1/5/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club - Blue Chip Economic Forecast	59	8:30 PM	22.6	What's in store for Central Ohio's economy in 2024? Inflation seems to be coming under control, and is well off its summer 2022 highs, yet the region's labor market remains incredibly tight, with just 3.3% unemployment in October 2023. While the local economy appears to be booming from some perspectives, many residents are feeling left behind and left out. Will Central Ohio's string of economic successes continue, or will the economy succumb to the slower growth and possible recession that many expect? Join us for the 25th annual official release of the Regionomics Columbus Economic Forecast and hear what the year ahead looks like for Central Ohio's economy from a panel of leading experts at CMC's first program of 2024 and one of our most popular forums of the year. Featuring, Bill LaFayette, Ph.D., Owner, Regionomics, Ben Ayers, Senior Economist, Nationwide Insurance, and Joyce Chen, Ph.D., Professor, Economics, Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies, The Ohio State University, with host Mark Williams, Business Reporter, The Columbus Dispatch.

1/12/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club- What Would It Take to End Homelessness in Columbus?	58	8:30 PM	22.6	What if Columbus committed to becoming the largest US city to completely eliminate homelessness? How much would it cost? What specifically would we do with the money? How many other US cities might follow our lead? As Columbus works to hone a distinctive identity that differentiates it from other American cities, could its unique quality be that no one in Ohio's capital city lacked a place to call home? We'll soon know more about the current scope of homelessness in our neighborhoods: every year, a "Point-in-Time Count" of Columbus' homeless population occurs on a single day in January. The next count will be held on January 25, 2024. In January 2023, Community Shelter Board's (CSB) count revealed the single largest increase and an all-time high in the number of people experiencing homelessness at a single point in time in Columbus and Franklin County. That count revealed an overall 22% increase of those who were experiencing homelessness in our community, and that 71% of the people were Black or African American (compared to being 29% of the general population). According to the CSB, this inequality is the result of discriminatory "redlining" lending practices, restrictive covenants, structural racism, classism, and gender injustice. Predictions by a national research firm, Focus Strategies, show the housing availability crisis Columbus is experiencing locally will drive a decline in program outcomes and increase entries into homelessness, with those earning 30% or less of the area's median income being the most vulnerable population. With an expert panel we dive into homelessness in Columbus and ask the big question: what it would take to end homelessness in Central Ohio once and for all? Featuring Shannon Isom, President &amp; CEO, Community Shelter Board, Sheli Mathias, Director, The Open Shelter, Bob Weiler, Chairman of the Board, The Robert Weiler Company, and Letha Pugh, Co-Founder, Bake Me Happy, with host Ann Bischoff, Executive Director, Star House.

1/19/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Creating the City Beautiful	57	8:30 PM	22.6	What makes a city beautiful, livable, walkable, and simply a desirable place to call home? And on the other side, what mistakes can destroy a city’s appeal to residents, visitors, and investors? For the last six years, Cal Poly Assistant Professor of City and Regional Planning Dave Amos has been exploring answers to these questions through his hugely popular YouTube channel, City Beautiful. The channel embraces a mantra: that cities are amazing, and then seeks to understand what makes some cities succeed while others stumble. Amos’ inquisitive, fast-paced, and approachable style has earned his channel more than 651,000 subscribers, with his videos about cities and city planning regularly attracting millions of views. Amos has explored what happened when cities banned cars, why high-rise public housing projects were once thought to be part of the answer to America’s chronic housing projects, and even what urban planning looking like in the former Soviet Union. Join CMC and City Beautiful creator, producer, and narrator Dave Amos and Manuel Santana Palacios, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of City and Regional Planning, The Knowlton School of Architecture, The Ohio State University, as we explore the factors that shape the cities we call home, with host, Belkis Schoenhals, Principal Planner, The City of Columbus.

