

Community Issues and Program

2022 NEWS

Jan - Mar	Date	Time	Description of News segment	Other Misc comments
1	5	1'12"	Hawaii reports 2,611 new COVID cases, bringing statewide total to 126,067	The state Department of Health is reporting 2,611 new COVID-19 cases on Wednesday amid an ongoing surge in infections. The latest cases bring the statewide total since the start of the pandemic to 126,067.
1	28	1'27"	Pain at the pump: Oil prices soar to their highest levels since 2014	According to a new report from AAA Hawaii, residents are having to shell out more cash at the gas pump. The average price of gas in Hawaii is now $4.38. That's up 4 cents since last week.
1	28	1'19"	Police union says HPD staffing shortages are putting officers and the public at risk	Honolulu Police Department vacancies, COVID staffing shortages and leave are taking a toll on response times and officer safety, the head of the police union says.
1	31	1'02"	State approves redrawing of election maps based on new demographics	Under the redistricting, Oahu will lose one house seat, while Hawaii Island is gaining one, due to shifting population counts.
2	7	1'09"	Troubling test results show elevated levels of bacteria in Kaneohe Bay	Recent water testing conducted by the Surfrider Foundation's Blue Water Task Force shows elevated levels of pollution in Kaneohe Bay.
2	10	1'16"	'We need leaders we can trust': Green makes his run for governor official	While he has a lead in the polls and in fundraising, other contenders for the seat say he's no shoe-in.
2	18	1'25"	Former Mayor Kirk Caldwell wants to prioritize affordable housing in run for governor	Former Honolulu Mayor Kirk Caldwell says he wants to prioritize the affordable housing crisis if elected governor.
2	23	1'05"	Man who applied for job at Hawaii bank accused of hacking their system	Officials said the man pretended to apply for a job at the bank to get access to employee information.
2	23	1'17"	DOE gives green light for in-person commencement ceremonies	While the pandemic limited previous commencement ceremonies, the state Department of Education released guidelines Wednesday to allow for in-person graduation.

