U.S. FARM REPORT

THE NATION'S FOREMOST SYNDICATED FARM SHOW

PROGRAM INFORMATION

"U.S. FARM REPORT"

"U.S. Farm Report" is a weekly half-hour special interest program focusing on news and issues which affect the farming industry and the broader agribusiness community. It is the longest running television series of its type in syndication. Host Orion Samuelson, past president of the Farm Broadcasters Association, is one of the nation's best-known farm broadcasters, able to cover agriculture worldwide and to analyze farm events and their effects on the city consumer.

For 15 years the program has presented reports from all over the U.S., as well as Europe and Asia, covering agricultural methods, markets, meetings, research, legislation and topical interest features. The broad scope of agricultural information also includes local farm projects undertaken to improve city/farm communication. Host Samuelson, senior reporter Max Armstrong and a network of regional reporters present the most current and comprehensive agricultural coverage in America.

Regular features on "U.S. Farm Report" include national month-ahead weather forecasts with weekly updates, analysis and interpretation of market conditions and editorial comment on a wide variety of agricultural topics. "U.S. Farm Report" provides insightful reports with government officials including chairpersons of the House and Senate Agricultural Committees as well as the Secretary of Agriculture and his top aides. The program also explores international agricultural issues with spokespeople for the European Economic Community and representatives of other foreign countries.

"U.S. Farm Report" provides its audience with information unavailable elsewhere, such as the six-part intensive report on agricultural trade possibilities with the People's Republic of China, which was presented a full year before relations with that country were normalized. National farm organization meetings, featuring both officers and delegates, reports on research and education, regional fairs and expositions and special features on improved farming methods from all over the U.S. and abroad are highlighted. The series has broadcast reports on flour production, "no till" weed control, nursery and landscaping, experimental "alcohol rich" sugar beets and coal production as well as reports on major crops and regional crop specialties from all over the nation. Livestock reports cover production, packing, experimental research studies and marketing innovations. Catfish and trout farming also are reported. Another popular feature with viewers is the country church salute, which highlights the history and activities of a different country church each week.

"U.S. Farm Report" with host Orion Samuelson stands as a unique example of programming that provides vital information to agribusiness and relates it in terms that consumers can understand. The series demonstrates the diversity of programming supported by commercial television. The satellite version permits inclusion of weekly Board of Trade and Mercantile Exchange market activity and coverage of late-breaking news affecting agribusiness.

“PROFILES IN CARING” with Kimberly Perkins in 2004

Good News About Good Work!

WHAT: “Profiles in Caring” is a weekly half hour television show highlighting extraordinary humanitarian projects Utahns are a part of – in their community and around the world.

WHERE: Our show takes viewers along as Utahns make a difference – from the foothills of the Wasatch to the mountains of Peru. One show might take us inside a makeshift third world hospital operating room, another goes inside the Hogan of a Navajo Indian elder, yet another finds us on a local college campus.

WHO: Our stories are always personal, as we follow both well-known Utahns and quiet humanitarian leaders in their efforts to help others. All ages, all backgrounds – the colorful composite of the people in our stories reflect the diversity of talents in our community and breathe of heart here.

WHY: To help non-profit agencies and their volunteers to get well-deserved exposure – perhaps prompting viewers to get involved in the project profiled – or any other worthy non-profit endeavor.

WHY YOU? This program will provide your television station with high quality, high impact local programming – an effective way to show your commitment to the community and Utah viewers. Everybody says they “want good news”.... And this is it!

Each show is hosted by retired KTVX-TV news anchor, Kimberly Perkins.

Upcoming "Profiles" include the following stories:

- Utah high school students in Western Africa – risking terrorist travel warnings to help peers at a school for the deaf
- Utah author Richard Paul Evans growing his "Christmas Box House" project with more refuges in Utah, and now in South America – and as he does, reflects on how fame and fortune have changed his goals.
- Utah Jazzman Andrei Kirrilenko working off the court to get U-S medical supplies to needy Russian villages.
- A Utah elementary student spearheading a drive to collect backpacks for Romanian children – and then delivering them herself!
- A Utah non-profit agency that is 75 years old and has touched the lives of a majority of residents here – but most don't know it!
- A Utah doctor who gave up his thriving medical practice to help those without care in Park City – and around the globe.... And he does it despite his cancer.
- And many more!

