seemingly never ending battle against SARS-CoV-2.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	July 26, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	Thursday July 28th is World Hepatitis Day. This week Dr. Greg speaks with Dia Obonyo and Amanda Wilburn prevention coordinator, and director of the viral hepatitis program respectively, for the Kentucky Department for Public Health.
One On One	July 27, 2022	5:50-5:58pm	Today on One on One WUKY’s Karyn Czar talks with State Public Health Commissioner Stephen Stack about vaccines, monkeypox and the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.
WUKY’s All Things Considered	August 10, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	While a solid majority of Kentuckians say the COVID-19 pandemic is still ongoing, more than half say – from a personal perspective – it’s essentially over.
WUKY’s All Things Considered	August 19, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Lexington health officials say a mass vaccination clinic of the two-dose monkeypox vaccine was well-attended with over 500 people receiving their first shot. But a Fayette County Health Department spokesperson worries too many aren't taking the threat seriously or contributing to a growing stigma surrounding it.

Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	August 23, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	The World Health Organization recently declared monkeypox a public health emergency of international concern as the virus is now spreading throughout North America and Europe where it is not usually found. Lexington confirmed its first case of monkeypox on August 17th. While the risk for Kentuckians remains relatively low, everyone should be vigilant. Fortunately, there are steps you can take to protect yourself and limit the spread. Dr. Greg gets the lowdown from Ilhem Messaoudi, Ph.D., a UK College of Medicine immunology and virology expert who serves as chair of the Department of Microbiology, Immunology, and Molecular Genetics.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	August 30, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	With the recent discovery of the polio virus in New York state's wastewater, how worried should Kentuckians be of a possible new outbreak of a disease long thought eradicated? Dr. Greg talks polio and vaccination with Ilhem Messaoudi, Ph.D., a UK College of Medicine immunology and virology expert who serves as chair of the Department of Microbiology, Immunology, and Molecular Genetics.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	Sept. 13, 2022	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	As of Monday September 12th new bivalent Covid vaccines are available for people who meet certain criteria. This week on Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine, we get the scoop from Vince Venditto, assistant professor, Department of Pharmaceutical Sciences in the UK College of Pharmacy.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 30, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	Health data show Kentucky's COVID numbers are all falling, with only portions of the eastern part of the state remaining "in the red."

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to floods that devastated parts of eastern Kentucky in late July, 2022

WUKY's All Things Considered	July 29, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	The death toll continues to rise in Eastern Kentucky where flash floods prompted Governor Andy Beshear to issue states of emergency and deploy the National Guard in multiple counties. WUKY's Karyn Czar reports.
------------------------------	---------------	-------------	--

WUKY's All Things Considered	August 1, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	WUKY's Karyn Czar spent the better part of the weekend reporting for WUKY and NPR on the devastation in eastern Kentucky. The broadcast consisted of an audio diary from her time there.
WUKY's Morning Edition	August 2, 2022	7:44-7:49am	The rain that unleashed massive floods in Appalachian mountain communities is diminishing, but now the people face a new threat: baking in the heat as they try to recover. Reported by Karyn Czar.
WUKY's Morning Edition and All Things Considered	August 4, 2022	8:44-8:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	WoodSongs is once again holding an instrument drive to replace those lost by musicians during the recent floods in eastern Kentucky.
Saving Stories	August 4, 2022	7:44-7:49am & 4:44-4:49pm	Like much of its stricken region, Appalshop has been swamped by historic flooding. The water inundated downtown Whitesburg in southeastern Kentucky, causing extensive damage to the renowned repository of Appalachian history and culture. Some losses are likely permanent, after raging waters soaked or swept away some of Appalshop's treasure trove of historic material. Dr. Doug Boyd, director of the Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History and colleagues from the UK Libraries traveled this week to Appalshop to help save as many irreplaceable materials as possible. In this special edition of WUKY's award winning history program Saving Stories, Doug talks about the devastation he saw and highlights the special relationship the Nunn Center has with Appalshop.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 5, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	President Joe Biden and first lady Jill Biden will travel to eastern Kentucky on Monday to survey the damage from last week's devastating floods and meet with those affected.
WUKY's Morning Edition	August 6, 2022	8:44-8:49am	Communicating with all Kentuckians — including the hearing-impaired — has been a top priority both in Western Kentucky after deadly tornadoes and now in Eastern Kentucky, where deadly flooding killed at least 37 dead and left thousands either homeless or in need of aid.

