A.R. Bernard speaks about what drives individuals to act in violence and commit criminal acts such as the shootings we have seen surge throughout America. According to A.R. Bernard, these acts of violence are driven by the "Replacement Theory," originating from Renard Camus. The element of this theory is to "replace nationals or native-born Americans, which would change the political landscape and create a new voting block." As Christians, we believe this is a spiritual attack and we should intercede and bring support/care for those who are in crisis, including the families of the victims, our community and our nation.

According to A.R. Bernard, an individual that falls prey to the rule of fear will engage in an irrational, unreasonable, and illogical act of violence as seen in the rise of crime today. Fear affects individuals psychologically, intellectually, emotionally, physically and creates a false reality that individuals will react to and live in. Fear changes one's perspective. When fear takes over, the individual will go into self-preservation mode, in which self becomes most important and the individual will protect themselves at the expense of others.

According to A.R. Bernard, the force of hate in our society is affecting the youth, driving individuals to engage in violent acts like the one in Buffalo. We have a generation who doesn't know the Lord's prayer because they aren't taught it. God set up society to be balanced. Prayer, worship and church practices organize our spirituality. Religion gives us more meaning in our lives. However, the young generation says "I am spiritual, but not religious" which creates issues of morality.

A.R. Bernard speaks about the recent tragic shootings of children. According to A.R. Bernard, this is demonic and evil. We are in a place where society is in moral crisis. Morality is something that God already made a part of human nature and it's in us even in a sinful condition. We need to develop it. Rules highlight the moral standards inside us, and the Holy Spirit empowers us to walk it out. The violence we are seeing is rooted in our separation from God. It alienates us and with the pandemic it has also isolated us from one another. We need to come back to God and then to each other. God is the glue that holds us together.

Every night in America, over 500,000 people sleep on the streets without a roof over their head. Millions more are homeless without a place to call their own. While homelessness is caused by many factors, in a nation where home ownership should be attainable by any citizen, this is not the case. Many people have given up on the American dream of owning a home. The reasons are many and complicated. Taking Care of Business examines our nation's housing dilemma.

TBN Special Report with TBN News Correspondent Erick Stakelbeck: The Rise of China. From the Museum of the Bible in Washington, D.C. and New York studio Erick Stakelbeck Reports. You'll hear why China's communist regime poises a unique threat to the United States and the world. From a massive military and nuclear arms buildup, to cyberattacks against sensitive American targets, China is directly challenging the United States. Its goal is clear; to replace the U.S. as the world's next superpower. Despite this and despite the Chinese government's continued evasiveness on the true origins of COVID-19, American companies are lining up to do business with Beijing. For some, the so-called social credit system that China uses to suppress and monitor its own citizens does not seem to affect their bottom line, but there is light in the darkness. While Christians in China suffer severe persecution, the Church is growing by leaps and bounds in the world's most populous nation. We're joined today by Former Secretary of State, Mike Pompeo; courageous Chinese dissidents, and leading experts to get the inside story on the rise of China and why it matters to you.

Scripture teaches us that despite circumstances and situations, and forces at work, God can still bless one if they are willing to trust Him. The nation could face an economic downturn, but in the middle of this believers can experience an economic upturn. | | | | | | |

| Stephanie Ike had a thriving business; she was living her best life until God told her He wasn't involved. Stephanie's journey of obedience started when God told her that she had to lay it all down. Stephanie chose to obey God even though she didn't know what would happen. She preferred to obey God rather than to go her own way and struggle with depression and anxiety. Although Stephanie gave up a lot of money, in her obedience God brought to her so much more. Holly Wagner worked as an actress at 21, she promised God she wouldn't do anything to dishonor Him. Soon after, Holly was offered a movie role that would give her great financial benefits, but Holly knew she wasn't supposed to take it. Holly declined the offer even after other people in her church were telling her to take it. Sometimes the sacrifice is not always saying "yes," but it's also saying "no." This was Holly's chance to obey God and make Him Lord of her life. Matt and Laurie Crouch, also had to obey God after being offered a deal with a man who did every major movie. However, the deal blew up shortly after signing the papers because God's plan for them was TBN. It is important for individuals to remember that God rewards those who diligently seek Him. | | | | | | |

