Manager's Memo

Most people know about KUED from the great programs that are delivered over the air, on cable, on satellite, or online. But, there is a considerable amount of service and activity we do throughout the community.

KUED strives to promote lifelong learning, an engaged and informed citizenry, and a safe place for children to grow and learn. We provide both educational and social development needs for children. The content presented through PBS KIDS contributes towards engaging and inspiring children to succeed in the core curriculum areas that lead the nation's education agenda. KUED, as a PBS member station, uses PBS KIDS as a platform to engage children and families in additional learning activities through its Ready To Learn Initiative. KUED's Ready To Learn reaches more than 60,000 children, parents/caregivers, and educators statewide through curriculum-based, hands-on engagement activities.

We also provide community events and projects to better connect with Utahns. We offer program screenings with community discussions at many locations throughout Utah. We recently partnered with KUER on a screening and discussion of FRONTLINE's episode of Coal's Deadly Dust. If we hadn't shut things down after a 40-minute discussion per our agreement with the library, participants would have continued the discussion all night!

KUED has a new and unique way to facilitate discussions across the state. Our "Book Club in a Box" program provides book club hosts with necessary materials to host an in-depth discussion using a KUED film paired with a novel. This past year we distributed boxes to 60 book clubs in Utah. Learn more at kued.org/bookclub.

Now that we are Utah's only PBS station, we are compelled, more than ever, to live up to the challenge of promoting lifelong learning, citizenry, and a safe place for our children.

UNDERWRITER PROFILE

my529, formerly named the Utah Educational Savings Plan (UESP), is Utah's official nonprofit 529 college savings plan. my529 is highly ranked by Morningstar Inc., and recognized by Kiplinger's Personal Finance magazine, Money magazine, and CBS MoneyWatch.com for its low fees and industry innovations, such as its customized allocation investment options.

A free, comprehensive College Savings Estimator available at my529.org can help you assess how much you need to save for higher education costs. Start by entering a few details – your child's grade, home state, your current savings, estimated monthly contribution, and the name of or type of college or technical school your child may attend. You can change variables to look at different scenarios. You do not need to own a my529 account to use the estimator.

my529 account owners can utilize even more extensive resources by setting up a free College Planning Center profile at Invite Education's website. The College Planning Center features comprehensive resources that include financial calculators, test prep, a scholarship search engine, a link to the federal student aid application (FAFSA), and college application tools.

Account owners can withdraw their money tax-free for qualified higher education expenses, such as tuition and fees, books, computers, internet access, and room and board at any eligible educational institution – college, university, or technical school – in the United States and abroad that participates in federal student aid programs. Funds can also be used for a total of up to $10,000 in K-12 tuition expenses from all 529 accounts at public, private, and religious schools. Earnings in a my529 account grow federal and Utah state income tax-deferred. Utah resident taxpayers can earn a 5 percent tax credit per qualified beneficiary for contributions up to certain limits.

my529 has been helping families nationwide prepare for higher education for more than 20 years. They also support the programming on KUED.
