Issues/Program List: 4th Quarter 2020

(October, November, December 2020)

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the COVID-19 Global Pandemic which will impact the health, quality of life, healthcare and potentially health care costs of Lexingtonians.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	October 14, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	Flu season, like everything else this year, is looking a whole lot different. The same preparation is involved, with pharmacies and doctor's offices preparing to give vaccinations for the flu season that generally runs from October to March, but with COVID-19 added to the mix, 2020's flu season should be taken more seriously than ever. In fact they are now mandatory for all UK students. Dr. Greg talks flu season and the pandemic with Dr. Derek Forster, medical director for Infection Prevention and Control at UK HealthCare.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	October 21, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	Vaping is linked to a substantially increased risk of COVID-19 among teenagers and young adults, according to a new study led by researchers at the Stanford University School of Medicine. As part of our ongoing COVID-19 coverage, Dr. Greg Davis talks about the study with Ellen Hahn, Marcia A. Drake Professor in the UK College of Nursing and Public Health, and Director of BREATHE including the Tobacco Policy Division, the Kentucky Center for Smoke-free Policy (KCSP), and the Radon Policy Division.
WUKY's All Things Considered	October 27, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	In early August, Kentucky's First Lady Brittainy Beshear and Lt. Governor Jaqueline Coleman kicked off the 'Coverings for Kids' program. The mission was to make sure children and educators had the face coverings they needed to be 'Healthy at School' by reducing the spread of the coronavirus when schools reopened. The First Lady said more than 150,000 masks have been given so far and this Friday, October 30th, the donation leg of the program will come to an end. Districts across the state will continue to give out masks as needed until the supply runs out.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	October 28, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	The 10th annual Sanders Brown Center on Aging's Markesbery Symposium is a virtual event due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Dr. Greg gets a preview on the major programming from Dr. Donna Wilcock, Assistant Dean for Biomedicine and Sweeney-Nelms Professor in Alzheimer's Research.

Voting In The Age Of COVID-19	November 2, 2020	6pm-7pm	Welcome to a special WUKY News program examining the topic of voting in the age of COVID-19. Hear from election officials, voters, political observers, and others grappling with the challenge of doing their civic duty - casting and counting ballots during a global pandemic.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 4, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	How does a caregiver care for someone during a pandemic? As part of its observance of National Family Caregivers Month throughout November, UK Elder Care and Work+Life Connections is hosting its 5th annual Senior Caregiving Conference Friday November 6th. Dr. Greg gets a preview of the all-virtual event from UK Eldercare Specialist Terri Weber.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 11, 2020	8:44-8:49am 4:50-4:58pm	The University of Kentucky, in partnership with Baptist Health Lexington and Norton Healthcare in Louisville, has been selected as a testing site for the Janssen Pharmaceutical Companies of Johnson & Johnson's Phase 3 clinical research study, called the ENSEMBLE trial, to evaluate Janssen's investigational COVID-19 vaccine candidate, JNJ-78436735, also known as Ad26.COV2.S. Dr. Greg speaks with UK Director of Clinical Operations Linda Rice about the effort.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 18, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	To date President-Elect Biden's task force on the COVID-19 pandemic does not have a representative from the nursing profession. This week Dr. Greg talks with Theresa Brown, nurse and author of the New York Times' Best Seller, The Shift - One Nurse, 12 Hours, Four Patients' Lives, about the critical role nurses are playing in the fight against the deadly virus outbreak.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	November 25, 2020	8:44-8:49am 4:50-4:58pm	The uncertainty brought on by the pandemic could have a profound impact on people's mental health — leading to increased feelings of anxiety and depression. Millions of people have lost their jobs; some have lost their homes or businesses. At the same time, isolation could compromise mental health — even as it protects physical health. Dr. Greg talks with Julie Cerel, a licensed psychologist and professor in the University of Kentucky College of Social Work.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	December 2, 2020	8:44-8:49am 4:50-4:58pm	Researchers in the University of Kentucky's College of Medicine and College of Engineering are testing a new technology to evaluate wastewater to track community presence of COVID-19. This week on Dr. Greg Davis On Medicine the host talks with James Keck, assistant Professor of Family and Community Medicine.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	December 23, 2020	8:44-8:49am 4:50-4:58pm	Before the end of the year, Kentucky is expected to receive around 38,000 doses of the Pfizer vaccine and 77,000 doses of the Moderna vaccine. This week Dr. Greg talks with Clark Kebodeaux, clinical associate professor of pharmacy practice and science at the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy, about what to expect during and after this vital rollout.