According to Joseph Prince living The Let Go Life is about living a life free from worry in any area where one could experience insufficiency, such as health, finances, problems with their children, and spousal relationships. It is trusting that God will supply for all of one's needs. Joseph Prince teaches a paradigm shift in thinking by encouraging people to allow the finished works of Christ (Grace) to help in one's difficult situations. He states, "If we refuse to take hold of the anxious thoughts over our lives, God will clothe us with a quality body, quality health...the only thing that is hindering us from the supply, is worry." God has a supply of blessings for healing, financial wisdom, parenting and many other things, but as soon as one worries, God's supply is restricted from getting to the individual. Joseph Prince says, "Grace flows in the worry-free areas of your life." Fear and worry prevent individuals from being at peace and entering God's rest. Medical science has proven that stress could lead to physical problems, mental health problems, destructive behaviors, addictions, and chronic depression. Joseph Prince suggests people to live their lives in the unforced rhythm of grace, by relaxing and knowing that God has already supplied for all their needs as he states, "Do your responsibilities, do what you need to do, but do it relaxed. Parent relaxed. Administrate, manage relaxed. Do everything relaxed because that is the secret."

According to Pastor Frank Santora, mental health is important because our lives follow our thoughts. As Christians, we must use the weapons God has provided us to bring down the strongholds in our minds. Through God's word, His wisdom, and His strength we can change our lives when we change the way we think.

According to Frank Santora, mental health is important because our lives follow our thoughts. Our minds are exposed to the environment we grow up in. These inputs cause our minds to get wired in certain ways; neuropathways are the instructions the brain gives the body and makes one act the way they do. Our lives follow certain behaviors that we repeat. Some of these habits are healthy while others are unhealthy. It has been scientifically proven that "As a man thinks in his heart so is he" (Proverbs 23:7). The enemy tries to ruin our lives by infiltrating our minds with lies (ugly, unloved, unneeded, a misfit, etc.). In this way, we stop taking care of ourselves and start using anger to protect ourselves. It is important to renew our minds so that we can have victory over these strongholds and experience the perfect will of God in our lives.

According to Frank Santora, it is important to understand how our words influence our minds. Neurolinguistics is the study of how the mouth impacts our minds, the structure of our brain and life existence. In their book, "Words can change your brain," Andrew Newberg & Robert Waldman write "A single word has the power to influence the expression of genes that regulate physical and emotional stress. Positive words such as 'peace' and 'love' can alter the expression of genes, strengthening areas of our frontal lobes and promoting the brain's cognitive function. They propel the motivation centers of the brain into action and build resiliency. Conversely hostile language can disrupt specific genes that play a key part in the production of neurochemicals that protect us from stress." In order to have healthy minds, we must speak truth and positive words into our lives.

According to Frank Santora, it is important to pay attention to our actions as they affect our minds (mental health). Cognitive behavioral therapy (CBT) recognizes that in order to change behavior an individual must change their mind. Behavioral activation is the realization that thoughts, emotions, and behaviors are linked together and feed off one another. For example, the action of laying in bed when one is depressed will cause more emotions of depression to rise. It is important to counteract the negative feeling, thought, or emotion with positive thoughts that will create new mindsets and set one free.

According to Dr. Don Colbert, the foundation of a person's health is in their gut. In the early 1990's, Colbert experienced psoriasis, an itchy rash all over his hands, elbows, knees, and thighs. To combat psoriasis through natural remedies, Dr. Don Colbert investigated the health of his gut. He discovered that many of the foods he was eating were inflaming his gut causing him to develop high sensitivity to certain foods including gluten, tomatoes, and peppers. The antibiotics Colbert was taking had also decimated his gut and he had failed to refill his gut back up with the good bacteria. To heal his gut, Dr. Don Colbert began taking probiotics and healthy fibers like psyllium husk powder, which contains prebiotics that feed the good bacteria. Within 3 months his psoriasis was completely gone. Through his own experience, Colbert discovered that his psoriasis was caused for having a "leaky gut," an increased intestinal permeability. Undigested foods damage the gut, which can create tremendous inflammation, and can lead to systemic disease, autoimmune disease, brain diseases, anxiety, depression, ADHD, dementia, diabetes, and obesity. To recover from a leaky gut individuals should avoid gluten, sugar, carbs, and starches as these create dysbiosis, an excessive number of bad bacteria, which prevents the gut from healing.

