Issue: Teen Suicide

The clinical director for the Society for the Prevention of Teen Suicide, Maureen Underwood, spoke to Midland School officials about the causes of teen suicide, and programs that help prevent it. Underwood says about 16 percent of all high school students have serious thoughts about suicide. Problems with their home life, relationships at school, and frustrations with their lifestyle add to the tension. (5:00)

Issue: Ector County Physical Activity Coalition

Medical Center Hospital spokeswoman Diana Ruiz and Ector County Health Department director Gino Solla discuss health survey results that show Ector County with one of the worst records in the state for heart disease and other health problems. The coalition was formed to use a $50,000 grant to promote healthier lifestyles. A year long media campaign is planned to encourage people to improve their diet and exercise more. (10:00)

Issue: Midland Police community relations

Midland Police Chief Price Robinson discusses how his department worked with the public during a recent ice storm. He then talks with Robert Hallmark and Macey Merrigi about the relationship his department has with the community in light of recent police confrontations in Ferguson, Missouri and New York City. He says Midland's relationship with the public is much more cordial. (15:00)

Issue: "No refusal" DWI program

Ector County Attorney Dusty Gallivan has led an effort to speed up the process for getting search warrants to draw blood samples from DWI suspects. He and law enforcement officials have developed computer programs to allow officers to draw up "probable cause" applications for search warrants. Those applications can be e-mailed to district judges for their consideration. If they approve the search warrant request, they can e-mail that back to the officer. A process that used to take three or four hours has been reduced to about 45 minutes. This allows blood samples to be taken while blood-alcohol level evidence is still valid.
(20:00)

Issue: teacher housing

The Ector County School District has purchased the Chancellor House, where up to 32 teachers can find a place to stay after moving to Odessa. Housing for new teachers moving to town are at a premium during the oil boom, even with a current downturn in oil prices. The Chancellor House was originally built in 1938 as housing for teachers, so its purpose has returned to its original intent. (6:00)

Issue: Highway projects

The Texas Department of Transportation has begun accepting applications for highway projects across the state that will be funded through the new Proposition One program approved by voters in November of 2014. Odessa Tex Dot spokesman Gene Powell talks about five projects suggested by highway engineers from this region.

Issue: Courthouse demolition
Midland Mayor Jerry Morales and architect Gary Vandergriff discuss plans to tear down the old Midland County Courthouse and two other downtown office buildings. The demolition will make room for future development, possibly of a new hotel and modern office buildings. Mayor Morales says the 4th of July festival has been moved from the downtown area because of the demolition. (10:00)

Issue: transportation funding
Midland Odessa Transportation Alliance director James Beauchamp discusses the significance of a visit by Federal Highway Administration official Al Alonzi to a MOTRAN luncheon. Beauchamp talks about the importance of dedicating local transportation funds to local mobility projects, not maintenance of existing interstate highways in the region. Alonzi talks about the need for setting regional priorities for highway projects while not expecting as much help from federal highway tax resources. (17:00)

Midland County Judge Mike Bradford holds a ribbon cutting for the new 52-thousand square foot Midland Horseshoe Pavilion, a place for conventions, concerts, trade shows, and meetings. The 26-million dollar facility was financed through sales tax revenues and was completed without debt. It complements the Horseshoe Arena, which can now be used strictly for livestock events. (7:00)

Issue: Tall City Tomorrow
Midland City spokeswoman Sara Bustilloz previews public workshop meetings to gather information for Tall City Tomorrow. The program will update the city's comprehensive plan regarding housing development, public parks, recreational facilities, and city land use. A special online forum has been created to let people submit ideas on the city's website. (7:00)

Issue: Midland County Public Library
Chief Librarian John Trischitti talks about a new bookmobile that will be added to the library program. The bookmobile will make library materials and a computer mobile wi-fi hot spot available to remote areas of the county. It will make visits to children's events and to homes for seniors. (7:30)

Issue: Permian Basin Honor Flight
Permian Basin Honor Flight spokesman Jeremy West talks about plans to send more World War Two and Korean War veterans to Washington D.C. memorials in May and September. He wants veterans who did not get a chance to go on the first trip last September to have a chance to go on future trips. (5:00)

Program: WEST TEXAS UPDATE
Date: 03/22/2015
Time: 9:30am
Total Duration: 29:45

Issue: Early childhood education

Midland School Superintendent Dr. Ryder Warren says the district has voluntarily cut off federal funding for the Head Start Program. Instead, they will encourage all pre-schoolers to enter their Early Childhood program, which is funded by the state. Dr. Warren says more children will be served in a program that emphasizes academics more than socialization. He says the Early Childhood program will help students toward the goal of reading at grade level by third grade. (5:30)

Issue: UTPB football program

UTPB head football coach Justin Carrigan discusses the procedure for starting up a brand new football program and recruiting players when the program will not play any games for another year. Carrigan says the program will offer opportunities for more high school players who would like to pursue a college education. (17:00)

