Title: Pro-immigrant against deportation policies in Alabama

Time: 5:25 pm

Synopsis:

Deportations are expected to reach the 2 million mark in early April, and activists are campaigning fiercely at the gates of detention centers, border checkpoints and congressional offices to show the White House they will not let the Obama administrations reach that milestone without a fight. Last month in Alabama, immigrant rights advocates organized one such action by forming a human chain outside the Etowah County Detention Center, chanting "not one more"-the rallying cry of a wave of anti-deportation actions that have swept the nation over the past year, gaining political currency as a social media campaign, a slogan at street demonstrations, and more recently, a political salvo in Washington, where more conciliatory policy demands from inside the Beltway have sputtered.

Title: Protests against deportation

Time: 5:45 pm

Synopsis:

Multiple protests around the country this week are urging President Barack Obama to issue a moratorium on deportations, reflecting immigrant-rights advocates' waning hope for immigration reform this year. Some community-based groups have long been harshly critical of Obama for his administration's record on deporting undocumented immigrants. But in recent weeks, some large, mainstream Latino and immigrant-rights leaders and Democratic politicians have begun using more forceful language against the President. Last month National Council of La Raza's president and CEO, Janet Murguia, called Obama the "deporter-in-chief."

Time: 5:47 pm

Synopsis:

A day after a shooting rampage at Fort Hood, Texas, left three soldiers dead and 16 wounded, a key question looms over the investigation: Why? Authorities are still piecing together the answer, but seem to be homing in on at least one thing that might have made Spc. Ivan Lopez pull the trigger. Investigators say they haven't found any links to domestic or international terrorist organizations, but said they were keeping open minds. Another key question for investigators: did any gaps in safety and security measures allow the shooting to take place?

Last month, however, Newsday reported 64 percent of voters opposed the ban and 24 percent supported it. At least 19 of NYC's 52 city council members were undecided on the issue, leaving neither side with a majority of the votes needed.

Immigration advocates and supporters rallied Saturday in cities across the country in a renewed effort to push President Barack Obama to put a freeze on deportations. Organizers of the more than 50 planned "Day of Action" demonstrations said Obama has the executive power to stop deportations that separate immigrants living in the country illegally from their loved ones. In Eloy, Ariz., more than 100 supporters converged in front of the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement detention center after journeying more than 60 miles from Phoenix. Protests were planned in California a day after 23 demonstrators were arrested in San Francisco for blocking traffic at a major intersection.

Topic: HISPANIC WILL BE EXECUTED ON WEDNESDAY IN TEXAS

Time: 5:45 pm

Synopsis:

A federal judge in Houston has stopped two imminent Texas executions because state officials refused to reveal key details about the drugs to be used to put the inmates to death. District judge Vanessa Gilmore issued a temporary injunction on Wednesday ordering Texas to provide the lawyers representing inmates Tommy Sells and Ramiro Hernandez-Llanas with information about the supplier and quality of a new batch of pentobarbital, a barbiturate that is to be used in the lethal injections. Lawyers for the convicted killers argued that Texas's attorney general had previously ruled on several occasions that such information must be made public, and also said that failing to provide details about the origin, purity and efficiency of the drugs harmed the inmates' ability to mount a legal challenge over the possibility that they could experience an excessively painful death in violation of their constitutional right not to suffer a "cruel and unusual" punishment.

Among the requirements, the applicant must have entered the U.S. before his or her 16th birthday, and be under the age of 31 on June 15, 2012, the date the order was signed. There are approximately 1.6 million of undocumented individuals whom immigration officials believe are eligible to receive deferred action status. Ford says the sub frames can rust, allowing a control arm to separate and hamper steering control. Ford is aware of one crash but no injuries linked to the problem. The SUVs were originally sold or registered in 20 states and Washington, D.C., where salt is used to clear snow and ice from roads. Six Canadian provinces also are included. Dealers will install a reinforcement brace to fix the problem. The Escapes covered by the recall were built from Oct. 22, 1999 through Dec. 19, 2003 at the Kansas City Assembly plant, and from May 1, 2003 through Jan. 23, 2004 at the Ohio Assembly plant, Ford said in a statement issued Monday.

