Mental Health Military	Closer Look	July 21	7:00 pm	15 minutes	Faith Office Of V.A. Tackles Soldier Suicide Every day dozens of soldiers who came home safe from war decide to end their own lives. The U.S. Dept. of Veterans Affairs officially recognizes the role that faith can play in recovering from PTSD. K-LOVE's Ed Lenane catches up with Conrad Washington, the Deputy Dir. of the Center for Faith and Opportunity Initiative for the VA. Related Links: Dept. of VA -- Center for Faith and Opportunity Initiative

Mental Health Military	Closer Look	July 21	7:15 pm	15 minutes	PTSD Healing Possible Through 'Welcome Home Initiative' Welcome Home Initiative retreats are entirely free for a veteran or their spouse to attend, meals and hotels provided. "One of the biggest things we do is to anoint the trigger finger of the veteran or the thumbs of a 50 cal gunner," says Rev. Nigel Mumford, a symbolic act he told K-LOVE's Ed Lenane has delivered many men from painful memories. Related Links: WELCOME HOME INITIATIVE

Mental Health Military – PTSD	K-LOVE's Positive People	July	Weekly Feature	60 seconds Podcast 9:07	Ed McClelland, Helping Veterans Fight PTSD – Monika Kelly Ed McClelland of Operation Creekside had an epiphany years ago. "I got sober in 2006 and my beautiful wife left me in 2008. I needed something to do besides kill myself or go back to drinking, and I thought about how our military has always been out there protecting freedom of those like me, who took it for granted. I have seven uncles that served--one lost on Okinawa June 17 1945. I decided to support our military ."At first, Ed started to put together care packages for servicemen and women, carefully including a scripture verse with each box of goodies. He soon realized that God had additional plans for Ed. "It was crazy at first. I was obsessed with the care packs and to this day will do anything to get them shipped. While I was going through some serious life issues, God was building a powerful ministry. I am the outreach guy and the chaplain. I'm on call 24/7. We could easily be the top dog in care packs, but our mission is so much more because of God's faithfulness to use even a drunk like me to do His will and His work!" Ed McClelland says it's important to reach out and connect to the families who are left mourning the loss of their loved one.“ From that first care pack to the 25- year-old US Marine that I met recently, God has placed me in the right place at the right time on many occasions. I love the families of the ‘22’ (Ed’s referring to the average of 22 veterans who commit suicide every day).

					In September I sat on a bench in memory of Joshua Thompson in Rock Springs Wyoming with his mom April, and with my prayer box in between us. I said "April, put your prayers in here for God to read." As she did, she also told me about her recent diagnosis of Rheumatoid Arthritis. These people are my family." Ed McClelland is always eager and ready to help veteran meet their basic needs. Whether is Army veteran Michael, who is homeless after losing everything in the Northern California Camp Fire (Ed is helping him to get his truck fixed), or Brandon, an Air Force veteran whose served three combat deployments and can't afford to register his vehicle. It's the little things that can become overwhelming and Ed is the first one to rally to helps solve those problems. The holidays can be especially difficult for military families and Ed makes sure to remember as many people as he can. "We also usually shop for about ten military families for Christmas too." In addition to all that he does, Ed McClelland partners with other ministries and happens to be the chaplain for 22TooMany, an organization to helps families who've lost loved ones to suicide. He's quick to give out their website too, www.22toomany.com.

Mental Health PTSD	News	Aug 7	5:30 am	30 seconds	The latest treatment for veterans suffering PTSD won't be coming in a pill...it could be coming with a saddle. A new research project has been launched using therapy horses to help those suffering with PTSD. The patients are matched with retired thoroughbreds and show horses and work on trust exercises, grounding routines or sometimes just being together. So far, results have been favorable. Researchers are hoping to expand the project to include anyone who has suffered trauma, especially children.
Mental Health PTSD	Closer Look	Sep 1	7:00 pm	26 minutes	Police Officers Suffering PTSD, Anger, Addiction Get Help Accidents. Assaults. Police officers see the worst of what happens to humans. That regular dose of tragedy breeds anger that can drive first responders to addiction, abuse -- and even suicide. Serve & Protect provides a confidential hotline to get trauma off their chest. K-LOVE's Frank Hammond talks with retired cop Rob Michaels, CEO of Serve & Protect and Andy Green, retired police detective, Franklin Police Dept. Related Links: Serve & Protect - Trauma Care for First Responders

Mental Health Men & Divorce	Closer Look	Sep 15	7:00 pm	23 minutes	Men At High-Risk For Depression, Suicide After Divorce Women tend to have better support systems than men to help process the emotional trauma of divorce. In contrast, men tend to isolate. "The issue is really how we handle pain," says Dr. Dale Brown, pastor and chaplain who suffered and recovered the loss of his own marriage. K-LOVE'S Ed Lenane reports. Related Links: Dr. Dale Brown (LinkedIn)

Mental Health Youth	News	Aug 14	4:30 am 7:30 am	20 seconds	More research on social media and teens claiming it is detrimental to teen girls and their mental health. They see more bullying and it keeps them from activities like sleep and exercise.

Youth – Finances	K-LOVE's Positive People	Sep	Weekly Feature	60 seconds Podcast 8:10	Financial Reality Fairs – Teens Experience Money Lessons For Real Life - Richard Hunt Understanding real life, real responsibilities, and real financial dangers. For young people, in the 'school of hard knocks,' these things might be learned over the years, but with significant stress. Now there's a more practical way. It's called a Financial Reality Fair, offered by many credit unions nationwide. Tena Lozano, executive director of the RMJ Foundation, says the events, "put the students in the role of an adult and we make them make adult decisions just to give them a real-life simulation of what it will be like to be an adult. So, we really focus on the importance of budgeting, wants vs. needs, the perils of credit card debt, and just generally speaking what it's like to live the month of an adult, having to make purchasing decisions." Each student is assigned a persona - including a job, a salary, a spouse, and a child – all available on the special Bite of Reality app. At the Reality Fair, they go from table-to-table to sign-up for housing, kid care, groceries and dining – along with everything else that normally appears in a family's monthly budget. But there are also 'temptations' at the various tables where participants get a taste of 'upselling.' They're encouraged to buy the most expensive thing available, much like all the 'you need this' advertising and sales pitches that really do take place in our instant gratification culture. "And what the kids don't know is we're actually setting them up to fail. You learn when you fail, and we want their first experience failing with money to be in our little world instead of out in the real world," shares Lozano. "And then when they do run out of money, the students are sent to the credit union table" where their buying decisions vs. income are analyzed, much like a financial counselor would do. "And they (the counselors) actually do allow our students to make returns…so they can return their car, they can return their house, their food, wherever they feel like they made a bad decision, they can correct that and then, ultimately, they succeed!"
