Law and social standards and breaking stereotypes in society and evaluating interpersonal relationships affecting and discussed by individuals living and working in Central Florida affecting and discussed by individuals living and working in Central Florida.	Local newspapers, social media requests, gbt websites, student organization input & caller requests. As is the general goal of the show, we deal with important topics in current affairs: global, national, and local. We introduce analysis that usually remains in academic circles and/or alternative media to the general public with a relaxed and entertaining and non-partisan attitude. There is nothing even remotely similar to this in Central Florida and it brings aspects of Rollins education to the local community.	We discussed the Ukrainian crisis and peeled off the layers of the mainstream media propaganda about it. This took us to the subsequent topics (2)-(4) listed above.
5/14/2014 11:38:07	Outloud Orlando	5/13/2014	(1) Ukraine crisis (2) US and EU economic policy and foreign policy (3) Thomas Piketty and his best selling important economics book: Capital in the 21st Century (2013) (4) Economics, media, and propaganda Guys with Tes Philanthropy. Their mission is to partner and raise money with local charities that focus on special needs of the Central Florida community by planning exciting, themed parties throughout the year.	Guys with Tes has been a prominent leader in promoting local charities. It is an established organization in Central Florida and beyond. We gave a voice to our local high-school students from Winter Park High School and discuss their concerns in the broader policy context based on my academic research and experience in this topic. The problems with the education system is one of the main issues concerning the majority of the population and is a particularly sore point in Florida. It is also full of misconceptions and propaganda, yet our futures depend on it significantly--so it's a perfect local and global issue for Punkonomics to tackle and we'll do it on a regular basis hopefully with more local kids as guests.	The importance of volunteering for local charities to promote growth and a sense of community.

In-studio guest was a local high-school student who collected comments from some of his cohorts for us to discuss on the air. He reported these and added his own opinions and analysis. We made several connections between these issues and broader economic, pedagogical, and socio-reform. We introduced many current debates, data, and analysis from the professional academic realm to these local personal issues.

We raised the question of the media reporting improved employment environment and how it is only part-time and min wage jobs instead of jobs that can provide reasonable cost of living without having to resort to multiple jobs. The bear issue was used as a comparison to where are the priorities in our present day government when they will allocate more money than needed for the bear research, however not enough for the homeless problems here in Florida We raised the question of the media reporting improved employment environment and how it is only part-time and min wage jobs instead of jobs that can provide reasonable cost of living without having to resort to multiple jobs. The bear issue was used as a comparison to where are the priorities in our present day government when they will allocate more money than needed for the bear research, however not enough for the homeless problems here in Florida We had two guest on the show Orville Meaux a Medical Marijuana Clinic owner and Neil Vegoner Director of PR for NORML. We discussed how several political entities are trying to manipulate the changes in federal law in relation to provisions added to only allow big business or corporations dispense and profit, while at the same time excluding Mom and Pop business owners to also be part of producing and dispensing Medical Marijuana. How big business may indeed make it unaffordable for the patients by controlling access and price. We went over the process of putting together a Medical Marijuana clinic, the laws and the cost of operating and how the IRS and the Federal Government is pushing out business owners out of business by not allowing tax deductions for these dispensaries.
6/20/2014 16:34:35	Punkonomics	6/11/2014	Unemployment and local government. Bear research and proposed budget.	Bringing awareness to the community at large on these two issues is important because in today's present economy, the community needs to be informed how taxes are being allocated and who are benefiting from it.
6/20/2014 16:34:53	Punkonomics	6/18/2014	Medical Marijuana initiative, Floridas reaction to the proposition and potential consequences in the work place. How the federal law may not cover enough areas such as interstate travel with medication.	It is important because most citizens have been subjected by the media to mostly negative one side of the medical Marijuana issues and with the initiative it is important to have information that is balance as this issue affects many people who are sick that can benefit from natural medication and also from an economic point of view the passing of the initiative may also create jobs in Florida.