Before the arrests, a few hundred people picketed outside the detention center, as part of the national "Not One More" deportation campaign, urging President Barack Obama to use his executive authority to halt deportations immediately. Nationwide, activists with the campaign took part in more than 80 immigration-related actions over the weekend. On Monday, local immigrant rights advocates began to march from ICE's downtown Chicago field office to the Broadview detention center, making stops along the way for a prayer vigil and other actions. On Wednesday, Toyota announced it was recalling nearly 1.8 million vehicles in the U.S. to fix a spate of problems, including air bags that might not inflate. It's part of a worldwide recall of 6.4 million cars and trucks. So far this year, automakers have recalled about 9 million vehicles in the U.S. If that pace continues, the nation would break the record of 30.8 million recalled vehicles set in 2004. Most of the recalls are from Toyota

Synopsis:

How is it that a few doctors take in millions of dollars from Medicare? Explanations for Wednesday's eye-popping numbers from Medicare's massive claims database ranged from straightforward to what the government considers suspicious, as the medical world confronted a new era of scrutiny. The long-sought release of Medicare data revealed just how much the program paid individual doctors in 2012. An analysis by The Associated Press found that a tiny group, 344 out of more than 825,000 doctors, received $3 million or more apiece -- a threshold that raises eyebrows for the government's own investigators. Overall, about 2 percent of clinicians accounted for one-fourth of payments. Deputy administrator Jon Blum said Wednesday that Medicare will now take a closer look at doctors whose payments exceed certain levels. Blum told reporters he did not want to reveal those thresholds because that would tip off people trying to game the system.

Topic: MERCURY IN CREAMS

Time: 10:24 pm

Synopsis:

The FDA said the issue of mercury in skin creams hasn't been on the agency's radar since 2006, when some creams from the Dominican Republic were found to contain mercury. The creams often follow a complicated path to the United States. Retailers say they order the creams over the Internet, buy them from suppliers and sometimes bring them in personally from abroad. Some sellers and suppliers wouldn't disclose where they bought creams that tested high for mercury. The packaging says it is manufactured in an area of Pakistan "under arrangement with" the Stillman Co. Inc. USA, based in Aurora. Back in the 1970s, Stillman authorized a Pakistani company to make and sell skin whiteners under the Stillman name - but only in Pakistan, said Stillman owner Bob Bereman. In 2007, Bereman said, he saw the Pakistani product being sold online and thought it might contain mercury. He said he had the product tested, and when the results showed mercury, he notified the FDA. The agency said there is no record of a formal complaint.

The countdown is on! Only a few days left until April 15, the deadline for filing individual income tax returns, which includes Schedule C for sole proprietors. If your business is incorporated or an LLC electing corporate tax treatment, your due date was March 15. If your corporation filed an extension the due date is now September 15. Sole proprietors filing an extension face a due date of October 15. Bear in mind that regardless of what type of entity your business is established under, an extension to file tax returns is not an extension of time to pay. Therefore, if you anticipate a tax liability, it is important that you remit payment with the extension form. Depending upon the State in which your corporation does business, a minimum estimated tax payment for the current year is also likely due on April 15. Check with your tax pro or your state taxing agency to determine if this is a requirement and to find out how much to pay.

Ochoa O'Leary, who has done several research studies on the matter, said that many women opt to begin taking the birth control pills when they decide to immigrate to the United States, knowing that they face a heightened risk of being raped en route. Women are one of the most vulnerable groups among undocumented immigrants since they are at risk of being assaulted, beaten, abandoned or sexually abused by the "coyotes" (immigrant smugglers) or their migrant companions when they are crossing the border.