1/26/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Prescription for Change: Solving Ohio's Healthcare Worker Shortage	56	8:30 PM	22.6	Few industries in Central Ohio can currently meet their present and medium-term staffing needs, with healthcare among the hardest-pressed sectors. The region's healthcare giants are galloping to keep up with Central Ohio's urban and suburban growth, building new facilities that will need to be staffed by legions of trained professionals, including physicians, nurses, technicians, and specialists. As reported in Columbus Business First, Central Ohio's four major hospital systems are currently struggling to fill more than 2,200 vacant nursing positions alone. Rural Ohioans too are suffering from the ill effects of too-few healthcare professionals, with "care deserts" leaving entire counties without critical specialists. What is being done to close this enormous gap and meet the employment needs of Ohio's healthcare providers and patients? Featuring Todd Ambrosia, DNP, MSN, MBA, FNP-BC, FNAP, President, Mount Carmel College of Nursing, Karen Rose, Ph.D., RN, FGSA, FAAN, Dean, The Ohio State University College of Nursing, Susan Beaudry, Vice President, Osteopathic Heritage Foundations, and Chynna Smith, D.O., Family Medicine Resident, OhioHealth Dublin Methodist Hospital, with host Greg Moody, Director of Professional Development, The John Glenn College of Public Affairs, The Ohio State University.

2/2/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Is Public Art a Public Good?	57	8:30 PM	22.6	Is public art a public good? Art in its most highly visible public form can serve as a point of pride for residents and a draw for tourists. In the era of Instagram, public art can enliven neighborhoods with color, joy, and inclusiveness, reflecting what a community values and holds dear. It can be a means for a society to showcase creativity and wonder but can also be used to send a not-so-subtle signal of cultural, economic, or social dominance. It can be highly controversial (think Columbus' now-removed statue of Christopher Columbus) or even illegal (think graffiti). What messages should public art in Columbus convey, and who gets to decide whose art becomes public art? Join us with a panel of art leaders as we discuss the release of the new State of Public Art Report by the Greater Columbus Arts Council with a passionate conversation on the role, message, and future of public art in Columbus. Featuring Adam Brouillette, Artist, Muralist, and Public Art Advocate, Celeste Malvar-Stewart, Fashion Designer &amp; Performance-Based Public Artist, and Adjunct Faculty, Columbus College of Art &amp; Design, Marshall Shorts, Creative-N-Chief, Artfluentia, and Creative Director, Ohio Organizing Collaborative, Shelbi Toone, Public Art Commissioner, and Project Manager, Poindexter Village Museum and Cultural Center, with host Corey Favor, Senior Director of Community Engagement, Talent, &amp; Culture, Orange Barrel Media, Columbus College of Art &amp; Design Alumni.

2/9/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Addicted to the Game: Did Ohioans Win or Lose by Legalizing Sports Betting?	59	8:30 PM	22.6	Sports betting for adults over age 21 became legal in Ohio on January 1, 2023, and is now a $6 billion industry. Thirty-six states – plus the District of Columbia – now permit legal sports betting. Nearly every sports bet in Ohio – some 97% of bets – are placed online, although in-person bets can now be placed at casinos, stadiums, bars and restaurants. Overseeing the state’s enormous sports gambling industry is the Ohio Casino Control Commission; with jurisdiction over Ohio gambling, the Commission has already levied fines on the industry for gambling advertisements that don’t comply with the state’s strict rules. The industry’s explosive growth has come with a human cost too, with calls to one support line for problem gamblers up 150% in the first seven months of 2023, according to WOSU Public Media. With the Super Bowl right around the corner, we dive into the impact of a full year of legal sports betting in Ohio to ask: who’s winning and who’s losing? Featuring Matt Schuler, Executive Director, The Ohio Casino Control Commission, Dan Dodd, Vice President of Government Relations, ZHF Consulting LLC, Stacey Frohnappel-Hasson, Chief, Office of Prevention & Problem Gambling, Ohio Department of Mental Health & Addiction Services, and Oyauma Garrison, President & Chief Executive Officer, Maryhaven, Inc, with host Rob Oller, Sports Reporter & Columnist, The Columbus Dispatch.

