But this, this was the sign of a full-blown addiction. He grew up in a poor neighborhood in Oakland. But unlike many, he never had to do without. His mom worked hard to make sure of that. But what Sidney really needed was her love and attention – he got neither. It was only a matter of time before he discovered drugs and would spend the next several years, buying and selling them and stealing to satisfy his habit. When he had met Judy, he was able to hide the depth of his addiction, but now after a few months of marriage the truth had come out. Arrested in 1996 on outstanding warrants, Sidney would spent 13 years behind bars, despite finding religion in prison, he relapsed soon after his release. Then in 2010, his parole officer recommended he go to the faith based rehab program, Teen Challenge. There, Sidney had to face the hurt and anger. Sidney says at that moment he gave his life to Christ, realizing that through Judy, God had been showing His love for him all along. In 2013, at 43 years old, Sidney graduated from Teen Challenge and is still drug free. He went on to earn a master's degree in social work, and today works as a substance abuse counselor in Mississippi.

As a teenager, he began looking for validation in all the wrong places. He spent the years of his early twenties in and out of prison for selling and using drugs. He would get clean while locked up, but once released, he was back to his old habits. t 28, he was robbed three times in a year, almost losing his life to the violence. He decided to walk away from it all, in hopes of getting clean for good. He wandered for nearly six months without a home. One night, he was trying to rest in a school baseball dugout, when he had an unexpected encounter. Experiencing God's love led him to get the help he needed for addiction. And, he entered a faith-based recovery program. There, his heart continued to heal and he found his place as part of God's family.

Yvonnya became an isolated, distrustful young girl. Then at 14 she found someone she thought she could give her trust, and her heart to. Now a teenaged, unwed mother, Yvonnya decided to live life on her own terms. She dropped out of high school, finding her belonging and thrills trafficking drugs in Portsmouth, Virginia. By the early 90s, she was living in the projects trying to raise four children from different fathers. Eventually Yvonnya left her children in her mother's care. Meanwhile, she would spend the next 10 plus years selling and using drugs, her only break coming from stints in jail or prison. It wasn't until early 2010 with the death of her uncle, that the now 37-year-old Yvonnya really stopped to consider the life she was living. The next week, 'help' would come in the form of a woman from Yvonnya's past. She had been a junkie like herself – but now she was different. Her friend invited her to Victory Gospel Chapel in Portsmouth, Virginia. After over 20 years of pain and addiction, she walked through the doors into kind, loving arms, and a new beginning.

"Saving Moses: A Unique Ministry for Sex Workers' Babies" My name is Sarah Bowling and I'm the founder for Saving Moses. We're a global humanitarian organization aimed for zero-to-five-year-olds where the need is most urgent and the care is least available. This is like the most fragile vulnerable time of a human's life.
	The 700 Club	2/28/2020	10:00AM; 8:00PM	60 min.	"How You Can Help End Human Trafficking" Author of The Unseen Charity Mack discusses the worldwide epidemic of human trafficking. Charity offers many ways for people to make a difference in their own homes and communities, as well as the world, through organizations committed to ending trafficking: Be educated in what human trafficking is and how to spot it. Set wise policies in place for internet communication and social interaction. Stop the demand – have a zero pornography policy in your households. Support organizations in the fight to end human trafficking. Write legislative leaders to support legislation that protects the victims of human trafficking, upholds obscenity laws, and speaks for the common good. Vote for leaders opposed to pornography protection. Voice concern to companies that support lewd content. Encourage kids to treat all sexes with respect and dignity. Talk openly with friends and family about the negative effects of pornography and how purity fuels long-lasting relationships.
