Genius takes its participants (and viewers at home) back in time — to ancient Greece, for example, where Eratosthenes calculated the Earth’s circumference — and to more recent history and such thinkers as Edward Hubble, who uncovered and established the distances between our planet and the vast galaxies throughout the universe.	“Why Are We Here” “Where Did the Universe Come From” “Safe in Our Hands” “What Are We?”	5/25/16 8 p.m. 1 hour 5/25/16 9 p.m. 1 hour 6/1/16 8 p.m. 1 hour 6/1/16 9 p.m. 1 hour
3. Local Community Interest	Dialogue “Judge Juan Guzmán” Chilean Judge Juan Guzmán, who was assigned to investigate the criminal claims that had been filed against Pinochet by the relatives of people who disappeared under his dictatorship, talks about his transformation, his investigative methods, and the legacy of the case. Outdoor Idaho “Eating Local” More than 50 farmers markets operate throughout the state, allowing farmers and consumers to meet and learn from each other. It’s a trend that harkens back to a simpler time, when communities supported local farmers and people knew where their food came from. This program explores the growing fascination with eating local. Outdoor Idaho “Bear Lake, Caribbean of the Rockies” This program examines the challenges faced by those who manage this resource for recreation, irrigation, and generating electrical power. Bear Lake is a naturally formed lake, but the top 21 feet are a man-made reservoir, making it one of America’s unique hybrids. Dialogue “Historian Fredrik Logevall” Pulitzer Prize-winning historian and author Fredrik Logevall, Ph.D. talks about the antecedents to the Vietnam War, about why he felt it was important for people to know about the pre-history of the Vietnam War, whether the war could have been avoided, and how the decisions made before and during the Vietnam War have affected our country's foreign policy since then.	4/8/16 7:30 p.m. 30 minutes 4/14/16 8 p.m. 30 minutes 4/28/16 8 p.m. 30 minutes 4/29/16 7:30 p.m. 30 minutes

	“The Health of Our Lakes” From the air, northern Idaho’s lakes appear as magnificent pools of blue, shimmery water. But if you look at a microscopic level, you’ll find signs that Idaho’s lakes are in trouble. A microscopic organism threatens the water quality of these lakes, putting the recreation economy of the entire region at risk. This program follows scientists and lake managers as they investigate the increasing levels of cyanobacteria, or blue-green algae, in Idaho’s northern lakes. Dialogue “The Making of Bluebird Man” Idaho Bluebird Man, Al Larson, and filmmaker Matthew Podolsky discuss ‘Bluebird Man,’ a documentary Podolsky produced about Larson. The film chronicles Larson’s nearly 40 years of building, disseminating, and monitoring bluebird nesting boxes throughout Idaho. The boxes are designed to help halt the decline of bluebirds, which compete with introduced species like starlings for nesting cavities. Larson, 94, has placed more than 300 of the boxes around the state. He’s also banded more than 30,000 bluebirds. They talk about why they wanted to make the documentary, the challenges involved, who will carry on Larson’s work, and how bluebirds are faring in Idaho.	5/19/16 8 p.m. 30 minutes 5/20/16 7:30 p.m. 30 minutes
4. Outdoor Adventures	Outdoor Idaho “Seeking Refuge” Nature’s scenes and sounds are captured on film in Idaho’s six natural wildlife refuges. Hundreds of thousands of migrating birds, plus more who find nesting sites in the refuges, also attract birdwatchers, scientists and others to these special places. Outdoor Idaho “Valley of the Tetons” Idaho’s side is considered the quiet side of the Tetons, but the peaks themselves are anything but quiet. The Tetons are some of the world’s youngest mountains, generating constant seismic activity, and in some places growing a foot every hundred years. The range’s fierce geology leaves a grand impression. A few thousand people claim the valley that thrives in the shadow of the Tetons as their home. Teton Valley is rich in ranching, recreation and natural resources. Outdoor Idaho “The Foothills” The backdrop for Idaho’s Statehouse and the city of Boise is also the instant getaway for people in the Treasure Valley, with more than 10,000 acres set aside through a voter-approved levy and more than 135 miles of trails. Runners, walkers, mountain bikers, wildflower hunters, wildlife watchers and more make year-around use of the Foothills.	4/7/16 8 p.m. 30 minutes 5/6/16 8 p.m. 30 minutes 5/12/16 8 p.m. 30 minutes

	Outdoor Idaho “Idaho Fairways” Outdoor Idaho cameras visit some of the state’s golf courses that cater primarily to locals and are gathering places for the community. Some are on naturally challenging terrains, others are designed and created; some are built by farmers, others by a more formal process. From hillsides to canyons, from sharing space with an airport to links behind protective woods, Idaho’s small courses offer unique experiences.	6/16/16 8 p.m. 30 minutes
