Gaetano Federici: The Sculptor Laureate Paterson

Airdate/Time: Wednesday, October 30, 2013, 8:00pm

Length: 60-minutes

Description: "Gaetano Federici: The Sculptor Laureate of Paterson" is about the life, works, and legacy of a gifted New Jersey artist who depicted with historical realism many leading civic and religious leaders of the city between 1904 and 1957. These include U.S. Senator Charles Hughes, Rep. James F. Stewart, Attorney General Thomas McCran, Mayors Nathan Barnert and Andrew McBride, Bishop Thomas McLaughlin, Dean William McNulty, and comedian Lou Costello. Statues for ethnic groups were also created (the Dublin Spring, Columbus, and Pulaski) as well as bronze plaques honoring nationally prominent local athletes. About 40 of his works can be found within a two-mile radius of Paterson's City Hall, including in front of that building as well as the County Court House, St. John's Cathedral, Eastside Park, Westside Park, Pennington Park, other local churches and cemeteries, and the Paterson Board of Education. In his apprenticeship, he worked on massive sculptures for world's fairs and other celebratory events in Birmingham, Alabama; Buffalo, New York; St. Louis, Missouri; and Havana, Cuba. Other works of his can be found in Brooklyn, the Bronx, Newark, Saratoga, and Italy. Many of his works—whether larger-than-life statues or plaques in bronze or cast stone, studio pieces in plaster or clay—are depicted in this documentary, with commentary from Passaic County Historian Edward A. Smyk and Federici biographer Flavia Alaya, with narration by William Paterson University Professor Vincent Parrillo.

Nova #4017 "Megastorm Aftermath"

Airdate/Time: Monday, October 21, 2013, 9:00pm

Length: 60-minutes

Description: One year after Hurricane Sandy's deadly strike, NOVA follows up on its 2012 film "Inside the Megastorm" with a fresh investigation of the critical questions raised by this historic storm: Was Sandy a freak combination of weather systems? Or are hurricanes increasing in intensity due to a changing climate? What can we do to prepare ourselves for the next Sandy and what progress has been made toward making our urban infrastructure more resilient? Much of Sandy's wrecking power was due to an extreme storm surge that left large swaths of New York and New Jersey underwater. And with sea levels on the rise, flooding will only become more frequent. What is the role of global warming in driving these rising seas and what will it take to make cities like New York more resilient? NOVA travels around the world to see how other low-lying urban areas are combining extraordinary engineering with natural landscape restoration and a smarter, more flexible power grid to prepare for an uncertain future. At the same time, NOVA meets the climate scientists who are racing to understand how a warming world will affect extreme -- but unpredictable -- weather phenomena like hurricanes and tornadoes. To many, Sandy was a wake-up call: one year later, are we still listening? And how will we answer?

Nature #3103: Saving Otter 501

Airdate/Time: Monday, November 4, 2013, 8:00pm

Length: 60-minutes

Description: California sea otters are struggling. For decades marine biologist Karl Mayer and his small staff have worked unceasingly -- one otter at a time -- to bring this "keystone" species back from the brink of extinction so it can play its important role in the local marine environment. But the effort has stalled, and no one knows why. This is the story of the Monterey Bay Aquarium's 501st attempt to save an orphan otter. From her discovery as a stranded newborn pup crying on the beach through her rehabilitation in secret roof tanks atop the Aquarium, we follow as Otter 501 learns how to dive, hunt, eat, and fend for herself in the wild, where survival is a long shot at best.

Heal Yourself: Mind Over Medicine with Lissa Rankin, MD

Airdate/Time: Saturday, December 7, 2013, 2:30pm

Length: 90-minutes

Description: Lissa Rankin knew she was going to be a doctor at the age of seven. The daughter of a respected physician, educated at Duke University, University of South Florida, and Northwestern University, she followed a successful career trajectory as an ob-gyn. But Dr. Rankin's focus shifted away from traditionally practiced Western medicine through a combination of personal and professional experiences with illness and ailing patients whose symptoms - and eventual successful treatments - defied conventional attitudes towards medicine. Dr. Rankin now presents her groundbreaking synthesis of this research in her first public television program, Mind Over Medicine: The Science of Healing Yourself. Dr. Rankin demonstrates how the brain is the most important organ for our optimal health, and she explains how thoughts, feelings and beliefs have been proven to alter the body's physiology. She explains the body's innate ability to self-repair and how we can control these self-healing mechanisms with the power of the mind. During the program, she provides viewers with techniques to activate the relaxation response and to reduce the stress response - both critical to putting the body into the state in which self-healing can take place. She also teaches viewers how to use a new model of whole health as a guide to living an optimally healthy life.