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the COVID 19 Global Pandemic which will impact the local economy and financial wellbeing of Lexingtonians as it applies to tourism, the local job market, opportunities for advancement and expansion of the local tax base.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
The Business Side	October 5, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	This week on the Business Side: we check in with Mark Green, Editorial Director of The Lane Report to talk about how Kentucky's hospitality industry is coping with COVID-19, luxury resorts in Eastern Kentucky, NASCAR and fresh tomatoes.
The Business Side	October 26, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	Millions of Americans are struggling to pay their bills as a result of the pandemic. Worse yet, a growing number are unable to put enough food on the table to feed themselves and their families. Fortunately, organizations like Nourish Lexington are consolidating resources to fight hunger right here in the local community.
WUKY's All Things Considered	October 29, 2020	5:50-5:58pm	No. It won't be like 2015 (after all how could it be in the age of COVID-19?) but Lexington is rolling out the virtual red carpet for horse fans across the world for the 2020 Breeders' Cup Festival. WUKY's Alan Lytle talks with festival chair Kip Cornett about what will be different and what will be improved upon this time around.
The Business Side	November 2, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	Tomorrow is election day and both candidates have vastly different strategies for managing the economy. On the Business Side this week, we talk about some of these economic points with Dr. Kenneth Troske, the Richard W. and Janis H. Furst Endowed Chair of Economics at UK's Gatton College of Business and Economics.
The Business Side	November 16, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce has published its recommendations for the 2021 legislative priorities, titled Road to Recovery. We spoke with President and CEO Ashli Watts about how Kentucky's economy might bounce back from the pandemic.
The Business Side	November 23, 2020	7:44-7:49am	Despite the economic devastation caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, several businesses in Lexington have opened in recent months, a sign of optimism and determination to bounce back and rejuvenate commerce in the community. One of the biggest projects to cut the ribbon this year is Lexington's historic Greyline Station.

The Business Side	November 30, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	Almost a month ago, we spoke with Dr. Kenneth Troske about the status of the economy approaching the election. He's back on the program today to give us an update now that the election appears to be over.
The Business Side	December 21, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	This week we talk with the owner of a business that breeds and releases mosquitos in their customers' yards. That might sound ludicrous, but the company MosquitoMate was recently celebrated by the U.S. Department of Commerce for their innovative approach to pest control; a celebrated accomplishment when considering we are still in the midst of a global pandemic.

Description of the issue: Civil Rights, Social Justice, Healing Racial Divides and Diversity matters including the Black Lives Matter Movement in the wake of recent deaths of George Floyd and Breonna Taylor.

WUKY's All Things Considered	October 2, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	Recordings of the Breonna Taylor grand jury proceedings have been made public by Kentucky Attorney General Daniel Cameron. On the tapes, investigative officials with the AG can be heard making the case that eventually led to just three wanton endangerment charges against one officer, Det. Brett Hankison.
Key Conversations	October 4, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	With pressure applied to Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear, he may appoint a new attorney to investigate the police involved in Breonna Taylor's shooting death. According to Atty. William Davis, Beshear has that authority. Part One of our Series on the Breonna Taylor death investigation. This episode is focused on the initial report of Kentucky AG Daniel Cameron about the Grand Jury charges.
WUKY's All Things Considered	October 8, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	Kentucky Attorney General Daniel Cameron says allowing an anonymous grand juror seeking legal permission to go public about the proceedings in the Breonna Taylor case could "irreversibly alter Kentucky's legal system."
Key Conversations	October 11, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	Part Two of a deep dive into the announcement of Kentucky Attorney General Daniel Cameron that none of the officers involved in the shooting death of Breonna Taylor would face criminal charges for her death. We have a real conversation about the law in Kentucky. Is it sufficient? Was it properly applied? What laws are needed for greater police accountability?