Issue: environment

The Big Bend National Park fire management team will conduct a prescribed burn of exotic river cane along the banks of the Rio Grande River. Fire Management officer Ed Waldron says removing the river cane is needed to allow the river to flow naturally. It also helps with flood control. (6:00)

Issue: Hunger

The West Texas Food Bank holds a ceremony to mark the acquisition of a 20-thousand square foot warehouse in northwest Midland. Director Libby Campbell says it will provide a place not only to store food, but teach nutrition in a demonstration kitchen and grow vegetables in an underground greenhouse. The Food Bank is building an additional facility in Odessa to replace a smaller distribution center on Second Street in Odessa. (5:00)

Issue: Water Resources

The Midland County Commissioners purchase some property in Winkler County to obtain water rights to underground sources. County Judge Mike Bradford hopes it will give them reserves to be a buffer against severe drought for the next 50 years. (5:30)

Issue: Sexually Oriented Businesses

The Ector County Commissioners approve a revised ordinance to regulate both fully nude and semi nude nightclubs in the county. The new ordinance closes a loophole that exempted semi-nude clubs from having their employees licensed by the sheriff's department. The licensing process allows deputies to conduct criminal background checks on the employees. They hope to prevent persons with records of sex crimes from working at the clubs. County Attorney Dusty Gallivan talks about efforts to cut criminal activity that tends to gravitate to these types of establishments. (17:00)

The director of the Commemorative Air Force's High Sky Wing, Bill Coombs, discusses the local participation in the preservation of vintage World War Two aircraft. Amid the controversy of moving the CAF headquarters out of Midland, Coombs says there is still a major presence of the CAF in Midland that will be here for the foreseeable future. (18:00)

Issue: West Texas economy

Texas economist Dr. Ray Perryman says the future of the West Texas economy is still positive, despite the recent downturn in oil prices. He predicts West Texas will continue to grow, although not at the unsustainable fast pace the area has seen for the last few years. (11:00)

Hi Gene...

As an FYI...we've also added a winter weather advisory for the Permian Basin until 1 pm.

Best regards,

Take Me Fishing

February 4, 2015 – Comanche Trail Pond will be full of Rainbow Trout waiting to bite for young anglers during 'Take Me Fishing' on Saturday, February 7, 2015.

The Odessa Parks and Recreation Department is hosting a 'Take Me Fishing' day for children 17 and younger. Between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. children, with adult supervision, will learn the art of angling from the pros. Parents are encouraged to bring their kids, poles and supplies to enjoy the fun of fishing. There will be free giveaways and prizes.

This free event is scheduled for Saturday, February 7 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at Comanche Trail Pond, 301 West Interstate 20 (south of I20 and McKinney Park.)

A fishing license is not required during the event. Anyone older than 17 years of age must possess a valid Texas Park & Wildlife Fishing License if they continue to fish after 2 p.m.

City Offices Closed

February 13, 2015 – City of Odessa offices will be closed Monday, February 16, 2015. There will not be trash pickup service on that day.

To avoid an overflowing accumulation of trash and debris in dumpsters, citizens are encouraged to recycle items at the Odessa Recycle Center, 816 West 42nd Street, and the Household Hazardous Waste Facility, 814 West 42nd Street. Click here for complete recycling information.

Trash, debris and bulky items piled next to the alley dumpsters is illegal and prevents the Solid Waste trucks from being able to pick up the containers when service resumes.

During the holiday period City trash receptacles should be reserved for perishable items only.

“Take Me Out Tuesday” with McAlister’s Deli Event to Benefit the Education Foundation of Odessa

(Odessa, TX.) On Tuesday, March 3rd, the Education Foundation of Odessa invites you to its “Take Me Out Tuesday” event at all Odessa McAlister’s Deli locations. When patrons dine at McAlister’s Deli on March 3rd a portion of the proceeds will be given to the Education Foundation of Odessa to support ECISD students and teachers.

Participating McAlister’s Deli locations are:
2002 E. 42nd Street
2744 N. County Rd. W.

The Education Foundation is excited to announce that the second Tuesday of each month for the 2014-2015 school year will be designated “Take Me Out Tuesday” and will feature a special promotion from a participating restaurant. McAlister’s Deli is among other restaurants like La Margarita Restaurant, Whitehouse Meat Market, Jersey Mike’s Subs, and Dickey’s BBQ who support education in our community. Restaurants interested in participating should contact the Education Foundation of Odessa at 432.456.7059.

For more information and promotional offers on the “Take Me Out Tuesday” event(s), visit the Education Foundation website at www.educationfoundationodessa.com or our Facebook page.

The Education Foundation’s mission is to be the catalyst for opportunity through education. Our vision is to bring the community together to create a school district that astonishes America by nurturing, challenging, and empowering every child in Ector County ISD to reach their full potential as well as to transform our entire community by creating a college-going, life-long learning culture.