HERITAGE

A Legacy of Achievement: The Italian Americans

Airdate/Time: Thursday, October 3, 2013, 10:00pm

Length: 30-minutes

Description: "A Legacy of Achievement: The Italian Americans" explores the significant contributions of the Italian-American population to New Jersey's government, culture, education, economy, agriculture, and science. A wealth of Italian-Americans, including a doctor, former mayor, nun, engineer, Port Authority director, judge, artist, physicist and actor Joe Piscopo reminisce about the Italian-American experience. Like many who flee poverty and repression in their homeland to seek opportunity in the United States, emigrants from Italy brought a strong sense of family, responsibility and loyalty. But over time, their assimilation into American culture caused certain traditions, including their native language, to lapse. The program profiles Italian heritage initiatives at two New Jersey universities, where third- and fourth-generation Italians are reclaiming their heritage.

The Jewish Americans

Airdate/Time: Sunday, October 27, 2013, 12:00pm

Length: 7-hours

Description: This series is about the struggle of a tiny minority to make its way into the American mainstream. While the story of Jewish life in America is emblematic of the American immigrant story, it is also a unique story of on-going discrimination and stereotyping coupled with some of the most remarkable accomplishments in American history, the arts, commerce, science and academia. Beginning with the first Jews to arrive in New Amsterdam in the 17th century, the film offers a portrait of a people who epitomize the immigrant experience. Even as they have faced bigotry and rejection, Jews have embraced American culture while keeping alive their traditions and heritage.

African Americas: Many Rivers to Cross #101 - #106

Airdate/Time: #101 - Thursday, November 7, 2013, 9:00pm; #102 – Thursday, November 14, 2013, 9:00pm; #103 – Thursday, November 21, 2013, 9:00pm; #104 – Thursday, December 19, 2013, 9:00pm; #105 - December 26, 2013, 9:00pm; #106 – December 26, 2013, 10:00pm

Length: 60-minutes each

Description: This series chronicles the full sweep of African American history, from the origins of slavery on the African continent through five centuries of historic events right up to present day -- when America has a black President, yet remains a nation deeply divided by race. It explores the origins of the people from Africa whose enslavement led to the creation of the African American people, as well as the multiplicity of cultural institutions, political strategies, and religious and social perspectives that African Americans have developed against unimaginable odds. All of these elements define black culture and society in its extraordinarily rich and compelling diversity from slavery to freedom, from the plantation to the White House. Hosted by Harvard scholar Henry Louis Gates, Jr., and drawing on some of America's top historians and heretofore untapped primary sources, the series guides viewers on a journey across 500 years and two continents to shed new light on the experience of being an African American.

Driving Jersey #306

Airdate/Time: Wednesday, December 18, 2013, 8:00pm

Length: 30-minutes

Description: Driving Jersey: The Holiday Drive 2013 are visions of our Christmas present, a present from Driving Jersey to you, a moment to witness joy.

The first stop was The Historic Village at Allaire in Farmingdale to experience Christmas in 1836. The dedication to the period and the warmth of the spirit of the people there made it easy to suspend disbelief and difficult to leave.

In Medford we took in the Dickens Festival, the annual holiday rite-of-passage for the town. Inspired by the air of the Victorian era, the festival is said, to sometimes, attract as many as 10,000 people. While it is inspired by the time of Dickens, it is more accurately a town-wide celebration of all things Christmas past and present, from the birth of Christ to footlong pretzels and sausage sandwiches.

Finally we visited the Just Braggin' Hair Salon in Manahawkin, the day before Christmas Eve.

Salon owner Rick Bragg suggested it was the busiest time of year and the best time to meet and speak with a large cross-section of the community. Walk-ins were welcome, but it was standing room only. It seemed to be about as busy as the mall, but with all the easy conversation and without all the madness, it was somehow more inspiring of the meaning of the season and a perfect way for us to conclude this year's holiday drive.
