Coloradans are experiencing hate crimes more often than we thought, according to a new study	DEI, safety, law enforcement	"In the last five years, three out of every 10 Coloradans experienced a hate crime and according to a recent study, most of those crimes go unreported."	10/4/2022
Political rift shows up in Board of Education's vote to veto conservative American Birthright social studies standards	Colorado Matters , politics, mental health	"The state board of education voted 4 to 3 Wednesday against adopting a national conservative coalition's American Birthright social studies standards to guide Colorado educators who are teaching history, economics, geography, and civics."	10/12/2022
Out-of-state patients seeking abortions arrive in Colorado in record numbers	Health, politics	"When Texas passed an abortion law last year, Senate Bill 8, banning all abortions after six weeks — about when fetal cardiac activity can be detected — Colorado saw an uptick in patients from out of state. And when Roe v. Wade was overturned, that number began spiking."	10/17/2022
CDOT may be slowing highway expansions, but don't expect any highway removals	Transportation	"The Colorado Department of Transportation and other entities recently made headlines for canceling a handful of highway and road widening projects to comply with a state greenhouse gas emissions-reduction law. Now, with emissions from transportation remaining stubbornly high, will Colorado go further and remove any highways — as is being done in other U.S. cities? Not likely, says CDOT Executive Director Shoshana Lew."	10/17/2022
Still waiting on a TABOR refund? Here's what to do about your missing check	Government	"Just over 2.5 million refunds have been processed, according to the Colorado Department of Revenue. The state estimated 3.5 million people filed their taxes in time for a refund, but some checks were consolidated for joint filers, like married couples. The department is also still processing returns from people who filed an extension."	10/19/2022
'How do we stop this from happening?' Parents fret that school closures will harm kids	Education	"Before a final decision, district officials are hosting meetings at each of the ten schools as well as the schools slated to receive the new students."	10/31/2022
Jared Polis calls on Colorado to 'evangelize' red flag gun laws in the wake of the Club Q shooting	Government, LGBTQ+	"While red flag laws have been on the books in the state since 2020, in the aftermath of this weekend's Club Q shooting in Colorado Springs, Gov. Jared Polis said the statute isn't being sufficiently used."	11/21/2022
10 years of recreational cannabis research: What we've learned and what's still unknown	Health, economy, public safety	On Colorado Matters , Angela Bryan, a professor of psychology, and Brian Keegan, an assistant professor of information science, both at the University of Colorado Boulder, talked about some of what's currently known and unknown about cannabis. They also busted a few long-standing myths, too.	11/30/2022
Colorado breaks mass shooting record as gun deaths rise	Public safety	The Club Q attack in Colorado Springs was the 13th mass shooting in the state this year and pushed the state past its record for the most people injured in mass gun violence in a single year, according to a group that started tracking mass shootings nationwide in 2014.	12/8/2022
Audit of how Colorado evaluates schools and districts has officials and educators at odds over results	Education	The approach Colorado uses to measure, rate and bolster schools and districts is working like it's supposed to, according to a legislative mandated audit, which said the accountability system is a "reasonable and appropriate" way to evaluate school performance.	12/12/2022