WUKY's All Things Considered	October 20, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	A judge has cleared the way for a grand juror to speak about proceedings in the case against the police officers who shot Breonna Taylor. An anonymous grand juror who sat on the panel last month had sued to speak publicly.
WUKY's All Things Considered	October 23, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	Following months of work through the summer, Mayor Linda Gorton's Commission for Racial Justice and Equality has delivered dozens of recommendations to her office. Formed in the wake of sustained protests in downtown Lexington, the commission has now handed over a condensed 67-page report with 54 recommendations in areas ranging from law enforcement reform to ideas about housing and gentrification.
Key Conversations	October 25, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	An interview with Amy McGrath, Democrat candidate for US Senate about the Breonna Taylor case and the Black Lives Matter movement in Kentucky. Plus, attorney William Davis provides analysis on the latest developments in the Taylor case.
Key Conversations	November 1, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	Part two of an interview with Amy McGrath, Democrat candidate for US Senate about the Breonna Taylor case and the Black Lives Matter movement in Kentucky. Plus, attorney William Davis provides analysis on the latest developments in the Taylor case.
Key Conversations	November 8, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	A recap of the 2020 election in Kentucky. Would progressive candidate Charles Booker have been a better choice to take on Republican incumbent Mitch McConnell? Plus, when the Urban County Council meets for the first time in January there will be some new faces around the horseshoe but only one person of color. We also discuss the election of new members to the Fayette County School Board.
Key Conversations	December 6, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	A conversation about the sudden death Fayette County Public Schools (FCPS) Superintendent Emmanuel "Manny" Caulk. He had great plans for FCPS and we will discuss some of his efforts. Also, what role will the Black community play in the selection of the next Superintendent?

Description of the issue: Debates, deliberations and major issues and milestones during the run-up to the 2020 Kentucky General Election.

WUKY's All Things Considered	October 5, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	Registration to vote in Kentucky ends Monday at 4:00 so now county clerks offices across the state are shifting focus to early voting and absentee ballots ahead of the November General Election. Here in Lexington, Fayette County Clerk Don Blevins Jr. announced that Garrett Morgan Elementary in the Hamburg Area and Wellington Elementary near Fayette Mall will be added to the list of polling locations. "Together all of these come to eight locations and just having the additional capacity because you can vote at any one of these is a big help."
Capitol Chat	October 5, 2020	7:44-7:49am	The first of two 6th Congressional District debates will take place later tonight on the CW Lexington as Republican Incumbent Andy Barr and Democrat challenger Josh Hicks face each other for an hour beginning at 7 p.m. To preview the matchup we turn once again to Laura Cullen Glasscock, the editor and publisher of the Kentucky Gazette.
Capitol Chat	October 12, 2020	7:44-7:49am	For months they've been taking shots at each other through the media, especially with increasingly vitriolic campaign ads but tonight Democrat Amy McGrath and Republican Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell will face each other in a televised debate on WKYT TV. For a preview of the match-up we turn once again to the editor and publisher of the Kentucky Gazette, Laura Cullen Glasscock.
Capitol Chat	October 19, 2020	7:44-7:49am	This week on Capitol Chat Kentucky Gazette editor and publisher Laura Cullen Glasscock provides a rundown of the competitive legislative races in Central Kentucky. While not on the ballot this time around Andy Beshear, the state's Democratic Governor, could be a factor in several.
WUKY's Morning Edition	October 19, 2020	8:44-8:49am	WUKY is bringing you a series of conversations we're calling "Misinformation Mondays" to get you the accurate information you need to know before casting that all-important ballot. Matt Young is with UK's Martin School of Public Policy and he's the 2020 Elections Fellow for the LexVote coalition, a non-partisan voter information and civic participation organization. You've got questions? He's got the answers.
WUKY's Morning Edition	November 2, 2020	8:44-8:49am	In our ongoing effort to clear up some misconceptions about the 2020 Elections WUKY and the LexVote coalition, a non-partisan voter information and civic participation continue our 'Misinformation Mondays' series of conversations. Alan Lytle talks one more time with LexVote Elections Fellow Matt Young. You've got questions? He's got the answers.

Voting In The Age Of COVID-19	November 2, 2020	6-7pm	Welcome to a special WUKY News program examining the topic of voting in the age of COVID-19. Hear from election officials, voters, political observers, and others grappling with the challenge of doing their civic duty - casting and counting ballots during a global pandemic.
Election Night Coverage	November 3, 2020	7-10pm	WUKY provided up to the minute results of the 2020 General Election in Kentucky with anchored live updates throughout the evening.
Capitol Chat	November 16, 2020	7:44-7:49am	As predicted election night in Kentucky was a good night for Republicans running for the legislature, but not so much for the Democrats. With the GOP solidly in charge of the General Assembly what does the Kentucky Democratic party do to rebound? For starters they elected Colmon Elridge the new state party chair. He's a former advisor to Governor Steve Beshear and he is the first African-American to lead the Democratic party in Kentucky. For some analysis we turn once again to Laura Cullen Glasscock, the editor and publisher of the Frankfort based Kentucky Gazette.
Capitol Chat	November 23, 2020	7:44-7:49am	Last week on WUKY's Capitol Chat we started a discussion about the Kentucky Democratic party and where they go after major losses in the last election. They gave the task of rebuilding the brand to Colmon Elridge, the first African American to hold the post. WUKY's Alan Lytle and Kentucky Gazette editor and publisher Laura Cullen Glasscock discuss the road ahead. They also discuss growing Republican opposition to new COVID-19 restrictions enacted by Democrat Governor Andy Beshear.

