

WUKY (FM) University of Kentucky

Issues/Program List: 3rd Quarter 2020

(July, August & September 2020)

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the COVID-19 Global Pandemic which will impact the health, quality of life, healthcare and potentially health care costs of Lexingtonians.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	July 1, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	This week Dr. Greg talks with Dr. Scottie Day , chair of the department of pediatrics for Kentucky Children's Hospital about newly released American Academy of Pediatrics' safety guidance for the reopening of schools this fall. He says while something looks good and prudent on paper, putting it into practice will likely be a challenge. He also talks about how the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic has put renewed emphasis on the expansion of telehealth options.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	July, 8, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:44-5:49pm	Coping with a global pandemic can try our patience, but Dr. Greg's guest, author Antonia Malchik , says walking could be an excellent way to gain some control over our health and circumstances.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	July, 15, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	Dr. Greg Davis is joined again by friend and colleague Dr. Vaneet Arora, faculty member in the department of pathology and laboratory medicine at UK HealthCare, to talk about COVID-19 (then and now) plus the latest on mask-wearing, test taking and new at-risk groups.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	July 22, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	Dr. Greg again talks with Scottie Day, physician in chief at Kentucky Children's Hospital about the American Academy of Pediatric's revised statement and guidelines on the reopening of schools this fall.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	July, 29, 2020	8:44-8:49am 4:50-4:58pm	This week Dr. Greg talks with Anthony Bardo, an assistant professor with a dual appointment in Healthy Society and Populations and the Department of Sociology in the UK College of Arts and Sciences , about what a post-COVID-19 'new normal' might look like.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	August 5, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	We all know coping with the coronavirus pandemic is a marathon, not a sprint and some of us are growing weary of the months and months of masking and social distancing. Dr. Greg talks again with Dr. Teresa Gevedon, medical director of the University of Kentucky HealthCare Outpatient Child and Adult Psychiatry Clinic, about ways we can cope with ongoing COVID stress.

Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	August 19, 2020	8:44-8:49am 4:50-4:58pm	This week on Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine we talk with UK Neuropsychologist Timothy Ainger about the rise of 'Toxic Stress' in our lives, especially in the age of COVID-19.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	August 26, 2020	8:44-8:49am 4:50-4:58pm	We step out of the usual Kentucky/US info bubble to get an international perspective on the global pandemic in smaller, more remote countries half a world away. Dr. Greg talks with Tara Loyd, executive director of the international group, Pivot, which is heavily involved in diagnosing and treating COVID-19 patients in Madagascar.
Back To School In The Age Of COVID	September 7, 2020	6pm-7pm	The WUKY News Team has produced a special program examining the topic of back to school. In this hour long report you hear from teachers, students, health professionals and university administrators all grappling with the challenge of education in the age of COVID-19.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	September 9, 2020	8:44-8:49am 4:50-4:58pm	As we continue to navigate the global pandemic more attention is being focused on a long sought after vaccine. Dr. Greg talks with Jerry Woodward, a professor of Microbiology, Immunology and Molecular Genetics who led a preclinical study at UK on one particular vaccine that shows promise. He also discusses the efficacy of producing a shot once a vaccine is tested and approved.
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	September 16, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50-5:58pm	From imposed lockdowns to travel bans — since early this year, countries, states and cities have used mandates and regulations as part of an effort to slow the spread of COVID-19. Now, popular destinations are in the process of reopening in phases. But you may be wondering — is it safe to travel? Dr. Greg Davis talks with Jason Hope, director of international health, safety and security at the University of Kentucky .
Dr. Greg Davis on Medicine	September 30, 2020	8:44-8:49am 5:50 5:58pm	With the typical flu season just around the corner what sort of complications can we expect with our ongoing battle with COVID-19? This week Dr. Greg Davis talks again with Vaneet Arora, associate professor of pathology and laboratory medicine at UK HealthCare, about what we should expect when the two overlap.

Description of the issue: Matters pertaining to the COVID 19 Global Pandemic which will impact the local economy and financial wellbeing of Lexingtonians as it applies to tourism, the local job market, opportunities for advancement and expansion of the local tax base.

