Quarterly Issues and Programs List General Issues

The following is a sampling of our coverage of significant issues to which WKHK-FM, Richmond, Virginia, responded from July 1 to September 30, 2023, along with the most pertinent treatments of those issues.

A. Animal Adoption

Focus Richmond

Community-wide dog adoption Richmond SPCA

Tabitha Treloar, Director of Communications Richmond SPCA

Across metro Richmond and beyond, with a concentration of regional shelters performing offsite adoptions on Saturday, August 12 from 11 a.m. – 3 p.m. at the Richmond SPCA.

Eighteen participating municipal shelters and private animal rescue organizations are conducting a fee-waived or fee-reduced adoption event this weekend thanks to a grant from the Community Foundation for a greater Richmond. Along with the Richmond metro area, 13 additional localities from Piedmont to the Middle Peninsula are taking part in the event. Coordinated by the Richmond SPCA and Ring Dog Rescue, these 18 groups will offer reduced or waived adoption fees to send hundreds of homeless dogs into loving homes, freeing up much-needed space at public and private animal welfare organizations across metro Richmond and beyond.

To boost dog adoptions and create more kennel space in shelters across the region, the Community Foundation for a greater Richmond provided a grant to waive or reduce dog adoption fees during a three-day adoption promotion dubbed the “Community Snoutreach Event.”

Hometown Heros 2023 The Faces Behind A Purpose for You

Hero, Timika Cousins

Timika Cousins is the founder of The Faces Behind a Purpose for You, an organization that supports survivors of domestic or sexual violence. She was inspired to create this non-profit when she lost her aunt to domestic violence in 2014. This organization provides enrichment activities, strategies, and advocacy for individuals and families that have suffered from these traumatic experiences.

“I am motivated by our community. And by teaching our children how to avoid these types of relationships and speak up. I love the trust I have built in the community,” says Cousins.

Friends of the James River

Aimee Bushman, Park Ranger

If you're a fan of the park and enjoy a bit of yacht rock, you'll want to join us on September 9th on Brown's Island for "Take Me to the River." This event will help to raise funds towards our mission and feature a seafood-themed food truck court and three of Richmond's most popular bands: Three Sheets to the Wind, Full Moon Fever, and Fear of Music!

Camera to Canvas will pair some of our region's best artists with their favorite Bill Draper photos to create original works for a charity auction benefiting our mission. You will have the opportunity to bid on individual items, or paired sets of artworks. Join us on September 22nd, from 6-9PM at The Boathouse at Rocketts Landing for an evening of cocktails, food, music, silent and live auctions, and plenty of beautiful art.

Central Virginia Salvation Army - Seniors Programs

Tom Carmichael, Associate Director

Each Salvation Army corps community center serves its local senior citizen community unique ways to meet specific needs. A wide variety of program offerings - ranging from clubs and classes to groups and gatherings - empowers older adults to learn, laugh, and thrive among like-minded friends.

The Salvation Army works to stimulate the minds and bodies of older adults via educational opportunities, low-impact exercise, dances, lunches, fellowship, and countless other "young at heart" activities.

To help ease the functional transitions associated with advanced age, we offer housing assistance and living quarters for the elderly - each cultivated with a loving atmosphere of help, kindness, and acceptance.

Because the mental and physical disabilities associated with old age impact both the elderly and their loved ones, The Salvation Army offers adult day care facilities. Here, older adults unable to independently care for themselves enjoy friendship, kindness, and monitored activities while their caretakers enjoy a much-needed break.

Old Dominion EMS Alliance

Heidi Hooker, Executive Director

The Old Dominion EMS Alliance (ODEMSA) is excited to announce the inaugural Siren Slam Cornhole Tournament for Heroes, taking place on November 18th, 2023, at the NES Cornhole Lounge (NESCornholeLounge.com) in Glen Allen, VA. This event promises a day of friendly competition, exciting games, and plenty of fun for participants of all ages.

Event check-in and registration starts at 10:00 AM and tournament play begins at 11:00 AM. Located at 2443 Old Brick Road, Glen Allen, VA, NES Cornhole Lounge will serve as the battleground for this exciting double elimination cornhole tournament with blind draw for team pairings.

The primary goal of the Siren Slam Cornhole Tournament for Heroes is to raise funds for the Old Dominion EMS Alliance (ODEMSA), a vital organization that supports EMS services throughout the ODEMSA Region, which encompasses a 9,000-square-mile area in Virginia. All proceeds from this event will directly benefit ODEMSA, contributing to the enhancement of EMS programs, services, planning, and committees.