Susie Larson suffered from Lyme Disease. The effects of the Lyme disease caused her body to be unable to process mold. When Susie was exposed to black mold 7 areas of her brain were attacked. This left her tongue and head numb, as well as being unable to spell or speak correctly. Due to the many hardships she encountered, Susie was unable to sleep, and she struggled to believe God for a miracle. It wasn't until God sent 3 different groups of women who were committed to praying with her that Susie began to heal. She began to believe that goodness and mercy continually followed her. Susie explains that without hope, the heart can become sick preventing healing and the move of God to occur in one's life. She encourages individuals to keep a close watch on their hearts, stay in a place of courage and hope, do not isolate or disengage, and stray away from being offended.

The impact of the COVID Pandemic left 4-5% of people better than before, 20% in a bad place, and the rest are in an absence of emotional wellbeing even if they are not sick or unable to describe their feelings. There are about 75% of people left with nothing to look forward to for their future. Sheila Walsh has been feeling like she's been struggling emotionally since the Covid Pandemic and has committed to stay engaged, connect with what is true and connect with God to help her properly cope with the ever-changing cycles happening in our world.

| Through different health issues including a child with special needs, the loss of a son/daughter, and cancer, Dr. Robyn Wilkerson, Bianca Olthoff, Dr. Cheryl Salem, Cathe Laurie share the power of miracles and finding healing in God. Faith should be based on one's relationship with God, and not based on results. It is important for individuals to remember that even when circumstances don't turn out the way they plan, God is in control, and He can always be trusted. | | | | | | |

| When Alex Seeley had a stomach tumor, a friend of hers' gave Alex a scripture to declare. He recommended Alex to read it like medication, morning and night. He told her to visualize the tumor dissolve every time she would read it in the name of Jesus. Four months later, Alex received healing- the tumor had shrunk. It is important to understand the power of the Word of God and how it can transform our minds and our lives all together. | | | | | | |

| In a recent year, 47,000 individuals committed suicide in this country, 70,000 people died of drug overdose and many more died because of alcohol addictions. What is happening and, more importantly, what is being done to intervene? Depression and addictions are causing more suicide related deaths than at any other time in American history. Self-harm is not always caused by a gun; often it is a drug overdose or alcohol induced event. On this edition of Taking Care of Business, see the sad realities facing our society and meet those who are trying to intervene. | | | | | | |

Brian Courtney Wilson sits with Donnie McClurkin discussing God's Plan. Brian Courtney Wilson shares that "everyone has a seed of faith to plant and a harvest that everyone can benefit from." Donnie explains how circumstances do not prohibit one's progress. As artists, they deal with insecurities, but they don't allow it to stop them from doing what God has planned for their lives. Donnie and Brian explain that they learned how to work through their insecurities and do what God has called them to do. Brian speaks about a struggle he had to deal with while he ministered to others as an artist. He shares how his relationship with his first child (daughter), before he got married, was not good. He did not get along with her mother very well and he realized that he wasn't mature enough to handle the relationship nor the tensions they dealt with. He eventually decided to go to a therapist with his daughter, so that they could properly speak to one another about their relationship. He encourages everyone to seek professional guidance to help walk them through healing for damaged relationships. He is happy to share that after their therapy sessions, he and his daughter are closer than ever.

Javen speaks with Recording Artist, Marvin Sapp, as he shares how he dealt with the death of his father. He explains how his song Never Would Have Made It was born out of his mourning for his father. He never intended for the song to become a major hit nor even be a song. After Sunday church service, Marvin Sapp went up to sing the usual closing out song, but with tears strolling down his face from the pain of losing his father the words "never would have made it" came out. Sapp says "God gave it to me... on that Sunday morning- for me. I was singing around the house; I would sing it at bible study... just singing it trying to encourage myself because my father was my hero."