Program	Date	Time	Description of the program/Segment
The Business Side	July 6, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	More and more owners are looking to the government for help and guidance, agencies like the U.S. Small Business Administration, which reopened the portal this month for Economic Injury Disaster Loan programs.
The Business Side	July 13, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	Times like these there's so much news it can be overwhelming. So, this week on the Business Side we're checking in with Mark Green, the Editorial Director of The Lane Report , for a recap of some headlines in the recent week.
The Business Side	July 20, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	This week on the Business Side: the inaugural episode in a new series focusing on business owners of color. Dan Collins talks with Raquel Carter, the Owner and Principal Broker of Guide Realty, about her path to success.
WUKY's Morning Edition	July 21, 2020	7:44-7:49am	WUKY News Director Alan Lytle is back from his staycation visiting various sites across Central Kentucky, including Ashland, The Henry Clay Estate, The Mary Todd Lincoln House, The Kentucky History Center and Buffalo Trace Distillery. He shares his observations and talks about his COVID experiences with Karyn Czar.
The Business Side	July 27, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	This week on the Business Side we revisit a familiar topic with a new guest, Associate Director of Alumni Career Services at UK, Amanda Schagane.
WUKY's Weekend Edition	August 1, 2020	9:36a-9:40a	It's human nature to want to be social, even in the midst of a global pandemic. Thanks to a spike in COVID-19 cases here in the Commonwealth, we're still being asked to wear our masks and practice social distancing; but this is also the heart of the summer tourism season, especially for Kentucky's signature bourbon industry. Distilleries were allowed to reopen to the public in late June, so WUKY's Alan Lytle recently dropped in on Buffalo Trace Distillery in Frankfort to see how they're handling our new normal.

The Business Side	August 3, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	With the national unemployment rate in double digits and the worst quarterly contraction in GDP in U.S. history, the American people are facing an unprecedented economic crisis. But a recent study conducted by the popular website Wallethub suggests that some U.S. cities are bouncing back quicker than others. Good news for Kentuckians: Lexington and Louisville claim the top two spots on that list.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 6, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	If the state's Coronavirus numbers continue into a plateau, Governor Andy Beshear may reopen bars next week but they won't look the same as they did before the virus hit Kentucky. The statewide cases from Monday to Wednesday this week were down by about a hundred from the same time period last week. That could be good news for some businesses. Last week Beshear issued a mandate closing bars and had restaurants drop back down from 50% indoor capacity to 25% because of escalating cases of COVID-19. While the positivity rate went up slightly Wednesday, 5.51% compared to 5.24% on Tuesday, there was hope from public health officials that the number of positive cases were holding steady.
The Business Side	August 10, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	There are several resources available in the community for job seekers, such as the Central KY Job Club , but what about folks that want to start their own business? Where does a young entrepreneur take his or her idea?
The Business Side	August 17, 2020	6:44-8:49am 8:44-8:49am	This week on The Business Side we hear the amazing story of Albert Lukonga, the Creator of Albert Couture .

The Business Side	August 24, 2020	6:44-6:49am 8:44-8:49am	Dan Collins talks about the Economic Recovery and Resilience Project with Dr. Alison Davis, the Director of the Community and Economic Development Initiative of Kentucky (CEDIK) and the H.B. Price Professor of Agricultural Economics at the University of Kentucky.
The Business Side	August 31, 2020	6:44-6:49am 8:44-8:49am	This week we check in with the folks over at Business Lexington for an overview of some exciting stories taking place in the local business community, including an update on Lexington Burger Week .
The Business Side	September 14, 2020	6:44-6:49am 8:44-8:49am	In this segment, we get a lesson in economics and uncover some of the hidden costs of the pandemic. We'll talk about the value of household production with Dr. Kenneth Troske, the Richard W. and Janis H Furst Endowed Chair of Economics at UK's Gatton College of Business and Economics.
The Business Side	September 28, 2020	6:44-6:49am 8:44-8:49am	In the second part of our segment on household production we again talk about and uncover some of the hidden costs of the pandemic with Dr. Kenneth Troske, the Richard W. and Janis H Furst Endowed Chair of Economics at UK's Gatton College of Business and Economics.

Description of the issue: Civil Rights, Social Justice and Diversity matters which will impact the well-being and quality of life of Lexingtonians.