WUKY's All Things Considered	August 8, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	President Joe Biden touched down in Kentucky Monday to survey the destruction caused by massive flooding in eastern Kentucky.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	August 9, 2022	8:44-8:49am & 5:50-5:58pm	As the flood waters begin to recede, families, business owners and volunteer cleanup groups will begin to reenter the damaged buildings and start the long cleanup process. Unfortunately, many flood-related injuries and health issues, even death, can occur during the cleanup response. It is critical to remember that although the flood waters may recede, there are a number of hazards to be aware of. Dr. Greg gets health tips from Erin Haynes, Dr.P.H., chair of the Department of Epidemiology and Environmental Health in the University of Kentucky College of Public Health.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	August 16, 2022	8:44-8:49am & 5:50-5:58pm	As people in eastern Kentucky try to piece back together their lives following deadly floods, many may ignore warning signs and symptoms of trauma and PTSD. This week Dr. Greg talks about the mental health component of disaster cleanup with UK HealthCare's Gray Manis; licensed clinical social worker and assistant professor of psychiatry.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 23, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	Gov. Andy Beshear says he's calling Kentucky's legislature into a special session to take up a relief package for flood-ravaged eastern Kentucky. Josh James has the story.
WUKY's Morning Edition	August 24, 2022	8:44-8:49am	Nearly a month after torrential rainfall brought devastating floods to eastern Kentucky, many victims remain in shelters. Some people housed at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park vow to rebuild on land they still call home. Others plan to leave, and there are some who still haven't decided. Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear said 455 people were still being housed in Kentucky state parks, churches, schools and community centers late last week.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 24, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Thousands of pairs of shoes and socks are being distributed to people affected by flooding in eastern Kentucky last month. As WUKY's Alro Barnette reports the Samaritan's Feet organization partnered with the University of Kentucky men's basketball coach John Calipari, the Kentucky basketball team and state officials to give away bags containing shoes and socks Tuesday.

WUKY's All Things Considered	August 25, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Award winning reporter Karyn Czar has been to eastern Kentucky numerous times over the past month covering efforts to help residents recover from the devastating floods. Along the way she's met many good samaritans; including some on horseback. This report consisted of her latest audio diary.
WUKY's Morning Edition	August 26, 2022	7:44-7:49am	Kentucky lawmakers have taken up a state assistance package that would pump nearly $213 million into flood-ravaged Appalachian communities. It's seen as an initial installment to help in the mammoth rebuilding still ahead. Josh James reported.
WUKY's Morning Edition	August 31, 2022	7:44-7:49am	Kentucky will receive up to 300 donated travel trailers from Louisiana to shelter people displaced by flooding that ravaged parts of Appalachia. As WUKY's Josh James reports the governors of both states made the announcement Wednesday.

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the upcoming general election in Kentucky.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 5, 2022	5:50-5:58pm	If you are a political junky in Kentucky then Graves County is the place to be this weekend as the annual Fancy Farm Picnic at St. Jerome's Parish ushers in the campaign season with speeches, jabs and sometimes out of bounds attacks. Will that be the case this year given all of the devastation and flood cleanup on the other side of the state? For a preview we turn to Laura Cullen Glasscock, she's the editor and publisher of the Frankfort-based Kentucky Gazette.
WUKY's All Things Considered	Sept. 1, 2022	5:50-5:58pm	On Wednesday September 14th candidates for mayor and council at large will all be together at the Lyric Theatre in Lexington's historic east end neighborhood. WUKY is pleased to be a co-sponsor of this electoral forum. For a preview we spoke with event organizer Dr. Anthony Everett; executive director of the Center for Prophetic Activism.

WUKY's All Things Considered	Sept. 12, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	It may test her mettle and training but Dr. Soraya Matthews is more than prepared to moderate this week's debate between incumbent mayor Linda Gorton and challenger David Kloiber. WUKY's Alan Lytle recently spoke with Dr. Matthews prior to the big event.
WUKY's Morning Edition and All Things Considered	Sept. 14, 2022	7:44-7:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	Tonight from 6 to 9 pm, at the Lyric Theatre the two candidates in Lexington's mayor's race and council at-large hopefuls will take part in an electoral forum. 91.3 WUKY, Lexington's NPR News station is co-hosting this important community event.
WUKY's Morning Edition	Sept. 15, 2022	7:44-7:49am	Public safety and affordable housing were among the top issues up for debate last night between the two candidates for Lexington Mayor as well as the debate between six candidates vying for Council at-large seats. WUKY's Arlo Barnette has this recap.
WUKY's All Things Considered	Sept. 15, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	With Kentucky's near-total abortion ban in effect while the issue is sorted out in court, all eyes are on a highly-consequential constitutional amendment on the ballot this fall. And donors are financing campaigns to win over the hearts and minds of Kentucky voters before November 8.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	September 18, 2022	8:44-8:49am & 5:44-5:49pm	A celebrated NPR correspondent was in Lexington Thursday night. Political reporter and analyst Mara Liasson gave a lecture covering the big issues facing voters in the midterm elections, including inflation, immigration, and abortion.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 19, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	Lexington mayoral candidate David Kloiber is proposing a three-point plan to create more affordable neighborhoods in Lexington.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	September 22, 2022	7:44-7:49am & 5:50-5:58pm	If you participated in one of the On the Table events in Lexington, there's another opportunity to give some valuable input and craft solutions in your own community coming up next week. Civic Lex and a group called Civic Genius are hosting an event titled 'It's Your America.' The topic up for discussion: with another election around the corner - are tech companies censoring people or letting misinformation run wild? For a preview we speak with Megan Gulla, director of programs for Civic Lex and Civic Genius's Jillian Youngblood.