Every "Profiles" program provides viewers with a way to get more information on the non-profit organization featured, and follows up on previous programs with any news worthy updates. Our web site profilesincaring.com offers links to all of our nonprofits and enables viewers to watch video highlights of these programs online. Finally, each program comes with a brief "tease" piece that be used weekly inside any local news or public affairs program – customized by Kimberly to fit the needs of your show.

We believe this program will provide your station with something to be proud of – because it shows the best of who we are, the hope that we can make things better, and the visual evidence that one person can make a difference.

For more information please contact Kimberly directly at (801) 509-0007 or e-mail her at Kimberly@profilesincaring.com.

Hosted by Kimberly Perkins

What is "Profiles in Caring"?

"Profiles in Caring" is a 30-minute non-profit television program highlighting the extraordinary volunteer efforts of Utahns, and the many lives they change with their hard work, heart and community spirit. It is hosted by Emmy-award winning Salt Lake television personality Kimberly Perkins. PIC is an initiative of Dreamweaver Foundation, a Salt Lake-based non-profit, dedicated to helping humanitarian groups worldwide with medical supplies

Every "Profiles in Caring" show is a documentary look at the services and people involved with the featured organization. We go behind the scenes for a more personal story than is typically generated by television news stories, and conclude the episodes with a call to action to volunteer.

In 2004, "Profiles in Caring" will feature at least 30 local, non-profit organizations in Utah. The majority of these volunteers and groups do their work right here – along the Wasatch front. Occasionally we travel with Utahns abroad, showing how the good will here touches lives half a world away. Every group profiled is an accredited 501C3 organization. The following is a list of non-profits aired (or taped for airing) to date.

Kimberly Perkins Klintworth

Kimberly Perkins Klintworth has a 26-year career in television broadcasting - including co-hosting "PMI Magazine" in Rochester, New York (1982-84) and reporting and anchoring at KDKA-TV in Pittsburgh, PA. (1984-88). Her longest time was spent anchoring the 5:30 and 10:00PM weekday newscasts for KTVX-TV in Salt Lake City, from 1988 to December of 2000 - when she "retired" to spend more time with her husband Skip and 4 children. She won 2 Emmy awards during her tenure at KTVX-TV, and was the lead reporter for the station's successful "4 Utah Kids" and "Immunize by 2" campaigns. Kimberly now volunteers her time as founder, executive producer and host of "Profiles in Caring".

"Profiles in Caring" is the best of both worlds for a journalist" she says. "It provides a way of seeing the planet and the myriad of interesting people and projects making it a better place - without the burden of reporting on the grim news that so often saturates the airwaves. No matter how difficult the situations we see, we always leave uplifted, knowing there are people working to improve those conditions and improve lives!"

Lynn Peterson

Lynn Peterson (Profiles in Caring: Executive Producer, Photojournalist, Editor) was born and raised in Salt Lake City, Utah. After attending the University of Utah's Actor Training Program and majoring in Theatre with a minor in Film and Television, he relocated to Hollywood to work as an Assistant Producer for Dolly Parton's

Sandollar Productions. After the glitz and glory of Hollywood wore off, Lynn moved back to Salt Lake to pursue a more "artistic" career as he co-founded a small theatre company Falling Skys, starred in over 35 local and international plays, a handful of television and film projects and eventually ended up working as a photojournalist for ABC-4 KTVX.

It was at this job, and shortly after 9-11, that Lynn and the recently retired Kimberly Perkins, developed the idea of "taking good stories about people helping others" away from an abbreviated news story format and into full half hour documentaries: Profiles in Caring.

To contact Lynn Peterson: lynn@profilesincaring.org or 801-949-0808

Doug Jardine

Doug Jardine is a 23-year veteran of broadcast journalism. He is an Emmy-award winning television news reporter/anchor and has also won numerous awards for his photography. Doug is the father of three beautiful and fantastic daughters and he couldn't be more proud of them.

Doug began his broadcasting career in Bismarck, North Dakota and moved to Salt Lake City in 1988 where he worked at KUTV and KTVX.

Outside of broadcasting, Doug also has a successful career in public relations and marketing. He was Director, Media Relations, for Huntsman Corporation and continues today as Owner of 3 Amigos Public Relations and Marketing Professionals.

For Doug, Profiles In Caring represents everything good about television!