Time: 10:38pm

Synopsis:

An investigation by Democratic members of Congress into the marketing practices of electronic cigarette companies has found that major producers are targeting young people by giving away free samples at music and sporting events and running radio and television advertisements during youth-oriented programs. Led by Senator Richard J. Durbin, Democrat of Illinois, and Representative Henry A. Waxman, Democrat of California, the Food and Drug Administration prepared a major package of tobacco control rules that would place e-cigarettes under federal regulation for the first time. The new rules have been slow to appear, and lawmakers said they hoped their report, which came out Monday, might help speed their release. Public health experts are deeply divided on the perils and benefits of e-cigarettes. Some say they offer the first satisfying alternative to smoking in generations and could greatly reduce health risks, while others contend they could become a gateway to traditional cigarette smoking for young people. Time: 5:33 pm

Synopsis:

America's annual tax reckoning is here once again and for many who have yet to file their federal tax return, that means a mad dash to beat Uncle Sam's deadline. The Internal Revenue Service already has received nearly 100 million tax returns, but anticipates getting about 35 million more by the midnight Tuesday deadline. Many other taxpayers, however, are opting for plan B and asking for more time to file. The IRS expects roughly 12 million taxpayers will make such a request before the tax filing deadline, enabling them to take an additional six months - until Oct. 15 - to prepare their tax return. Getting started late and rushing to file can lead to headaches, particularly if you haven't organized the various receipts and forms, such as bank statements or W-2 forms that you may need to complete your return.

According to the White House, more than 7.5 million people have signed up for the exchanges with 400,000 applications coming in after the official deadline of March 31. The administration added the extra days to help those who experienced delays because of technical problems in creating an account or signing up for a plan, although the healthcare.gov website also offers the extended time for those who "couldn't start or continue," the application process. People who want to enroll but didn't start an application can call a "marketplace call center" and tell the operator they tried but failed to start an application. The Baltimore City Detention Center will start scrutinizing federal orders to hold immigrants for deportation instead of automatically granting these requests, Maryland Gov. Martin O'Malley (D) announced Friday. The policy change adds Baltimore to the growing number of cities in the U.S. resisting federal immigration policy. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) agents often ask local jails to hold immigrants for deportation. Baltimore will now only grant these requests if the immigrant has been charged with or convicted of a felony or serious misdemeanor. "We will focus our efforts on complying with ICE detainers when there is an actual threat to the public's safety," O'Malley said. O'Malley's move comes on the heels of a Baltimore Sun investigation that found more than 40 percent of Maryland's deportees had no criminal record at all, one of the highest percentages of any state in the nation.

She and her husband drove out of the Bible Belt to experience, for the first time, what it's like to buy and smoke weed legally. She wore a T-shirt featuring an image of María Sabina, a late-Mexican shaman, puffing on a joint -- a shirt that, until this day, she never dared to wear outside her Cape Girardeau, Missouri, home. "It's kind of like being a part of history," she said Saturday, while waiting for a bus in front of a marijuana-themed sandwich shop. "I used to want to go to Amsterdam. Now I don't have to." The Stevensons are among the tens of thousands of visitors -- by some estimates 80,000 -- who've come to Denver to mark 420 (April 20), a date that's emerged as a holiday among those steeped in cannabis culture. Though the date has long been observed in Colorado, this is the first celebration since recreational sales of marijuana became legal here on New Year's Day. Ms. Caspersen, a waitress at Virtues Restaurant in the Summa Akron City Hospital, falls into part of the workforce that may feel the strongest effects of the Affordable Care Act: workers whose hours change on a weekly or seasonal basis. Thousands of these so-called variable-hour employees-many of whom work on college

The distinction determines which employees are entitled to company-sponsored health coverage. A large portion of Sodexo's 125,000 U.S. workers are variable, and about 10,000 of them are losing access to health insurance, paid vacation and sick days and other benefits available to full-timers. Topic: DRIVER LICENSES FOR UNDOCUMENTED

