Participated in job banks, internet programs, and other programs designed to promote outreach generally (i.e., that are not primarily directed to providing notification of specific job vacancies).

Established training programs designed to enable station personnel to acquire skills that could qualify them for higher level positions. reports and cover events in the community. The interns also are trained to produce station breaks that are aired at various times of the day. Interns are under the supervision of the station's Managing Editor. An intern was also hired to work on IPR's music library and institutional archive. This position was also full time.

IPR launched a community radio program during the reporting period. This group will be open to anyone in the community who wants to learn to produce radio. IPR will host the group and provide some editorial oversight.

IPR staff went to various professional conferences this year, including an IRE training and an annual PRNDI gathering. A photojournalist was also brought to the station to offer training.

Participated in at least 3 events or programs sponsored by educational institutions relating to career opportunities in broadcasting. Interlochen Public Radio offers two training programs for adults. Ten people took our two-day introduction to basic digital audio where they learn to use field recorders and a digital editing program. Ten people took our week-long storytelling workshop where they produce public-radio style features.

IPR's News Director is also part of an advisory group for a new writing program at a local vocational school. He attended the end of year banquet for the program.