Key Conversations	July 5, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	Primary election results, Reverends Nathel Moore and Keith Tyler on social justice reforms to Mayor Linda Gorton, history of the Aunt Jemima character which has Kentucky ties.
Key Conversations	July 12, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	Protests and Politics, guest Louisville Representative Attica Scott, plus a discussion on the upcoming Kentucky general election.
Key Conversations	July 19, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	Death of Congressman John Lewis, an update on the Breonna Taylor case involving the Louisville Police Department and the Mayor's office, and an interview with Tia and Shawn Edwards, owners of Fresh Bourbon Distillery.

Key Conversations	July 26, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	Funeral of Congressman John Lewis, plus a discussion of his life and legacy with former Lewis Congressional staffer Jacob Gillison.
-------------------	---------------	-------------	-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Key Conversations	August 2, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	An update on Lexington Mayor Linda Gorton's Commission For Racial Justice and Equality. Guest: Dr. Gary Potter, ECU professor emeritus in the College of Justice and Safety.
Key Conversations	August 9, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	Part Two of discussion on Mayor's Commission For Racial Justice And Equality, plus an update on the Breonna Taylor shooting case in Louisville.
Key Conversations	August 23, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	A recap of the Democratic National Convention, plus a discussion of COVID-19, Public Schools, Sports, and College Students.
Key Conversations	August 30, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	A roundup of recent shootings of unarmed Black individuals at the hands of police officers, the death of Black Panther lead actor Chadwick Boseman, and a recap of the Republican National Convention.
The Business Side	September 20, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	An interview with Jim Coleman, restorer of his family farm in Fayette County plus a report on the group Black Soil, which encourages Black owned farmers to hold onto their land, and a conversation with Fayette County Clerk Don Blevins Jr. about the upcoming Kentucky general election.
Key Conversations	September, 27, 2020	7:01-7:59pm	A discussion of the Breonna Taylor shooting case with former Deputy Attorney General William Davis.

Description of the issue: Debates, deliberations and major issues and milestones during the run-up to the 2020 Kentucky General Election.

WUKY's Morning Edition	July 1, 2020	7:44-7:49am	The 2020 Kentucky Primary is now in the books, and the field is set for the general election in the fall. The race everyone was watching was which Democrat was going to get the nod to take on Republican incumbent Mitch McConnell who is going for a 7th term. Joining WUKY's Alan Lytle for a special post-primary edition of Capitol Chat is the editor and publisher of the Frankfort based Kentucky Gazette, Laura Cullen Glasscock.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 6, 2020	5:44-5:48pm	On Thursday, at the corner of Vine and Mill Streets in Lexington, The Breaking the Bronze Ceiling statue is being installed. The 20 foot statue by Arizona artist Barbara Grygutis features five figures of suffragists and commemorates the day women obtained the right to vote.

WUKY's All Things Considered	August 11, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Kentucky's top election official is weighing in against expanded mail-in voting in November. But the plan only represents a first step toward negotiations with the governor.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 14, 2020	5:32-5:36pm	Kentucky will allow any voter concerned about contracting or spreading COVID-19 to vote absentee in the November general election. The state will also be expanding early voting and election day voting in a bid to keep any one option from overloading the system.
WUKY's Morning Edition	August 19, 2020	7:44-7:49am	The Kentucky women who led the fight for their right to vote were honored Wednesday night as Lexington officially lit Stand, a statue commemorating the 100th anniversary of the 19th Amendment.
WUKY's Morning Edition	August 23, 2020	8:44-8:49am	Protestors in Lexington took part in a nationwide demonstration on Saturday morning, showing their support for the United States Postal Service and calling for a change in leadership. Arlo Barnette has details.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 28, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	August 2020 marks the 100th anniversary of the high water mark of the Women's Suffrage movement with the adoption of the 19th Amendment securing the right to vote for millions of women in this country, but sadly not much first-hand account audio of this historic achievement exists. In this edition of WUKY's award-winning history program, Saving Stories, Nunn Center Director Dr. Doug Boyd shares audio from a 1990 interview with Austin P. Lilly , daughter of Kentucky suffragette Anna Dudley McGinn Lilly. Austin and her mother attended the 1920 National American Women's Suffrage Association Convention in Chicago; along with a who's who of other Kentucky notables including Madeline McDowell Breckinridge and Sophonisba Breckenridge.
WUKY's Morning Edition	September 14, 2020	7:44-7:49am	Capital Chat returns with a closer look at the three-way race in Kentucky's Sixth Congressional District pitting Republican incumbent Andy Barr against Democrat Josh Hicks and Libertarian Frank Harris. Kentucky Gazette editor and publisher Laura Cullen Glasscock and WUKY's Alan Lytle discuss the state of the race so far.

