Making college more attainable for more young people by starting the saving process early, through parents, guardians and other family members.

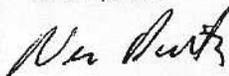

We have a number of new options that allow people to set money aside in advance that won't "break the bank," while still caring for a young persons other needs. Starting saving as a holiday gift is especially easy. More state funding will help spread the message so that all of the money to pursue higher education does not have to come at the last minute.
