The following materials are required to be uploaded to the FCC's online public file: EEO public file reports, issues/program lists, local public notice announcements, time brokerage agreements, joint sales agreements, materials relating to an FCC investigation or complaint (other than investigative information requests from the FCC), and any new political file material.

The following documents are not required to be imported to the FCC's online public file: FCC authorizations, applications and related materials, ownership reports and related materials, EEO reports, The Public and Broadcasting Manual, and letters of inquiry and other investigative requests from the FCC.

Licensees will be required to provide the following information in the online public file: (i) the address and telephone number of the station's main studio; and (ii) an email address of the station's designated contact person for questions regarding the online public file. In addition, for stations which have a main studio outside their community of license, they must provide the location of their correspondence file and existing political file, as well as the required toll free telephone number (to the extent this information has not already been provided above).

Political Material: Licensees are not required to upload their existing political material to the online public file. Instead, radio licensees are permitted to maintain in their existing public inspection file those documents already in place in their political file at the time the new rules became effective upload documents to the online file political file material only on a going-forward basis. The existing political file material must be retained in the local political file for the remainder of the two-year retention period. However, given that WMIM was required to upload new political file as of June 24, 2016, it would be best to upload political file material as of that date.

New political file materials required to be uploaded to the online file "immediately absent unusual circumstances." There are separate subfolders for federal and state candidate advertisers, as well as ads relating to political matter of national importance.

Please keep in mind that the deadline for having all existing public inspection file materials imported to the online public file is December 24, 2016. If you have any questions regarding this matter, please do not hesitate to contact me.
