She was shopping for food to help seniors when she was inspired to make homemade lasagna for those who couldn't get out during the shelter-in-place orders. What started out as a simple post on her neighborhood Facebook page offering to cook and deliver homemade, 6-pound pans of lasagna ended up with a town filled with a hunger for lasagna. Now known as the "Lasagna Lady," Michelle Brenner guesses she's baked more than a thousand pans of lasagna. She's delivered them to fire departments, medical providers, prisons, the elderly and just about anyone who has asked.

Community – Pandemic	KLOVE's Positive People News Podcast with on-air 60sec promo for podcast	June 2020	4 per wk, 16 total	60sec Podcast 6.12min	'Helping Others Can Help You' – Rock Church Helps With Food, Looks Ahead Past COVID-19 Before the COVID-19 pandemic, San Diego-based Rock Church was always helping areas of the community with hunger and other needs. But, "when the pandemic hit, we just put that into overdrive," explains Senior Pastor Miles McPherson. "I think one of the things that hopefully a lot of people have learned is...one of the ways to get your mind off yourself is to think about other people. You can sit at home and go crazy thinking about the 'what if' scenarios about your money, 'what if' scenarios about your future," but McPherson recommends connecting to others can be "somewhat therapeutic." Rock Church volunteers repaired and delivered 263,000 N95 masks to San Diego's Office of Emergency Services. These respirators were placed into the County of San Diego's Medical Operations Center's warehouse for use by Health Care Workers. 4,284 church volunteers served in three-hour time shifts for a total of 12,852 hours. With the help of restaurants and the community, the church provided thousands of meals to 13 hospitals in San Diego County to encourage "frontline hospital heroes."

Education – Pandemic	KLOVE’s Positive People News Podcast with on-air 60sec promo for podcast	June 2020	4 per wk, 16 total	60sec Podcast 6.22min	Pandemic Takes Creative Teaching To A New Level With Daily Character Videos Yoda teaching English grammar? Mixed up idea, it is. Unless you’re Cedarville University alumna Heidi Bruder trying to spice up language arts for her suddenly online fifth through seventh graders at Calvary Christian Academy in West Branch, Michigan. Then it’s an idea that would make a Jedi master proud. Bruder usually teaches a very interactive class, so this March when students switched to online learning, she was at a loss for what to do. “Switching to online learning was heartbreaking for me,” explained Bruder. “It was hard for me to want to make the videos and teach the lessons because everything I loved about teaching, I felt was being stripped away. But I was convicted by what I tell my kids all the time: Whatever you do, do it for the Lord.”
Mental Health – Faith	KLOVE’s Positive People News Podcast with on-air 60sec promo for podcast	June 2020	4 per wk, 16 total	60sec Podcast 12.38min	Cody Barnhart is director of music and ministry at First Baptist Church in Alcoa, Tennessee. Cody explains he “grew up with a lot of anxiety issues and depression as a teenager,” which persisted during his time in seminary. He eventually realized how much this had impacted him. “Since it had affected me so personally, I’ve been pretty passionate about shedding light on how deep that issue runs in the church.” He recently wrote a first-person article published online by Baptist Press that spoke of the mental health risks that can tag even a servant of God. Sadly, there have been as a number of cases where pastors have apparently taken their own lives, including one pastor who had even led a mental health advocacy group.
Family Issues	Closer Look	6/28/20	7:00pm	30min	Better Dads Have A Plan “We know in business; we know in work that you have goals you have you have to meet: well what’s your fathering plan?” K-LOVE's Bob Dittman talks with Dr. Ken Canfield of the National Center for Fathering about learning how to be good dad. "We're creating this sense of destiny for our lives that will be played out over and over." Related Links: National Center for Fathering Dr. Ken Canfield (bio)
