This July, 91.7 WVXU and 88.5 WMUB debut a new schedule on weekday and weekend afternoons. A full press release describing these programs is attached for your convenience. The expanded, live version of Cincinnati Edition and The Takeaway replace Talk of the Nation, which NPR cancelled several months ago. Radiolab and TED Radio Hour replace What'ya Know? which we will no longer air in order to bring these new, outstanding programs to our listeners. This month also brings a brand new, irreverent special from the Capitol Steps, as well as some outstanding productions from the creative minds at L.A. Theatre Works.

CINCINNATI EDITION – Mondays-Thursdays, 2:00 PM

Starting July 1 - see attached news release for details

THE TAKEAWAY – Mondays-Thursdays, 3:00 PM

Starting July 1 – see attached news release for details

RADIOLAB – Saturdays, 3:00 PM

Starting July 6 – see attached news release for details

TED RADIO HOUR – Saturdays, 4:00 PM

Starting July 6 – see attached news release for details

CAPITOL STEPS: POLITICS TAKES A HOLIDAY – Thursday, July 4, 7:00 PM

The Gang of 8 has announced that in order to be a citizen of the United States, you have to listen to the Capitol Steps 4th of July special, "Politics Takes a Holiday!"

Also, statistics show that many people who have not listened to past specials have been audited by the IRS. Coincidence? Probably!

So relax and celebrate your country by helping the Capitol Steps make fun of it. It's not like there isn't a lot of material to work with....

Not for the faint of heart or for those considering running for office.

L.A. THEATRE WORKS – Saturdays, 8:00 PM

July 6: "The Real Thing"
Written by: Tom Stoppard

Directed by: Rosalind Ayres
Starring Simon Templeman, Joanne Whalley

Synopsis: Henry may be the wittiest playwright of his generation, but he's hopelessly naive when it comes to understanding love and infidelity. Writing about betrayal is one thing, living with it is another. After Henry leaves his wife for another woman, he's confronted with being the cuckold himself. Both dazzlingly clever and emotionally naked, Henry's search for the "real thing" in art and love demonstrates beautifully why both are worth the effort in the end.

July 13 - "Park Your Car in Harvard Yard"

Written By: Israel Horowitz
Directed by: Mark Ward

Starring: Judith Ivey, Jason Robards

Synopsis: Jacob Brackish, the toughest, meanest teacher ever to set foot in Gloucester High School is dying at home. His advertisement for a housekeeper to look after him during his final years is answered by a mousy 40-year-old named Kathleen, a woman Jacob has forgotten he flunked years before. Judith Ivey and Jason Robards recreate the roles they originated on Broadway in this humorous and moving play.

The broadcast includes a conversation with playwright Israel Horowitz.

July 20 - "A Midsummer Night's Dream"

Written by: William Shakespeare

Directed by: Martin Jarvis

Starring: Hector Elizondo, Glenna Headley, Simon Helberg, Stacy Keach, and David Krumholtz, and leading an all-star cast

Synopsis: Shakespeare combined his love of theater with Greek mythology and the supernatural to create what is arguably his most influential and imaginative work. From love potions to bizarre transformations to the unforgettable play within a play, A Midsummer Night's Dream is a non-stop delight, and remains one of the milestones of the Bard's career.

An L.A. Theatre Works premiere broadcast

July 27 - "Romance"

Written by: David Mamet

Directed by: Neil Pepe

Starring: Ed Begley Jr., Gordon Clapp

And

"Things You Shouldn't Say Past Midnight"

Written by: Peter Ackerman

Directed by: Gordon Hunt

Starring: Jeffrey Donovan, Richard Kind, Mandy Siegfried

Synopsis: David Mame's Romance leaves no stone unturned in its quest to satirize the social taboos of the late twentieth century. And Peter Ackerman's Things You Shouldn't Say Past Midnight is a riotous comedy in which all of our secret beliefs, desires and superstitions are laid bare.

Thought provoking. Perplexing. Educational. It's Freakonomics Radio and it's back with new episodes this August. Take an interesting concept and look at it from some very unusual angles. Thursday nights on 91.7 WVXU and 88.5 WMUB, wxu.org and via our free mobile app.