Description of the issue: The Rise in Gun Violence in Lexington

WUKY's All Things Considered	July 20, 2022	5:50-5:58pm	Mass shootings in this country are frequent headlines. In this edition of WUKY's One on One, former Lexington Police Chief Anthony Beatty offers his expertise on how to be proactive and keep you and your family safe.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 29, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	A string of shootings over the weekend left nine injured in Lexington, again raising questions about whether the city is doing all it can to prevent violence.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 7, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	Standing at a podium outside her office, flanked by Lexington's Police Chief, the Fayette County Sheriff and other city leaders, Lexington Mayor Linda Gorton said "The violence in our streets really angers me and it should anger you. It is brazen. It is bold. And it is without shame. There are too many guns in the hands of criminals with ill intentions."
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 13, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	Mayor Linda Gorton says she's angry about the uptick in violence in the city, calling it unacceptable and urging the community to get involved to assist police. Karyn Czar covered the mayor's Tuesday press conference and filed this report.
WUKY's Morning Edition	September 15, 2022	7:44-7:49am	Public safety and affordable housing were among the top issues up for debate last night between the two candidates for Lexington Mayor as well as the debate between six candidates vying for Council at-large seats. WUKY's Arlo Barnette has this recap.
WUKY's Morning Edition	September 19, 2022	7:44-7:49am	With Lexington on pace to set a new record for annual homicides, Mayor Linda Gorton joined community faith leaders downtown for a prayer vigil Monday.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	September 21, 2022	8:44-8:49am & 5:50-5:58pm	No matter how you feel about guns, the fact is that firearm-related deaths have been increasing in the United States since 2009. In 2020, more than 45,000 people died of gun-related injuries in this country — more than any year on record. Nine hundred of those deaths were in Kentucky, where firearms are the second-leading cause of death among children and teens. A team of researchers at the UK College of Medicine is interested in hearing a variety of opinions and experiences from young adults and parents of youth about guns. Dr. Greg talks with TK Logan, Ph.D., professor in the UK College of Medicine, about the new collaborative study.

WUKY's All Things Considered	September 29, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	A Lexington-based gun retailer has been sued by victims of a mass shooting in Illinois, claiming it sold an assault rifle to the alleged shooter.
------------------------------	--------------------	-------------	---

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the documentation and improvement of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion in Lexington and Central Kentucky.

WUKY's Weekend Edition	July 29, 2022	9:40-9:44am	He's arguably the most famous and infamous occupant of the historic Hopemont House and a new mini-exhibit by the Blue Grass Trust for Historic Preservation addresses the controversy of slave-holder John Hunt Morgan who conducted numerous Civil War raids into the North from his home base here in Lexington. WUKY's Alan Lytle recently took the tour and spoke with outreach coordinator Jackson Osborne and the trust's executive director Jonathan Coleman.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 2, 2022	4:44-4:49pm	Black and Williams Neighborhood Community Center has improved its community room to offer access to Wi-Fi, Chromebooks, and books for all ages. Josh James reports.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 3, 2022	5:44-5:49pm	The WoodSongs Old Time Radio Hour will continue to emanate from the Lyric Theatre in Lexington's historic East End neighborhood for at least the next 5 years. Mayor Linda Gorton, folksinger Michael Johnathon and the Lyric's Theatre and Cultural Arts Center Executive Director Whit Whitaker on Wednesday announced a renewal of the partnership that's been in place since the program relocated from the Kentucky Theatre in 2013.
WUKY's Morning Edition & All Things Considered	August 4, 2022	8:44-8:49am and 4:44-4:49pm	More than 500 businesses and individuals from our area are already registered to participate in the city's most inclusive business networking event, which is celebrating 20 years. Here's a preview of this week's Lexington Bluegrass Area Minority Business Expo.

--	--	--	--