WUKY's All Things Considered	September 17, 2020	5:32-5:36pm	Lexington voters will have six in-person polling sites to choose from when voting in the general election, but the city will be encouraging residents to vote by mail in possible.
WUKY's Morning Edition	September 21, 2020	7:44-7:49am	Millions of dollars are being spent to influence your vote in Kentucky's US Senate race between Democrat Amy McGrath and GOP incumbent Mitch McConnell. As Kentucky Gazette editor and publisher Laura Cullen Glasscock tells us much of the money comes from outside groups. One in particular says it will spend $10M on behalf of McConnell , part of an overall strategy of keeping the Senate under GOP control.
WUKY's Morning Edition	September 28, 2020	7:44-7:49am	The first of two 6th Congressional District debates will take place later tonight on the CW Lexington as Republican Incumbent Andy Barr and Democrat challenger Josh Hicks face each other for an hour beginning at 7 p.m. To preview the matchup we turn once again to Laura Cullen Glasscock, the editor and publisher of the Kentucky Gazette .
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 28, 2020	5:32-5:36pm	Kentucky election officials are working on a system that will both notify absentee voters of mistakes made when filling out their ballots and give them a chance to fix them.

Description of the issue: City of Lexington, the Lexington-Fayette Health Department, Fayette County Public Schools and The University of Kentucky's Response To the COVID-19 Pandemic (This is in addition to the daily updates from state officials too numerous to document here.)

WUKY's All Things Considered	July 1, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	New novel coronavirus cases and deaths from COVID-19 more than doubled in Lexington in June, while the city set a single-day record for cases on July 1 (excluding the Federal Medical Center outbreak). That's according to the Fayette County Health Department, where local health officials worry those numbers are destined to climb if residents don't take the advice of experts seriously.
WUKY's All Things Considered	July 6, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	State-issued guidance for reopening schools answered many of the big questions surrounding how classes might look in the age of COVID, but some details remain murky for the district leaders.

WUKY's All Things Considered	July 9, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Kentucky higher education officials are taking a wait-and-see approach toward a new Trump administration rule that would revoke the visas of international students if their classes are held fully online.
WUKY's All Things Considered	July 10, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	The Kentucky Board of Education voted through a series of COVID-19-related emergency waivers Friday in a bid to untangle issues like attendance and funding. Yet some members noted a growing chorus of concern about reopening plans among teachers and parents as fall start dates approaches.
WUKY's All Things Considered	July 21, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	The University of Kentucky plans to test up to 30,000 returning students for the coronavirus as the fall semester approaches.
WUKY's All Things Considered	July 23, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	The upcoming school year will begin virtually for Fayette County students, following a unanimous decision by the district's school board.
WUKY's All Things Considered	July, 29, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Kentucky lawmakers pressed the state's acting epidemiologist on how the administration counts test results and deaths linked to COVID-19 Wednesday.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 3, 2020	4:45-4:48pm	More than 30-thousand students arriving on UK's campus in the next few weeks for the start of the fall semester will be required to get tested for COVID-19. UK Police Chief Joe Monroe said its part of the University's overall culture of trying to make a healthy environment for students, faculty and staff amid the coronavirus pandemic.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 4, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	With rising COVID-19 cases comes an escalating demand for tests. Here's a look at what's available and coming online in Lexington.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 6, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Free COVID-19 testing has been expanded for employees working on the University of Kentucky campus. Starting Monday, the same on-campus testing sites being used for students will be open to employees. UK employees aren't required to take the test before returning to on-site work.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 10, 2020	4:32-4:36pm	Kentucky schools, restaurants, and bars received new guidance Monday as the state adapts its strategy in the ongoing fight against COVID-19.

