2022 Mid-Term Election Radio Script

#1

Kelly: Hey Clara Lou, I haven't seen you in forever!

Clara Lou: I know! Buddy and I have both had covid. I just had to get to The Dollar Store today to pick up supplies. A bunch of friends from my bible study group are writing postcards to get out the vote for BETO and Mike Collier.

Kelly: I thought you voted Republican.

Clara Lou: We always have but not this year. I don't want any Politician telling me and my doc what decisions I can make about my own health and I think the time has come for Texas to have sensible gun laws. I don't feel safe just standing here in front of the store.

Kelly: Put me on your list for a postcard. Great to see you!

Clara Lou: Great seeing you, stay safe and well.

#2

Clara Lou: Kelly! Can't believe I am running into you again after seeing you last week at the Dollar Store.

Kelly: I know! I got your postcard telling me about Beto's and Mike Collier's plans for getting us affordable health care but what really got my attention are their plans for world class public schools. Did you know Mike's mom was a teacher? What do you know about the Attorney General Candidate? I am tired of being embarrassed by Paxton.

Clara Lou: Oh my gosh! You need to go to Rochelle Garza's website! She is a civil rights attorney, a Latina and a young mother. Be sure and check out Janet Dudding. She is running for comptroller and guess what-she's a CPA, someone actually qualified to be in charge of the state's money.

Kelly: I will definitely check out Rochelle and Janet. It would be exciting to vote for two women who actually have plans to make life better for the citizens of Texas! See you soon!

#3

Kelly: Hey, Clara Lou, I didn't know you got your nails done here!

Clara Lou: Yeah, I've been coming here for about 6 months. I've been thinking since I saw you last week about your son, Cody. Isn't he a senior this year?

Kelly: OMG yes. You know full well what this year can be.

Clara Lou: I am so involved with the election this year that I have been helping people register to vote. Did you know that Cody can vote this year? He'll be 18 by election day, November 8.

Kelly: I did not even think about that. What does he need to do?

Clara Lou: Well, he can get a voter application from the county election administrator just like we all do or there should be applications in the high school office. He must be registered by October 11.

Kelly: So glad I ran into you again, I know Cody would like to vote this year. He is really upset about school shootings!

#4

Clara Lou: Oh my gosh, Kelly! Buddy and I drove by your house Sunday on the way home from church and saw all the yard signs ya'll have out!

Kelly: I know, I know. Once Cody found out he could vote in the November election, he has researched all the candidates and now he is a full-on expert! He is supporting Beto, Mike Collier, Rochelle Garza, Jay Kleberg, Susan Hays, Luke Warford, and Janet Dudding!! He put out signs for all of them. I am sure the neighbors are talking!

Clara Lou: Well, who would have thought our conversation would spark the creation of a young political activist. We're hosting a party election night to watch the results come in. You and Travis and Cody should come.

Kelly: I will check with "the boss" and let you know.