This event is more than just a cornhole tournament; it's a day of community and celebration. There will be food, beer, games, and raffles to enjoy. For those who want to test their cornhole skills, the tournament offers cash prizes for the top three teams. If you prefer not to compete, you can still have a blast with unique specialty games and open play for all ages.

The unique specialty games promise excitement and laughter for everyone. The "Gurney Games" provide a unique twist on cornhole, as contestants lie on an ambulance stretcher and take their shot at victory. "Trauma Toss Turmoil" is a thrilling challenge where contestants are blindfolded and spun around before attempting to toss bean bags onto a cornhole board.

Registration is open for tournament players, and you can register in advance at odemsa.net/throw or at the door for $40 per player. There's also a $25 cover fee for those not participating in the tournament, granting access to all other events except the main competition.

ODEMSA invites potential sponsors to be a part of this exciting event. You can support the cause by sponsoring a lane or a game or becoming a general event sponsor. For more information on sponsorship opportunities, visit odemsa.net/email-us. A special thanks to FESCO Emergency Sales for sponsoring the Code Brew Hops for Heroes!

"We are thrilled to have the first-ever Siren Slam Cornhole Tournament for Heroes at the NES Cornhole Lounge," said Heidi Hooker, ODEMSA's Executive Director. "This event is not just about fun and competition; it's an opportunity for our community to come together and show our appreciation for the EMS providers who serve their community. We invite everyone to join us for a day of family-friendly fun while supporting a cause that truly matters."

Established in 1978, the Old Dominion EMS Alliance (ODEMSA) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to enhancing EMS services in the region. The ODEMSA Region covers 26 hospitals, nearly 100 EMS agencies, over 6,200 EMS providers and serves 1.48 million residents.

Don't miss your chance to be part of our first-ever fundraising event. Join us on November 18th, 2023, at the NES Cornhole Lounge for a day of fun, competition, and support for our EMS heroes. Visit odemsa.net/throw for more information and to register in advance. Your participation can make a real difference in the lives of those who work tirelessly to keep our community safe.

Operation Healing Forces -Bizarre Bazaar

Anthony F. Markel

Markel Corporation
OHF Founder & Vice Chair

THE BIZARRE BAZAAR, one of the top gift shows in America, has joined with Operation Healing Forces to create a special opening night shopping event, Operation Bizarre Bazaar. The 1,500+ expected attendees will enjoy refreshments and have first access to over 300 fantastic exhibitors from all over the country, all while helping our amazing American heroes. Richmond International Speedway
Richmond, VA

Operation Bizarre Bazaar

Our Concept is Simple: Strengthen human bonds.

OHF provides a suite of programs for the SOF community to aid operators and their families given decades of perpetual combat operations, increased suicides, and an alarming divorce rate. Even though SOF make-up roughly less than 5% of the DoD and are comprised of the US military's most elite, SOF has the highest casualty, divorce, and illness rates amongst all services.

OHF's programs are specifically designed and tailored to enable these war-torn men and women to break through the silence to openly discuss their battlefield and personal hardships and provide needed support. A safe, protected atmosphere with an OHF staff that's comprised of former operators, SOF spouses, and personnel who have worked serving the SOF community over a decade creates trust allowing our participants to let their guard down and share. Realizing they are not alone, participants discover it is appropriate — and not a stigma — to seek a hand up, help, support, and guidance when needed for SOF professionals and their families. And once an operator or SOF family becomes a part of our OHF alumni family—we maintain bonds and are always here if ever needed.

Our staff serves 24/7 just like the SOF community we support.

VPFW- Virginia Physicians for Woman / Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Nicole Kelleher, M.D.

What is the difference between a screening mammogram and a diagnostic mammogram?

A screening mammogram is done on a woman without any symptoms or concerns. Screening mammograms are a way for breast cancer to be detected in its earliest stages of development before symptoms may be present.

A diagnostic mammogram is done on a woman who has noticed a change in her breast, such as a “lump” or thickening, focal and/or persistent pain, nipple changes, spontaneous nipple discharge, etc., or if the referring clinician has a concern on a patient’s clinical breast exam. While a screening mammogram usually takes about 15 minutes, a diagnostic mammogram may take a little longer if the tech needs to take more images and/or focus on a specific area of interest.

What is a radiologist looking for in a mammogram?

When reading a mammogram, a radiologist is looking for the presence of a new mass, a grouping of calcifications, an asymmetry, architectural distortion, skin thickening, nipple changes, lymph node enlargement, and more. The radiologist will compare your most recent mammogram with your prior mammograms to detect any changes. Each of these descriptors can be benign (non-cancerous) or malignant (cancerous). As a result, if any of them appears on your mammogram, you may get called back for extra mammogram views and possibly an ultrasound.