David & Tamela Mann speak about their book Us Against the World: Our Secrets to Love, Marriage, and Family and their music album Us Against the World-The Love Project. In the church, over half of the marriages are breaking up. Through their book and album, David and Tamela Mann hope to encourage families and educate individuals on how to stop the ideologies that are used to break families up.

MLB player, Darryl Strawberry, grew up with an abusive and alcoholic father. This behavior from his father led Darryl to brokenness and the abuse of substances. Being addicted to drugs caused Darryl to go to prison, get cancer twice, and lose his left kidney. It took him 7 years of studying the word of God to be free and find God's plan for his life. Darryl's foundation, Finding Your Way, was created to make a difference in the lives of young people who are addicted to drugs. After 16 years of recovering from substance abuse, Darryl now goes into high schools and middle schools bringing awareness to the youth about not using drugs. Darryl says "In order to make a difference in young people's lives that are addicted, we have to be real about it. We can't sit here and sugarcoat it. And that's why we're at where we're at today. The epidemic we're at today. New Jersey's already had 300 deaths of overdoses from opiate."

Sports Analyst, Jason Romano, met Darryl while he worked at ESPN. Jason shares how he also grew up in a dysfunctional household, with divorced parents, and an alcoholic father. At the age of 6, his father would take him to bars and give him a quarter to play the ping-pong machine, while his father sat at the bar getting drunk. Due to Jason's father's addiction, he was not present for a lot of pinnacle moments in Jason's life, but his mother helped Jason and his brothers stay on course while growing up. Jason explains that seeing his father's addiction, caused him to want to find ways to fight addictions.

According to the National Fatherhood Institute, children raised without fathers have a higher risk of behavioral problems, they are four times more likely to live in poverty, more likely to be incarcerated, twice as likely to not graduate from high school, 7 times more likely to have teen pregnancies, more likely to abuse drugs, more likely to be abused, and they are also more likely to become obese because of depression, anxiety/stress. Unfortunately, our society has moved away from family and fatherhood and have come up with new ideas of what it should be like. God instituted the marriage union. It's a holy vocation, God called the men to guide and guard the family. God called the women to provide a sense of support for a balanced leadership. According to A.R. Bernard, we are now suffering the consequences of moving away from the family structure God placed.

According to A.R. Bernard, there are 5 types of inheritances parents can leave their children. The most important inheritance is spiritual, it is the foundation for everything else as it forms one's beliefs and one's perspective which is expressed in one's perceptions. Spirituality is where one hands their children a world view: a biblical or a secular world view. Biblical world view has moral values and boundaries. The second inheritance is intellectual, where one inspires their children to think critically, to reason, to experience logic and develop judgments. This is passed on either intentionally or indirectly. The third inheritance is emotional. This is when parents teach their children how to empathize and love objectively. The fourth inheritance is motivational which has to do with the will- managing desires and emotions, delayed gratification. Lastly, a financial inheritance, teaching children how to be wise with their money.

| | According to Frank Santora, the thoughts we think make ruts in our brains and create tracks that we unintentionally follow whether we want to or not. For example, when a husband or wife cheats on the other they didn't cheat just that day, instead they started cheating days, weeks, months before that because of what they were thinking about. To retrain one's mind we must: 1) think about what we're thinking about; 2) use the truth against the lie. It is important for individuals to know and read scripture, this is the number one weapon to break the strongholds and lies in one's head. Heb. 4:12, "For the word of God is living and powerful and sharper than a two-edged sword." When we throw truth to the lies the accumulating effect causes the stronghold to get ripped out of one's life. With God's help, we can overcome these strongholds and develop a healthy mind and a healthy life. | | | | | | |

| | Randy Robison and Sheila Walsh interviewed Alexandra Hoover about her life story and new book "Eyes Up." Alexandra Hoover wrestled with her faith. She didn't learn how to speak English until the second grade. After her parents separated, Alexandra's mother was working three jobs, but they were still very poor. When her parents reconciled there was another woman in the house and a boy, Alexandra's stepbrother. Her father threw all their belongings out of the house and told them to leave. From this, Alexandra was deeply wounded by her father, and she needed to be healed from rejection. When people have these types of wounds, they also see God through those lenses and need to be healed. | | | | | | |

