When is the next election? November 2nd Municipal Elections deadline to early vote - 25 days before the election. How can an individual change information on their voter registration form? How does someone register to vote? When is the deadline to register to vote in the next election? If someone wants to run for office but is not affiliated with a party can they run for office? Unaffiliated candidate. What do I need to do to make sure that I am eligible to vote in the 2021 elections? In North Carolina, you need to be 18 years of age, a US Citizen, and that you have lived in Rockingham County for at least 30 days before the Election. How can I find out if I am eligible to vote? If you meet the prior requirements you are eligible. Best way is to call or come into our local county election office. How do I find out if I am already registered to vote? The North Carolina Secretary of State has a nice "My Voter" page on their website. It allows you to see if you are an active registered voter. All you need to enter is your name, birth date, and

					address, and it will give you your voter information OR you can call the County Election Office. What is the deadline to register to vote? To register by mail the deadline is October 11. North Carolina is a state that allows Late Registration. The voter does need to personally appear in the county election office between October 12th and Election Day which is November 8th. During the late registration period, the voter may not go to the polling place to vote. They must vote the ballot that is given to them at the time they register – and then return it to the County Election office. What process must I go through to register to vote? You can come to our local office and register in person any time. The even year Federal Primary and General Elections are the only elections that are mandated to be held as polling place elections. In Rockingham County, every other election is conducted by mail ballot. If the voter keeps their voter information up to date with their address, then the voter should stay as an active registered voter. If not, by having a mail ballot election come back as undeliverable can change the voter’s status from active to inactive. Do I have to register every year? No. You register, and then if your physical address changes, the voter updates their information and then always votes in the Federal General elections, they will remain an active voter. Do I have to register by political party? North Carolina law does not allow registering with you party designation. North Carolina is an open primary state so the voter can vote any party they wish in the Primary. The voter receives a ballot for each party with candidates in the Primary. The voter then chooses which ballot to voter (only one party ballot may be voted). In the General election, all the candidates are on the same ballot and they can vote for who they choose. If I didn’t vote in a primary election am I still eligible to participate in the General Election? Yes, in North Carolina that law was appealed many years ago. What do voters need to bring with them when they go to vote in the 2020 elections? An ID. – may be a photo id or not.