Time: 4:38 pm

Synopsis:

By Jan. 1, 2015, undocumented immigrants in California will not have to drive in constant fear of being pulled over by the police. California State Assembly Member Luis Alejo, with help from Gov. Jerry Brown, created the Safe and Responsible Driver's Act. The bill, also known as Assembly Bill 60, was signed into law by Brown in October 2013. This bill will change a 20-year status for undocumented immigrants who do not have a driver's license. They were forced to choose between driving at their own peril, arranging for rides through neighbors or friends or using public transportation to get through the day. California is becoming the 12th state in the U.S. to initiate the move, as legislators mull over growing demands to legally recognize the presence of undocumented immigrants in the country. More than 11 million undocumented immigrants live in the U.S., and more than 2 million are in California, according to the Public Policy Institute of California.

A St. Louis-based federal appeals court upheld the law, putting it at odds with appellate courts that have considered similar measures elsewhere. The Supreme Court previously put limits on what states and local governments can do to crack down on illegal immigration. In 2012, the justices voided parts of an Arizona immigration law, including criminal provisions that would have barred people from being in the state without proper documentation. Since then, the Supreme Court has repeatedly sidestepped the issue of anti-harboring laws. Time: 2:25pm

Synopsis:

Senate Assistant Majority Leader Richard J. Durbin vowed Monday to keep fighting to give green cards to some illegal immigrants who serve in the U.S. military. "If you are willing to sign up in our military and risk your life for America, you should be given that opportunity," Mr. Durbin Illinois Democrat, proclaimed at a Senate Appropriation Committee field hearing in Chicago. Senate Democrats are debating whether to add the measure, known as the ENLIST Act, to the annual defense authorization act. The ENLIST Act would enable young illegal immigrants who entered the United States before age 15, a group known as "Dreamers," to join the U.S. military. After serving and receiving an honorable discharge, they would become legal permanent residents who are eligible to apply for citizenship. The legislation already hit a snag in the GOP-run House. House Majority Leader Eric Cantor last week said he would block an attempt by Rep. Jeff Denham, California Republican, to bring the ENLIST Act to the floor as an amendment to an upcoming defense spending bill. In Chicago chided Mr. Cantor, Virginia Republican, for blocking "a vote on an amendment that a fellow Republican wanted to offer to simply allow Dreamers to enlist in the armed forces.

Topic: IMMIGRATION REFORM LATEST

Time: 10:34pm

Synopsis:

Political calls for more walls and policing at the U.S.-Mexico border are a "straw man" designed to defeat immigration reform, former U.S. Secretary of Homeland Security Janet Napolitano said Wednesday. Napolitano said in an interview with The Associated Press that U.S. money would be better spent on easing border-crossing bottlenecks that affect trade rather than on adding more barriers and agents. The prospect of Congress rewriting U.S. immigration laws is increasingly unlikely. The Senate passed a comprehensive immigration bill last year that would boost border security, remake legal worker programs and offer a path to citizenship to the estimated 11.5 million people now living there illegally. But the House, where all lawmakers are facing re-election later this year, has not acted on any element of the legislation. Napolitano stepped down as homeland security secretary in September to become president of the 233,000-student University of California system. She spoke in Mexico on Wednesday on a trip to promote collaboration between the UC system and Mexican universities. She said perceptions on both sides of the border have inhibited student exchanges, including fear of violence by Americans and sentiments that the U.S. is an unfriendly place for Mexicans.