Joyce Meyer was sexually abuse by her father. This experience caused her to be controlling, bitter, angry, and become a people pleaser. Although Joyce's mother knew what her husband was doing to Joyce, she was fearful to face the scandal. Joyce's mother did not think she could do anything about her husband's behavior, so she didn't even try. Joyce's father was a drunk and would beat her mother. Joyce held more unforgiveness towards her mother than her father, until one day she forgave both and took care of them as elders. Now, by sharing her story with others, Joyce has helped individuals who are being or were abused understand and know that if she was able to make it, they can make it as well. To find freedom from this trauma Joyce learned to forgive her parents by learning more about the Word of God and being truthful with God and herself.

Lisa Appelo shares her story of the unexpected death of her husband. Even though the unexpected tragedy occurred, Lisa did not ask God, "Why me?" instead she asked God "What now?" Lisa believed that Christ was going to hold and anchor her and her family through this sudden loss. She suggests for people who have faced sudden loss to lean into God by becoming 100% dependent on Him. Lisa became dependent on God as she became a single parent of 7 children ranging from the ages of 4-19. She also depended on God for the finances to pay the bills, and the task of healing her family's heart because of their loss. She would spend time with God and cry out her questions, needs and fears to Him, and God would answer with a scripture. These moments with God helped remind Lisa about who God is, what His promises are for her family, and gave Lisa enough hope to go and parent her children. Each child grieved differently through the loss of their father, so Lisa created a safe place in their home where they kept conversation going, read books together, told stories and had grace towards one another while navigating through life without their father.

To have healthy marriages it is essential to have purity, forgiveness, and commitment. According to biblical scripture, it is important for married couples to never go to sleep angry. Robert Jeffress states, "If we follow what God says, we can have meaningful relationships." God's commandments are not meant to restrain us, instead they are given to us for our benefits.

Whether an individual is experiencing a health issue, or the loss of a loved one, it is important to remember that God's grace will help us get through it. Dr. Cheryl Salem had to give a speech at her daughter's funeral. She was able to deliver the speech, but watching her daughter be buried made Cheryl think she wouldn't be able to overcome the anger and despair she felt. In her moment of weakness, Cheryl found God's grace that gave her the strength to move forward.

Lisa Harper's adoption process took 2 years to complete. Lisa's daughter-to-be, Missy, was in a Haitian orphanage, and was very sick. Lisa was told not to bother adopting Missy, because she wouldn't live to come to America. Missy didn't even speak English. This process got so difficult that Lisa thought she would have to move to Haiti. Lisa wanted Missy to understand that she was completely committed to her. Now, 7 1/2 years later Missy isn't as insecure as before because she trusts that Lisa wants the best for her. Just like Lisa and Missy, it is important for individuals to build a strong relationship with God and know that He always wants the best for us even when we don't see it.

Beth Redman had 6 miscarriages. On her fifth pregnancy, Beth believed God for the promise that this baby would live. After preaching in England, Beth had a massive hemorrhage and went to the hospital. Being alone at the hospital with the doctors telling her that she had lost the baby, Beth held on to God's truth and spoke scripture over the situation. The next day, the doctors found that the baby still had a heartbeat. Despite the prognoses spoken over this baby, he lived. It is important for individuals to learn how to have faith over fear by speaking the name of Jesus and believing in Him.

Anyone and anything placed above God in our lives could cloud our vision and crush our confidence. Learning how to create healthy boundaries could lead to a prosperous family dynamic. Joyce Meyer was emotionally controlled and sexually abused by her father, causing her to live in fear for most of her childhood. Even in adulthood Joyce found herself gravitating towards individuals with the same emotionally controlling personality. Through the help of God, she was able to break free from this cycle and become comfortable with confronting family members, co-workers, and loved ones.

