Celebrate 10 years of the amazing StoryCorps project, enjoy some Halloween favorites on L.A. Theater Works, and Radiolab continues to ask provocative questions with often unexpected answers. All this and more during October on 91.7 WVXU and 88.5 WMUB.

Ties That Bind: A StoryCorps 10th Anniversary Special - Thursday October 17 at 7 pm

There are questions we would answer, if only we were asked. How did we grow up? What do we remember about home? What about our family? For 10 years StoryCorps has celebrated the stories of everyday people. In honor of this 10th anniversary, WVXU presents a special retrospective hosted by NPR's Scott Simon and StoryCorps founder Dave Isay that features Dave and Scott in an unscripted conversation about the importance of humanity, intimacy and the need to bear witness. They share stories about StoryCorps' beginnings and its growth into an archive of interviews with nearly 100,000 Americans from every state of the union.

Listen in on some unforgettable StoryCorps moments: Danny and Annie Perasa share their belief in the everlasting power of their love in the face of death, the amazing Ms. Divine leaves her mark, Monique Ferrer remembers her husband who died in the World Trade Center on 9/11, and Scott Simon shares one of the last recorded conversations he had with his mother Patricia in a StoryCorps recording booth.

Radiolab: Saturdays at 3:00 pm

WHEN BRAINS ATTACK – October 5

In this episode, strange stories of brains that lead their owners astray, knock them off balance, and, sometimes, propel them to do amazing things. We hear from a kid whose voice was disguised from himself, relive a surreal day in the life of a young researcher hijacked by her own brain, and try to keep up with an ultra-athlete who, after suffering terrible seizures, gained extraordinary abilities by removing a chunk of her brain.

GAMES - October 12

A good game--whether it's a pro football playoff, or a family showdown on the kitchen table--can make you feel, at least for a little while, like your whole life hangs in the balance. This hour of Radiolab, Jad and Robert wonder why we get so invested in something so trivial. What is it about games that make them feel so pivotal?

GUTS – Saturday, October 19

This hour, we dive into the messy mystery in the middle of us. What's going on down there? And what can the rumblings deep in our bellies tell us about ourselves? We stick our hand in a cow stomach, get a window into our core (thanks to a hunter who became a walking science experiment in the 1800s), and listen in on the surprising back-and-forth between our gut and our brain. And we talk to a man who kind of went out of his mind when a medical procedure left him (for a little while) gutless.

WAR OF THE WORLDS – October 25

This hour of Radiolab: an examination of the power of mass media to create panic. Recorded live at the Fitzgerald Theater, in this hour we take a deep dive into one of the most controversial moments in broadcasting history: Orson Welles' 1938 radio play about Martians invading New Jersey. "The War of the Worlds" is believed to have fooled over a million people when it originally aired, and it's continued to fool people since--from Santiago, Chile to Buffalo, New York to a particularly disastrous evening in Quito, Ecuador.

Rising Seas – Part of the BURN documentary series

While all coastal cities face real trouble, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development says Miami is the most vulnerable in its assessment of threats to 50 major cities worldwide. Parts of Miami will be permanently flooded in as few as 15 years.

BURN host Alex Chadwick talks with people deeply involved in the issues of how and when sea-level rise will begin to inundate Miami, as well as the reasons why waters are rising so quickly along the Atlantic seaboard of North America. Radiolab: Saturdays at 3:00 pm

OF MEN AND MYTHS - November 2

A hat that goes viral, a test that gives birth to computer science, and a life-saving maneuver: In this episode of Radiolab, we look at the men behind some of the most famous inventions of our time and wonder what they really created, and what legacy they will leave behind him.

EMERGENCE – November 9

What happens when there is no leader? Starlings, bees, and ants manage just fine. In fact, they form staggeringly complicated societies--all without a Toscanini to conduct them into harmony. This hour of Radiolab, we ask how this happens. We gaze down at the bottom-up logic of cities, Google, and even our very own brains with fire-flyologists, ant experts, neurologists, a mathematician, and an economist.

MORALITY - November 16

Where does our sense of right and wrong come from? We peer inside the brains of people contemplating moral dilemmas. We watch chimps at a primate research center sharing blackberries; observe 3-year-olds fighting over toys; and tour Eastern State Penitentiary -- the country's first penitentiary. Plus, a story of land grabbing, indentured servitude, and slumlording in the fourth grade.

WHERE AM I – November 23

How does your brain keep track of your body? This hour, Radiolab tells stories of the mind-body link gone terribly wrong. We'll puzzle through the mysteries of missing limbs and hear about a novel treatment involving optical illusions. Plus, the story of a butcher who suddenly lost his entire sense of touch, and we hear from pilots who suffer out-of-body experiences while flying fighter jets.

THE POWER OF MUSIC - November 30

Of course music has the power to move us, but it can also keep us alive, turn a man into a legend, and even knock down walls (maybe). In this hour of Radiolab, in this hour, we explore the power of music, gather up a band of biblical horn-blowers, and help an angsty 18th century composer push some classical musicians to their physical and psychological limit.
