ENVIRONMENT	HOUSTON'S MORNING NEWS	In the wake of Hurricane Harvey, Texas lawmakers are discussing a first-ever statewide flood plan. The $600,000 project sought out ways to retain and manage flood waters through land management and other means.	10.05 5:00AM 6:00AM 7:00AM	1:00

ISSUE	PROGRAM / TITLE	DESCRIPTION	DATE/TIME	DURATION
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT	HOUSTON'S MORNING NEWS	The family farm is disappearing. Texas Agriculture Commissioner Sid Miller says most families have someone working in another business just to make ends meet. The state also lost $200-million dollars in cotton, plus livestock and other crops to Hurricane Harvey.	10.06 5:00AM 6:00AM 7:00AM	1:00
CRIME	HOUSTON'S MORNING NEWS	Hundreds of criminal cases are on hold in Harris County due to flooding at the courthouse. Defense lawyers say the delays violate their clients' rights to a speedy trial. Jury trials could resume as early as next week.	10-09 5:00AM 6:00AM 7:00AM	1:00
CRIME	HOUSTON'S MORNING NEWS	A campus police officer at Texas Tech University is shot and killed by a student. Investigators were doing a welfare check on 19-year old Hollis Daniels, and found evidence of drugs in his room. During questioning the suspect allegedly pulled a gun and shot an officer in the head. He escaped, which prompted a brief campus lockdown until he was arrested.	10-10 5:00AM 5:30AM 6:00AM 6:30AM 7:00AM 7:30AM 8:00AM	1:00
GOVERNMENT	HOUSTON'S MORNING NEWS	Texas Governor Greg Abbott agrees to meet with a group of state lawmakers who want all Confederate memorials removed from the state capitol grounds. Critics say the move is illegal because in 1958 Congress granted veteran status to all those who fought in the Civil War on either side. A final decision would have to come from the State Preservation Board.	10-11 5:00AM 6:00AM 7:00AM	1:00
GOVERNMENT / ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT	HOUSTON'S MORNING NEWS	The Texas economy will rebound from the effects of Hurricane Harvey, but the state comptroller warns it will take a bite out of the state budget. An estimated two-	10-12 5:00AM 6:00AM 7:00AM	1:00