2/16/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Understanding the New Landscape of Childcare	57	9:00 PM	22.6	How broken are the economics of childcare? It's no secret that Ohio's childcare resources aren't able to meet the current demand from employers, parents, and families. A stunning recent report from Action for Children, The Child Care Provider Survey, uncovered critical issues facing child care providers in central Ohio, including concerns about staffing, capacity, and tuition increases. More than half of providers reported that their monthly revenue does not cover expenses. With the ending of pandemic-era support funding, recent findings by Action for Children emphasize the need for sustained, flexible investment in central Ohio's child care centers and Family Child Care programs.. This mixed picture produces a domino effect – not enough staff limits enrollment, which reduces revenue and causes tuition to rise – an unstable reckoning that shortchanges families, employers, and communities. Join CMC and a panel of experts as we unpack the deeply-set factors causing central Ohio's childcare providers to struggle. We'll look at how the region can chart a path to a more equitable and sustainable future for the childcare that's ideal for children, parents, and employers together. Featuring Eric Karolak, Ph.D., Chief Executive Officer, Action for Children, Kara Wente, Director, Department of Children and Youth, State of Ohio, Aslyne Rodriguez, Senior Director, Regional Strategic Partnerships, COTA, and Carol Haynes, Executive Director, Kiddie Academy, with host Cierra Johnson, Anchor and Reporter, NBC4.

2/23/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club- High Stakes: How Legal Weed Will Reshape Ohio	58	8:30 PM	22.6	With the November passage of Issue 2, Ohio became the 24th state – plus the District of Columbia – to legalize recreational marijuana. Pot’s approval means the state’s cannabis industry is poised for major expansion, with predictions that the first year of sales could reach $2B, with annual sales potentially climbing to $4 billion within just a few years, according to industry monitor MJBizDaily. Ohio is seen as fertile territory for the pot industry to take off, with multiple major companies vying to dominate the Buckeye State’s enormous new and as-yet untapped market for marijuana sales. Yet the State House isn’t yet done making changes to the citizen-initiated statute passed by Ohio voters – with everything from the number of plants home growers can possess, to the tax to be levied on pot sales, to the legal levels of THC permitted in plants and extracts – still to be determined by lawmakers. One thing is for sure: recreational marijuana is poised to become both incredibly lucrative and pervasive in Ohio. With an expert panel, we unpack the present and future of Ohio’s blooming pot industry. Featuring Ariane Kirkpatrick, CEO, Harvest of Ohio, James Canepa, Superintendent of the Division of Cannabis Control, Ohio Department of Commerce, and Gus Burns, Cannabis Industry Reporter, MLive, with host, Kate Siefert, Reporter, ABC 6 and FOX 28 Columbus.

A modern downtown will demand even more to thrive. 3/8/2024	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Columbus' $8 Billion Transit Investment: Can LinkUS Build a Better Commute?	57	8:30 PM	22.6	Next November, Columbus voters may be asked to approve a 0.5% sales tax increase to generate $6 billion of the estimated $8 billion cost the massive long-term transit improvement project known as LinkUS. LinkUS promises to better connect parts of Columbus through significant transit improvements that include new bus rapid transit (BRT) lines and infrastructure improvements for pedestrians that include new trails and sidewalks. BRT is a mass transit alternative that can deliver some of the amenities associated with light rail – dedicated lanes, easy boarding at stations, fast and frequent service – without the higher cost and longer construction time of rail projects. Three new LinkUS transit corridors are now on the horizon – a West Broad Corridor from Prairie Township to Downtown Columbus, an East Main Corridor from Downtown to past Reynoldsburg close to Etna, and a Northwest Corridor from downtown Columbus along Highway 315 to Bethel Road on a route that includes The Ohio State University and major employers. If voters approve, work would begin on the West Broad Corridor as early as 2025, and it could be operational as soon as 2028. Will Columbus voters see the value of investing in these corridors to finally give Columbus commuters new mobility options that could serve as models for the entire region? Featuring Stevie Pasamonte, Chair, Transit Columbus, William Murdock, Executive Director, MORPC, Shannon Hardin, President, Columbus City Council, Monica Tellez-Fowler, Deputy Chief Executive Officer, COTA and introductory remarks by Andrew J. Ginther, Mayor, City of Columbus, with host, Curtis Jackson, Evening Anchor, Spectrum News 1.
