Bianca talked about her meeting earlier this week with U.S. Senator John Cornyn and North Texas law enforcement officials where they talked about ways of combatting this crime and how the community can help by being on the lookout for

The documentary not only focuses on those who are addicted to pain pills but on the great lengths that people go in order to get relief. The opiod epidemic in the United States keeps getting worse with more and more people dying as a result. Heather Ormand with Nexus Recovery Center joined me to talk about the opiod epidemic and how it is impacting families in North Texas. We talked about the disease of addiction and the services and programs that are offered by Nexus Recovery Center to help women battling addiction and how Nexus is one of the only rehabilitation centers that allows women to be joined by their kids so that they are not separated. According to data from the Department of Health and Human Services 4 in 10 foster kids right now in the U.S. are in the foster care system because of parents with substance abuse issues but with Nexus accepting mothers with children the foster care system is not burdened with the care of those children and many women will forego treatment so as not to lose their children so it is a win win.