Few choices have as many dramatically positive outcomes as adoption. It increases the emotional, physical, and cognitive capacities of the children who are adopted. It improves the life chances of the biological mother. It saves vast amounts of money for the public. It brings much happiness, both to the adopting parents and to the adopted child. It is good for all involved and families are strengthened. Almost 25% of American households have adopted, and 135,000 children are adopted each year. But despite these impressive numbers, there's still a pressing need for greater awareness. Join us for this episode of Taking Care of Business and hear about how adoption changes lives for the better.

On this emotional episode of Taking Care of Business we explore the difficult subject of youth suicide. Youth Suicides are now a pandemic in our country. The suicide rate for young people between the ages of 14 and 19 has jumped 70% in the past 10 years. 157,000 young people are hospitalized each year for self-harm. Many feel that this coincides with the launch and popularity of many of the social media apps and platforms. Most young people don't realize that social media sites are not accurate representations of the authentic lives of those using them. Meet young people who tell their stories of how they attempted to end their lives but lived to tell about it!

Trent Shelton, a global social media influencer and former NFL wide receiver, founded REHAB TIME for the sole purpose of helping youth who experience depression, loss of a loved one, guilt, and/or regret. One mayor event that changed Trent's life was when his college roommate/best friend committed suicide. After undergoing this dark moment in his life, Trent realized his mind, body, and spirit needed rehab. He started focusing on the things that he could control. REHAB TIME stands for "Renewing Every Heart And Body," Trent also defines it as "putting strength back into a weakness." Now having over 11 million followers on social media, he encourages the youth by letting them know that although they can't change their past, they can change their now. Trent states, "Your current situation is not your final destination, so you have to forward-think and look forward in your life. And say 'okay, this is a storm. This is a season. This is a chapter...' but just because you have some bad chapters, you can still turn the page...what you're going through... qualifies you to help other people get through it."

At a young age, Kel Mitchell became famous on Nickelodeon. Although this was a blessing to him, Kel struggled with his identity. He questioned whether people were hanging out with him because they wanted something from him or if they liked him for who he was. Kel struggled with depression and anxiety, but he learned how to pray through it. Now, as a youth pastor he helps individuals talk about their emotions and changing their mindset. It is important to control one's mind and forgive others and oneself. Social media makes one compare themselves with the entire world, but it is important to remember that everyone is beautifully made, and God loves us in the good times and the bad. Individuals shouldn't get so caught up in their mistakes, instead they should learn to see what God is teaching them and know that He will turn it around.

Kyle Winkler struggled with insecurities, depression, and rejection as a young child. From pre-school until he was 17, Kyle struggled with feeling disqualified, shameful, and unworthy. This created stressful mind games in him. When he realized that the real warfare was in his head, Kyle started to apply a two-method approach to silence the enemy: 1. Take captive those thoughts, feeling words, open the bible, find a scripture about what you are feeling and speak it out loud and in your mind. 2. Teach your thoughts according to truth (proactivity is speaking truth even when you're not under attack). Read, reflect, repeat it and rephrase. This will reprogram your mind to think positively instead of believing the lies from the enemy.

Peter Mutabazi grew up in poverty. He was physically and verbally abused by his biological father. This hardship caused Peter to run away from home at the age of 10. Living on the streets led him to steal from people. Peter felt hopeless about his situation. One day Peter was going to steal food from a man, but before he could take something the man offered him food. This man changed Peter's life forever not only by providing Peter with food, education, and a family but also by helping Peter find God and find healing from his father wounds. Now, as a foster parent, Peter helps children that face the same hardships he had as a young boy.

When Elaine Fisher was 9 years old, her father started a church. At this young age, Elaine believed that her father loved the church more than he loved her. This lie hardened Elaine's heart for 10 years and led her to start partying and living the wrong way. It wasn't until she was 19 years old that Elaine realized she didn't want to live a double fake life and returned home to her earthly father, but also to God. It is important to remember that no matter one's rebellious acts God's grace will always be there to help us out.