With funding from the American Beverage Association, Hill helped design a study that divided approximately 300 adults into two groups: One group would continue drinking diet, and the other group -- referred to in the study as the "water group" -- would go cold turkey. The study was published in the journal Obesity. While on one hand the federal government goes after companies employing undocumented immigrants, it doesn't have a problem using some of these same people to fill jobs in its detention centers. As many as 60,000 people being held at such centers were put to work last year, with many being paid only $1 a day. The rate is based on federal law adopted in 1950 that Congress has refused to update. At some local jails, workers are compensated merely with junk food, according to Ian Urbina of The New York Times. These detainees perform a wide variety of tasks at the detention facilities, from preparing and serving food to cleaning floors. Correction officials claim the work is voluntary. However, many have complained that they were coerced into working during their detentions. Much of the work is done to pad the bank accounts of private industry. Obama in March directed the government to examine whether deportation practices can be made more humane, seeking to pacify frustrated immigration advocates. But that step emboldened House Republicans to argue they can't trust Obama to enforce the law, and that bypassing lawmakers through executive action would deliver a death knell to the broader immigration overhaul that Obama and Democrats are seeking. Caught in the middle, Obama is seeking to preserve what the White House sees as a narrow window in June and July in which Congress could conceivably act before Washington's focus becomes consumed by the November midterm elections.

Immigration reform "now occupies almost all the Latino policy agenda, sucking up, as one colleague recently put it, all the oxygen on Latino issues," according to a recent commentary from Angelo Falcón, National Institute for Latino Policy president. Among the general public, 49% of U.S. adults said so when asked the same question in February. In some respects, Hispanics' focus on education as a top issue makes sense. In 2010, Hispanics had the highest birth rates per 1,000 women of childbearing age, compared with 64 for blacks, 59 for whites and 56 for Asians. Title: U.S. GOV. WILL DEPORT UNDOCUMENTED MINORS CROSSING THE BORDER

Time: 10:30 PM

Synopsis:

The U.S Secretary of Homeland Security, Jeh C. Johnson, warned on Sunday the parents of Central American children who are illegally crossing the southern U.S. border that there will be "no permissions" at the end of the trip and only awaits deportation. In an "open letter to parents," sent on Sunday to an international agency, Johnson warns of the dangers of that adventure and trauma that children may suffer in the hands of smugglers. Johnson refutes the rumor that the exceptions to the current immigration legislation or reform project under study in Congress contemplate a future regularization for those who have entered the country as children. According to U.S. authorities, the falsehood, disseminated selfishly by mafias trafficking, is at the origin of the massive influx of Central American children unaccompanied recorded in recent months, almost 47,000 so far this year.

Topic: HONDA AND MAZDA RECALL

Time: 10:36 pm

Synopsis:

Faulty air bags -- which have already led to the recall of millions of cars worldwide -- are being blamed for a new round of recalls in the U.S. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the government's auto safety agency, said Monday that BMW, Chrysler, Ford, Honda, Mazda, Nissan and Toyota will recall cars sold in places where hot, humid weather can potentially affect the air bags. The older-model cars have air bag inflators that can rupture. If that happens, the air bags might not work properly in a crash, and shards from the broken system could fly out and cause injury. They all have air bag systems made by Takata Corp., a Tokyo-based supplier of seat belts, air bags, steering wheels and other auto parts. In letters to the government, the automakers all said they are cooperating with the recall even though they haven't yet determined whether the air bags are a safety hazard. Dealers will replace the inflators for free and the automakers will send the inflators to Takata for further testing.

After waiting more than a year for the House to take up an immigration overhaul passed by the Senate, President Obama is moving ahead with a series of executive-level actions he says will improve the system in the absence of any legislation from Congress. The move was spurred by House Speaker John Boehner, R-Ohio, telling the president the House had no plans to vote on any immigration legislation this year, a White House official said. "I would greatly prefer Congress actually do something. I take executive action only when we have a serious problem, a serious issue, and Congress chooses to do nothing," Mr. Obama said Monday in the Rose Garden of the White House. "And in this situation the failure of House Republicans to pass a darn bill is bad for security, it's bad for our economy, and it's bad for our future."

