One still image from video showed the shooter holding a rifle, surrounded by broken glass inside the building. He had already shot numerous people inside. A rookie officer was shot in the head within minutes of arriving at the scene, although that wasn't contained in the video. Police Chief Jacquelyn Gwinn-Villarreal said at a news conference that bank employee Connor Sturgeon bought the AR-15 assault-style rifle used in the attack at a local dealership on April 4. Sturgeon killed his co-workers — including a close friend of Kentucky's governor — while livestreaming the attack.

The new Census numbers just released show a statewide loss of over 35,000 residents since July 1, 2020, making it the fourth-largest decline among all states. Shiawassee County, however, has moved in the opposite direction, albeit only marginally. Numbers show a little over two-dozen more county residents between 2021 and 2022. The City of Perry showed the biggest gain among individual locations.