WUKY's All Things Considered	August 17, 2020	5:44-5:48pm	As we reported last week, a few hundred schools will be opening in Kentucky this week, despite the Governor's recommendation to wait until September 28th. We were given an in-depth tour and went through Coronavirus safety procedures at Lexington Christian Academy. School leaders say they are ready.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 18, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Kentucky superintendents and school board representatives say the latest coronavirus-related delay is putting local school leaders in a difficult spot and sparking serious backlash among parents.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 21, 2020	4:32-4:36pm	Kentucky high school sports would begin the fall season as planned on September 7th under a plan approved by the state high school athletic association board Thursday, but the decision faces a number of hurdles.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 27, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	With Lexington losing six teenagers to gun violence since late April, city leaders are pleading with community members to guide at-risk youth to support services.
Back To School In The Age Of COVID-19	September 7, 2020	6-7pm	The WUKY News Team has produced a special program examining the topic of back to school. In this hour long report you hear from teachers, students, health professionals and university administrators all grappling with the challenge of education in the age of COVID-19.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 14, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Local school districts in Kentucky will soon have more say - and more responsibility - when it comes to restarting in-person classes.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 15, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Noting that sports broadcasts are slowly returning to the airwaves, Gov. Andy Beshear is pushing back the curfew placed on bars and restaurants.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 25, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	With positive university cases helping drive up the COVID-19 incidence rate in Fayette County, public school leaders are concerned that could prolong virtual-only learning for K-12 students.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 28, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	The Fayette County School Board has set target dates for a phased return to in-person learning amid the COVID-19 pandemic, but the schedule remains tentative until the board receives further details on the proposals.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 30, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Fayette County's COVID-19 data are among the last to be entered in the state's tracking system, according to the governor, but the local health department says it's working to increase staff as Lexington's case numbers climb.

Description of the issue: The Black Lives Matter Movement and associated racial and social justice protests in the wake of recent deaths of George Floyd and Breonna Taylor.

WUKY's Weekend Edition	July 4, 2020	8:34-8:39am	On July 5th, 1852, Fredrick Douglass stood before a racially mixed audience in Rochester, New York and made a scorching rebuke of America's Independence Day. That speech was later published in his autobiography under the title "What to the Slave is the Fourth of July?" WUKY's Alan Lytle talks about Douglass's famous speech and its relevance, almost 160 years later, with Professor of History and of African American and Africana Studies at the University of Kentucky, Dr. Vanessa Holden.
WUKY's Morning Edition WUKY's All Things Considered	July 9, 2020	7:44-7:49am 4:04-4:06:30pm	In this latest edition of WUKY's award winning history program Saving Stories, Dr. Doug Boyd with the Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History in the UK Libraries presents audio from a collection of interviews Robert Penn Warren conducted in 1964 on the unfolding Civil Rights Movement. On April 27, 1964 Penn Warren battled through equipment issues to have a candid conversation with James Baldwin. The author, lecturer and activist was featured in the recent Academy Award nominated documentary "I Am Not Your Negro."
WUKY's Morning Edition	July 9, 2020	8:04-8:06am	Former Lexington Police Chaplain Donovan Stewart is retiring from the department and filing a lawsuit claiming he and his family have been victims of "outrageous lies" spread by organizers of recent racial justice protests.
WUKY's All Things Considered	July 15, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	87 demonstrators with the group Until Freedom were taken into custody after they marched to the Louisville home of Daniel Cameron, chanted on the streets and staged a sit-in on the Attorney General's front lawn. They were demanding justice for Breonna Taylor. 87 were arrested.
WUKY's All Things Considered	July 24, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	Lexington officials have taken the first step toward renaming Cheapside Park, a popular downtown venue that once served as a slave-trading market. Meanwhile, members of University of Kentucky's African-American and Africana Studies Department are demanding more action from the university to make it a more inclusive place for all students and staff.