Description of the issue: City of Lexington, the Lexington-Fayette Health Department, Fayette County Public Schools and The University of Kentucky’s Response To the COVID-19 Pandemic (This is in addition to the daily updates from state officials too numerous to document here.)

WUKY’s All Things Considered	October 1, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Fayette County's COVID-19 data are among the last to be entered in the state's tracking system, according to the governor, but the local health department says it's working to increase staff as Lexington's case numbers climb.
WUKY’s All Things Considered	October 6, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Gov. Andy Beshear says the state will be stepping up enforcement of the administration's mask mandate amid rising COVID-19 case numbers. Beshear announced 1,054 new cases Tuesday, along with state plans to reinforce rules requiring face coverings in indoor public areas.
WUKY’s All Things Considered	October 13, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Fayette County school leaders are awaiting the results of a survey sent out to parents gauging their appetite for a return to in-person classes, even as data show coronavirus levels still high in the district. The survey, which runs through Wednesday, is asking parents to choose between an all-virtual learning plan or a hybrid model. The board is expected to take up the results at their October 26th meeting.
WUKY’s All Things Considered	October 20, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	With Kentucky's coronavirus indicators again on the rise, health officials are prepping for a surge that has the potential to overrun hospitals. The precautions come as the commonwealth recorded a day of new cases over 1,300, rising hospitalizations, and a positivity rate back above 5 percent.
WUKY’s Morning Edition	October 22, 2020	7:44-7:49am	Fayette County Public Schools will stick with remote learning at least until the end of the semester. With high numbers of positive cases of COVID-19 in Lexington, the Fayette County Public School Board held a special meeting Wednesday night to discuss the future of learning. Parents and guardians were asked to fill out a survey asking what direction they would like to see the district go in and more than 70% said they wanted a hybrid option.
WUKY’s All Things Considered	October 26, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Residents in Kentucky counties that go "red" during the ongoing coronavirus surge are being advised to observe new guidance from the governor's office. Citing a record number of red counties - those are regions with at least 25 new daily COVID cases per 100,000 residents - Gov. Andy Beshear is introducing new recommendations for those areas.
WUKY’s All Things Considered	October 28, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Kentucky's top health official is outlining how the state plans to launch its first rounds of COVID-19 vaccinations, once one or more are available. State Public Health

			Commissioner Dr. Steven Stack told lawmakers Wednesday that any vaccine will be phased in, with the first doses potentially available in early or mid-December for first responders.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 6, 2020	5:50-5:58pm	Lexington Mayor Linda Gorton is our guest to talk about the city's efforts to combat the COVID-19 pandemic which includes ramping up free testing sites in anticipation of a spike of new cases over the upcoming holiday season.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 17, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Tuesday marked the highest single-day number of deaths attributed to COVID-19 in Kentucky. The governor says new statewide steps to rein in the growing surge in cases will be announced Wednesday.
WUKY's All Things Considered	November 30, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Plans to distribute COVID-19 vaccines in Kentucky are taking shape, with the first shipments expected in December. Assuming the approval process keeps up its record-breaking pace, roughly 38,000 doses of the Pfizer vaccine could arrive in Kentucky as early as mid-December with around 78,000 of the Moderna vaccine to follow two weeks later.
WUKY's All Things Considered	December 7, 2020	4:45-4:48pm	Gov. Andy Beshear said Monday that groups in the next phase will include emergency responders, educators and people 70 and older. He says more than 26,000 vaccine doses have been administered so far in Kentucky. Beshear says 40 additional sites will receive doses for the first time this week. Health care workers along with residents and staff at long-term care facilities are at the top of the list for receiving vaccinations. The governor is urging patience as vaccine supplies eventually grow.
WUKY's All Things Considered	December 28, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Kentucky's governor says the state hopes to begin the next phase of COVID-19 vaccines at the start of February. Gov. Andy Beshear said Monday that groups in the next phase will include emergency responders, educators and people 70 and older. He says more than 26,000 vaccine doses have been administered so far in Kentucky. Beshear says 40 additional sites will receive doses for the first time this week. Health care workers along with residents and staff at long-term care facilities are at the top of the list for receiving vaccinations. The governor is urging patience as vaccine supplies eventually grow.