If you're called back, please don't worry until we tell you to worry. Most patients who are brought back for additional views and/or an ultrasound do not have cancer.

How should women best prepare for a mammogram?

It's best to be as relaxed as possible and not wear deodorant the day of your mammogram. If possible, make sure your provider has access to your prior mammograms. Learn more about how to prepare for your screening mammogram at VPFW.

Why can't you wear deodorant to a mammogram?

Deodorants and antiperspirants have tiny aluminum particles that help prevent sweat from coming to the surface of the skin. These tiny particles can affect how accurately your mammogram can be read by a radiologist. On a mammogram, the particles show up as tiny white dots that can look like calcifications. There are many different causes for calcifications, most of which are benign; but sometimes calcifications can be an early sign of breast cancer. If these white dots appear on your mammogram, your radiologist will likely order more tests to determine their source.

United Way Literacy Kits

United Way of Greater Richmond & Petersburg has announced the assembly of 2,366 Literacy Kits that the nonprofit is distributing to elementary school students this summer and fall with the support of more than 170 volunteers.

United Way Literacy Kits include essential school supplies, an age-appropriate book and information for families so students can be prepared for kindergarten and reading at grade-level by third grade.

The Literacy Kits will be distributed to elementary schools in Richmond, Chesterfield, Goochland, Dinwiddie, Powhatan, and United Way's seven Kindergarten Countdown Camps.

In addition to Literacy Kits, United Way assembled 1,200 Family Emergency Preparedness Kits, 3,100 Cards of Encouragement, 350 Personal Care Kits, 685 Snack Packs and distributed 2,779 books to 17 Little Free Library locations with the help of over 2,200 volunteers, impacting nearly 51,800 community members.

United Way recruits volunteers and accepts donations of supplies year-round to support the Literacy Kit initiative. Individuals can contribute by hosting a Literacy Kit Drive, becoming a Literacy Kit Leader, donating completed kits or by volunteering directly with United Way.

To learn more about United Way's Literacy Kit program or to support the initiative, visit www.yourunitedway.org/volunteer/literacy-kits/.

Educators within the Metro Richmond area interested in receiving Literacy Kits for their kindergarten students in the 2023-2024 year can reach out to volunteer@yourunitedway.org. The deadline for submitting requests is August 8.

Getting Back-to-School Ready

Dr. Karen Shelton, -Virginia State Health Commissioner

While many families are still enjoying summer vacation, school is just around the corner. Now is the time to start getting your child ready for a healthy start to school.

Scheduling pediatric medical and dental appointments is sometimes lost in the shuffle of summer daycare, sports, and vacation planning. It's important to start making these appointments now before the end-of-summer rush to make sure your child has the necessary health records and immunizations when school starts again.

Virginia requires all children entering daycare, public and private schools to give proof of vaccination before entering Kindergarten, 7th, and 12th grades. Children who do not meet the vaccination requirements for school may not be able to start on time.

Immunizations are just one of several areas of overall health that parents and guardians should be paying attention to, including routine medical and dental checkups which are critical to a child's overall health. Especially coming out of the recent COVID pandemic, overall mental health is another key element of a child's health that needs attention.

VPFW's Mama and Baby Supplies Drive & Giveaway

Dr. Hartle OB/GYN at Virginia Physicians for Women

VPFW's Mama and Baby Supplies Drive & Giveaway, which is coming up on Sunday, July 23 at VPFW's Koger Center office from 3-6pm. You can donate items at any VPFW now through Thursday, July 20th or bring items to the drive.

And if you need these mama and baby supplies, come to the event, and receive items like diapers, wipes, formula, breastfeeding supplies, postpartum and menstrual supplies that they will be giving away.

Last summer we were in the middle of the worst baby formula shortage in history and still really feeling the effects of the pandemic, and we were talking about how we really wanted to do something to help moms who were struggling to find what they need to feed and take care of their babies.

And with VPFW having such a large patient base of new and expecting moms, we decided what better way to help than to create a Mama and Baby Supplies Drive so that all these moms could have a way to help each other. So, moms who had spare formula or other baby supplies that they didn't need could donate them at any VPFW location to be given out at our Mama and Baby Supplies Drive & Giveaway.

We worked with Villa Advocacy Group to host the drive last year, and we have found there is still a need for these supplies among moms and families this year, and in fact there will always be a need. So, we are partnering with Villa again this year and are hoping to make this an annual event.