WUKY's Weekend All Things Considered	July 25, 2020	5:36-5:41pm	Three members of the NFAC, which stands for Not Fking Around Coalition were shot Saturday when a weapon was accidentally discharged while the militia group gathered at a park before marching through downtown Louisville. Louisville Metro Police confirmed that two people were taken to the hospital and the injuries were minor. The march went on and NPAC members headed to Jefferson Square Park to join Black Lives Matter protestors.
WUKY's All Things Considered	July 31, 2020	5:50-5:58pm	Lexington Mayor Linda Gorton joined us for a brief update on how businesses are handling recent restrictions to help slow the spread of the Coronavirus. On Tuesday, bars across the state were required to close for two weeks and restaurants had to roll back from 50% capacity down to 25%.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 4, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	In this edition of WUKY's award winning history series "Saving Stories" Alan Lytle and Dr. Doug Boyd with the Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History in the UK Libraries, discuss the 100th anniversary of the Negro Leagues. Hear audio from a 1982 interview with Baseball Hall of Famer Willard Brown; a contemporary of Jackie Robinson, Larry Doby and Satchell Paige, but whose major league experience did not last nearly as long. Find out why in this edition of Saving Stories.
WUKY's All Things Considered	August 28, 2020	4:45-4:58pm	On the heels of the NBA and WNBA strikes against systemic racism, the UK football team walked off the practice field yesterday/Thursday to support protests against racial injustice. Defensive lineman Josh Paschal and offensive lineman Luke Fortner, the Wildcat's Unity Council Leaders, had a virtual meeting saying the team wants to create real change and "not just talk about it."
WUKY's Morning Edition	August 28, 2020	7:44-7:49am	The name change was spurred by the group Take Back Cheapside which also lobbied to have statues of Confederate leaders John Hunt Morgan and John C. Breckenridge relocated nearly three years ago. Thursday night, city council members voted unanimously to change the name of the park where the statues stood and where slaves were once sold outside the courthouse. The park now honors Henry Tandy, a former slave who became a free man and one of the most successful masons in Kentucky.

WUKY's All Things Considered	August 31, 2020	4:32-4:36pm	Kentucky's attorney general has received a long-awaited ballistics report in the police shooting of Breonna Taylor. Attorney General Daniel Cameron tweeted Sunday that there is additional analysis needed now that the report is in his hands. He says there will be no announcement on the investigation this week.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 2, 2020	4:32-4:36pm	A lawyer for Breonna Taylor's family said prosecutors offered a plea deal to an accused drug trafficker that would have forced him to implicate Taylor in criminal activity after her killing by police had pushed her name to the forefront of a national reckoning on race. Louisville's top prosecutor said the document was not an attempt to smear Taylor but was part of preliminary plea negotiations with a man charged with illegal drug trafficking. Meanwhile, Kentucky Republican leaders say the governor and the mayor of Louisville aren't doing enough to address ongoing unrest in the heart of the city - and it's time for more action from Frankfort.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 15, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	The city of Louisville will pay several million dollars to the mother of Breonna Taylor and install police reforms as part of a settlement of a lawsuit from Taylor's family. A person who has seen the settlement says it would be the largest sum paid by the city for a police misconduct case.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 23, 2020	4:44-4:48pm	A grand jury has indicted a fired Kentucky police officer on criminal charges in the Breonna Taylor case — but not for her death. Brett Hankison was charged Wednesday with three counts of wanton endangerment for firing into the apartments of Taylor's neighbors. Taylor was shot multiple times by officers who burst into her home on March 13 during a narcotics investigation. Kentucky Attorney General Daniel Cameron is defending the grand jury indictment of a single officer involved in the Breonna Taylor case as consistent with the rule of law. The top law enforcement official said his responsibility was to follow the facts, not public opinion.

WUKY's Morning Edition	September 24, 2020	7:44-7:49am	Demonstrators lined streets in downtown Lexington Wednesday night, joining protesters in Louisville and major cities across the nation in expressing their dismay with a Kentucky grand jury decision in the Breonna Taylor case. Two Louisville Metro Police Officers are recovering after being shot during unrest in the city Wednesday night. and a suspect has been identified. 26-year-old Larynzo D. Johnson charged with two counts of assault on a police officer and 14 counts of wanton endangerment of a police officer. An LMPD spokesperson says they have obtained video showing Johnson firing at police.
WUKY's Weekend All Things Considered	September 26, 2020	5:36-5:41pm	"Welcome come on in! Food up the ramp. Bathrooms that way!" Pastor Dawn Cooley shouted to the growing crowd Friday night. The Director of the KY Unitarian Justice Action Network was just one of the pastors who guided hundreds of demonstrators into First Unitarian Church. They had been in Jefferson Square Park and marching through the city earlier in the day, still angry over the announcement from KY Attorney General Daniel Cameron that only one officer who executed a no-knock warrant at Breonna Taylor's apartment that led to her fatal shooting last March would be charged.
WUKY's All Things Considered	September 30, 2020	5:44-5:49pm	Kentucky's attorney general is asking a court to delay the release of secret grand jury proceedings in Breonna Taylor's killing by police just as audio recordings were set to be made public.