April 5-6, 2014, 2014 Washington, DC – Show #14 2014 (WFDC)	Host: Armando Guzmán	It's been 30 years since there was a significant raise to the minimum wage. This is one of the arguments from the Obama administration and labor unions, supporting a proposal to increase the minimum wage from $ 7.25 to $ 10.10 an hour by 2016 . This is the issue at hand in our show this week, as we speak with the Secretary of Labor, Tom Perez , whom the White House has given the task to lobby in favor to the increase. He will tell us that the current minimum wage has fallen behind in comparison to the cost of living and that even those who work full-time, they still need federal aid to make ends meet. For the labor unions, represented in this show by Kelly Fay Rodriguez, spokesman from the powerful AFL- CIO federation, the issue is one of social justice as well, since women are the most affected by these unfair wages. We also discussed Immigration with Edgar Aranda- Yanoc, Executive Director of the Virginia Coalition of Latino Organizations (VACOLAO) and Anna Duncan, from the movement "Not One More Deportation" and who also represents the national network of laborers. They give us more details of nationwide events to keep the pressure on President Obama to stop mass deportations.	TRT is 23:53 and segment times as follows: Segment #1: 09:32 Segment #2: 07:43 Segment #3: 06:06 Segment #4: 00:32

On the one hand, the Nation’s capital is getting ready to issue driver's licenses to undocumented immigrants, joining several states that already have similar measures. Roxana Olivas, Director of Latino Affairs for the District of Columbia, is with us to provide more details. Also Maryland Democratic state Delegate, Ana Sol Gutierrez, also joins the discussion table, defending Governor Martin O'Malley's decision of releasing from a local prison people who have committed minor offenses and their deportation date has expired. Immigration activist Francisco Diaz, who made a bicycle journey from Florida to Washington, DC to ask President Obama to stop deportations is also with us in the show. We will also discuss the future of the federal Senate, who will win several seats in the House of Representatives, who will make the way to the White House in 2016, and other important issues such as Obamacare, jobs and the economy. Our program is dedicated to the subject, and we start the show with Congressmen Juan Vargas and Henry Cuellar, Democrats from California and Texas, respectively. We get to discuss with them the latest on Reform, about the increased number of border patrol agents in McAllen, Texas, on the proposal for a health plan at low cost for undocumented immigrants in California and deportations. They are joined by Democratic Councilman of the Arlington County in Virginia, Walter Tejada. He tells us about the new opportunities in the state for Dreamers to go to college. Speaking of Dreamers, two dreamers will visit us who are part of The Bridge Project. Claudia Flores and Hareth Andrade tell us about the renewed efforts to pressure the Obama administration to halt deportations and Congress for more actions to amend the immigration laws. We begin with the problem of human trafficking. Although we've seen this week the heartbreaking case of hundreds girls kidnapped in Nigeria, the problem touches us more closely. Cristina De los Rios, from the Polaris Project organization -dedicated to combating human trafficking and support victims- speaks of cases in the United States and where can victims can seek help. Meanwhile, psychologist Claudia Campos will tell us why it is so difficult for many victims to escape from that situation, which involves slavery, forced labor and sexual exploitation. We also debate on the use and bearing of firearms, following a study recently published by the Violence Policy Center. Among its findings, the study says the number of Latino victims of murders and violent events involving firearms has increased. Larry Pratt, from Gun Owners of America, tells us that the pro guns movement is solid and is increasingly finding more followers. Meanwhile, Professor Emilio Viano analyzes the reasons why violence and weapons are still so popular in our society. We end the show with a visit from Sergeant Sixto Olmo, who represents a group of Puerto Rican veterans whom visited Congress this week, for two purposes: to request statehood for Puerto Rico, a measure they consider to be equality with the rest of the Union and of civil rights, and also to request a Congressional Gold Medal to the Puerto Rican battalion of the 65th Infantry, who played an important role in several wars. Of those who left the Church, it is not surprising that many now persevere in the Protestant faith. But the most important finding of this study is the significant increase among those who say they do not follow any religion. This change in trends of Latinos and religion and what's behind it, is the issue that we discuss in our show with Mark Hugo Lopez, from the Pew Research Center, and Father Vidal Rivas, who left the Catholic priesthood to become a minister of the Episcopal Church. We also discuss the 100K Strong program, sponsored by the federal government. Justin Thomas, representative of the State Department, explains how, through this initiative, students in Latin America can come study in the best universities and colleges in the United States. In turn, the program also provides a chance for U.S. students to do the same in the most important universities in Latin America . We also talk politics and about the 2014 elections with veteran Republican congresswoman, Ileana Ros- Lehtinen from Florida, and we end our show analyzing the continued pressure from workers throughout the country, pushing for a minimum wage increase.	TRT 23:52 and segment times are as follows: Segment #1: 09:02 Segment #2: 08:00 Segment #3: 06:00 Segment #4: 00:50