Freakonomics Radio, new special series, Thursdays, 7:00 PM:

August 1: Women Are Not Men: Women are different from men, by a lot, in some key areas. For example, the data show that women don't drown, edit Wikipedia, commit crime, or file patents at anywhere near the same rate as men do. How else are women different? They have made significant economic gains over the past 30 years and yet they are less happy now. So how do we explain this paradox?

August 8: How Much Does Your Name Matter? When Harvard professor Latanya Sweeney typed her name in Google one day, she noticed something strange: an ad with the heading: "Latanya Sweeney, Arrested?" But she had never been arrested — and neither had the only other Latanya Sweeney in the U.S. So why did the ad suggest so? Thousands of Google searches later, Sweeney discovered that Googling distinctively black names is more likely to produce an ad that suggests a criminal background.

August 15: Spite Happens: This episode of Freakonomics Radio explores our surprising propensity for spite. Discover the gruesome etymology of the phrase "cut off your nose to spite your face" (it involves medieval nuns). Host Stephen Dubner talks to economist Benedikt Herrmann about "money-burning" lab experiments, in which people often choose to surrender some of their own cash in order to take money away from other participants.

August 22: The Cobra Effect If you want to get rid of a nasty invasive pest, it might seem sensible to offer a bounty. But as we'll hear in this episode of Freakonomics Radio, bounties can backfire. Learn about bounties on snakes in Delhi, rats in Hanoi, and feral pigs in Fort Benning, Georgia. In each case, bounty seekers came up with creative ways to maximize their payoff — and pest populations grew.

August 29: Should Tipping Be Banned? To an economist, tipping is a puzzling behavior — why pay extra when it's not required? In this episode of Freakonomics Radio, host Stephen Dubner looks at why we tip, which factors affect the amount, and whether tipping should perhaps be eliminated altogether.

Song Travels, Sundays, 9:00 PM

August 4: Dena Kaye is the only daughter of larger-than-life entertainer Danny Kaye. Danny Kaye was a man of boundless talents: singer, actor, comedian, humanitarian, and much more. He is widely known for his roles on Broadway and in films including "White Christmas" and "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." His daughter has lived her life mostly out of the spotlight as a journalist, author and humanitarian. On this Song Travels, Dena Kaye looks back on her late father's career as a singer, comedian, actor, and UNICEF ambassador as well as being a dad.

August 11: Vocalist Madeline Peyroux started out busking on the streets of Paris. Today she's an acclaimed performer whose voice instantly recalls the Golden Age of radio no matter what the tune. She's recorded folk tunes, standards and her original songs. Peyroux discusses the importance of Ray Charles as a musical mentor and host Feinstein accompanies her on "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter."

August 18: Rising Country star Hunter Hayes performed as a four-year old with Hank Williams, Jr., and played the White House at age seven. Hayes played all of the instruments on his debut album, and was rewarded with three Grammy nominations in 2013. This week Hayes performs a set of his original tunes including the chart-topping "Somebody's Heartbreak."

August 25: Composer/pianist Rob Schwimmer has worked with top artists including Simon & Garfunkel, Stevie Wonder, and Bette Midler, and has penned scores for Oscar-winning short films and for television. He is also a master of the Theremin—the instrument responsible for that spooky music heard in classic horror and sci-fi movies. He joins host Feinstein to talk about the endurance of standards and to perform a few of his favorites.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Sent via email August 21, 2013

From two provocative specials on education in our times, music from greats like Johnny Mathis and James Ingram, Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman, to Lee Hay's four-part award-winning series about Cincinnati's iconic King Records, September has something for every listener to 91.7 WVXU and 88.5 WUMB.

AMERICAN RADIOWORKS Documentaries: Thursdays, 7:00 PM:

September 5: "One Child at a Time: Custom Learning in the Digital Age" - Researchers have long known the best way to learn is with a personal tutor. But tutoring is expensive. Providing the benefits of tutoring to everyone hasn't been possible. Now, experts say technology creates new ways for schools to customize education for each student. This program documents the rise of so-called "personalized learning."

September 12: "Second Chance Diploma: Examining the GED" - Today's workers need more education and skills than ever before. But 39 million adults in the United States don't have even the most basic credential: a high school diploma. Many hope their ticket to a better job is passing a test called the GED. But critics say the test is too easy and hardly the equivalent of a high school education. This program documents how the GED - originally designed to help World War II veterans go to college - became the fallback option for millions of high school dropouts

KING RECORDS: CINCINNATI LEGACY, Saturdays at 11 PM

To commemorate the 70th anniversary of the founding of King Records this year, and the citywide celebration of this historic record label, WVXU presents an encore broadcast of this award-winning series.

