Sustainability	Live Green Tennessee	606	07/02/16	14:30	26:46	Live Green Tennessee is WCTE's locally produced, flagship sustainability show. Episodes from the 600 season highlight local farms that provide organic and sustainable meat to the local market; a trip to the Maryville farmer's market; the art of canning; a company that produces "green" municipal lighting; a small-batch chilis farm in East Tennessee; a rehab hospital for injured wildlife; and a visit with the creators of Nashville's Urban Food Forest. The 900 season begins with a winery in Brush Creek, a daffodil farm in Knoxville, local honey in Martin and a sustainability fair in Crossville, as well as many other subjects involving local people, local food and living green.

Education	Growing Education: Community Conversation	102	07/02/16	09:00	26:47	Co-sponsored by the Highlands Economic Partnership, this community conversation is part of American Graduate: Let's Make It Happen, a public media initiative supported by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to help local communities across America address the dropout crisis. WCTE's goal is to bring together our area's educational and economic leaders, as well as community members, for a town hall meeting to incite meaningful discussion around these issues. Planting Seeds is the second documentary in WCTE's American Graduate series, Growing Education. This episode will focus on education from the very beginning of a child's life, and how parents and caregivers make the biggest impact on a child's lifelong learning. Episode 104, the Middle Years, focuses on 1st through 7th grade, vital school years that are imperative to a child's success in the classroom and beyond. Episode 105, Branching Out, focuses on the 8th-12th grade school years and issues facing students putting them at risk of not graduating on time. There is also a focus on how to build career paths for students, starting as early as 8th grade. Episode 106 focuses on higher education opportunities in Cookeville and the Upper Cumberland.