<http://www.wvxu.org/post/king-records-cincinnati-legacy>

SONG TRAVELS with Michael Feinstein, Sundays at 9:00 PM

September 1: Eric Hutchinson - Singer/songwriter Eric Hutchinson's self-released debut album landed him in the top ten on iTunes' album chart. This wry lyricist draws inspiration from the masters, including Lennon & McCartney, Elvis Costello, Stevie Wonder, and Cole Porter. This week he shares the secret to his powerful brand of pop.

September 8: Barry Manilow - Pop icon Barry Manilow got his start arranging for TV and writing commercial jingles. He was Bette Midler's pianist before he recorded his 1974 breakout hit, "Mandy." The rest is chart-topping history. Manilow joins Feinstein for this hour, and performs his tune "I Am Your Child."

September 15: James Ingram - R&B singer/songwriter James Ingram rose to prominence with the 1982 hit "Baby, Come To Me" (a duet with Patti Austin) and continued a string of successful partnerships with hit-makers including Quincy Jones, Michael McDonald and Barry White. He has been nominated for 14 Grammy awards, including a 1987 win for "Somewhere Out There." This week, Ingram shares the inspiration for his chart-topping collaborations.

September 22: Patti Austin - Vocalist Patti Austin made her debut at age four at the Apollo Theatre. In her career she has been a prolific session musician and top performer on commercials which earned her the moniker "Queen of the Jingles." Her duet partners include Michael Jackson, George Benson, and Luther Vandross. Austin joins Feinstein to talk about their mutual admiration for Quincy Jones, Sammy Davis, Jr., and the Gershwins.

September 29: Johnny Mathis- Jazz & pop vocalist Johnny Mathis has been wowing listeners since the 1950s with his dynamic voice backed by lush arrangements of ballads like "Chances Are," "It's Not For Me To Say," and his definitive version of "Misty." This week the two-time Grammy Hall of Famer reveals what lies behind his enduring success.

LA THEATRE WORKS – Saturdays at 8 PM

September 5: "Quartermaine's Terms"

Written by: Simon Gray

Directed by: Ken Frankel

Starring Keene Curtis, Ian Ogilvy, Holland Taylor

Synopsis: Quartermaine is a timid English teacher at a small regional school in England, whose entire life takes place within the confines of the school lounge. As his colleagues commiserate with crises of love, family, health, and more, Quartermaine remains perpetually removed from the tempest of life that swirls around him.

September 12: "Death of a Salesman"

Written By: Arthur Miller

Directed by: Eric Simonson

Starring: Jane Kaczmarek, Stacy Keach

Synopsis: Once, he was a successful businessman. But now, at 60, he's lost his job and his self-respect. And as he escapes deeper into his daydreams, his sanity and his family life disintegrate. Arthur Miller's 1949 Pulitzer Prize winner comes to life with Stacy Keach as Willy Loman and Jane Kaczmarek as his wife Linda.

September 19: "The Graduate"

Written by: Terry Johnson, based on the novel by Charles Webb and the screenplay by Calder Willingham and Buck Henry

Directed by: John Rubinstein

Starring: Kathleen Turner, Matthew Rhys

Synopsis: An American classic adapted for the stage, starring Kathleen Turner as Mrs. Robinson and Matthew Rhys as Benjamin Braddock. A fresh-faced college grad returns home, diploma in hand, to seek an answer to that age old question: "Now what?" The broadcast includes an interview with the star of The Graduate, screen legend Kathleen Turner.

September 26: "Crumbs from the Table of Joy"

Written by: Lynn Nottage

Directed by: Seret Scott

Starring: Deidrie Henry, Russell Hornsby, Charlayne Woodard

Synopsis: From the pen of the 2009 Pulitzer Prize winner for Drama. Recently widowed Godfrey is under the spell of spiritual leader Sweet Father Divine, while his teen daughters, Ernestine and Ermina, immerse themselves in the illusions of Hollywood to escape the realities of racial prejudice in 1950's Brooklyn.