Why? Brazilians oppose to the millionaire public spending related to the event, since there are so many other pressing social needs. The subject will be discussed in our show with Professor Patricio Zamorano, economist and analyst of international affairs at George Washington University; and with Juan Carlos Hidalgo, analyst of Latin American affairs at the CATO Institute. Juan Carlos joins us via Skype from Brazil, to tell us how's the general situation in that country, pre-World Cup. But we will also talk about soccer. Cg3: Angie Galindo we have to protect ourselves.

The Health department of California is recommending for men who have intercourse with other men to be vaccinated against meningococcal meningitis.

SOT: Janet

The disease can be caused by infectious or non infectious causes, In this case it's the Meningococcal Meningitis.

Meningococcal Meningitis can be fatal disease. In the LA area 4 men were diagnoses with the disease, 3 of which had HIV and died.

SOT: Janet: This is because one acquires one infection that is contracted through close contact with someone who is carrying the Meningitis virus.

Bridge: Abraham

The recommendation for this vaccine is for those people who are planning to travel out of the city and traveling to Los Angeles or elsewhere in California.

SOT: Janet

Those who are infected with the HIV virus are advised to seek their family doctor so they can discuss the benefits of the vaccine.

The Disease is spread by respiratory secretions... If you have HIV or exposed to tobacco, marijuana or other drugs increases the risk of contagion. That is why Mother's like Angie Galindo agrees men to be vaccinated to prevent health complications...

SOT: Angie

It's okay that men are trying to prevent this type of illness but us women should also be very precautious and take care of ourselves because we have children and we have to make sure nothing happens to them and the only way to do that is by taking that extra precaution that is being recommended.

To receive this vaccine consult your physican or visit your nearest clinic. The symptoms or infection usually takes affect in the first 3-7 days of being exposed. From El Centro Abraham Retana Noticias Univision Notivalle.

THE IMPERIAL COUNTY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT ARRESTED 33 YEAR OLD KURTIS MICHAEL MARBEL FOR VARIOUS CRIMES RELATED TO CHILD PORNOGRAPHY. THE APPREHENSION OF MARBEL WAS CREDITED TO A NEW SYSTEM OBTAINED BY THE LOCAL SHERIFF.

SOT: JIMMY

IT WAS ENTIRELY BY A NEW PROGRAM THAT ALLOWS US TO SOMEWHAT PATROL THE INTERNET TO TRY TO DETECT PEOPLE WHO DISTRIBUTE AND ARE IN POSSESSION OF CHILD PORNOGRAPHY. THANKS TO THIS PROGRAM IT WILL BE EASIER TO DETECT AND STOP SEX OFFENDERS. ACCORDING TO THE AUTHORITIES IT IS A MORE COMMON PROBLEM THAN YOU MIGHT THINK.

SOT: JIMMY

THIS IS SOMETHING THAT SHOULD BE PUT IN THE HANDS OF THE LOCAL POLICE NOW THAT WE ARE AFFECTED HERE LOCALLY. WE SOMETIMES BELIEVE THAT THIS ONLY HAPPENS ELSEWHERE AND DOES NOT HAPPEN IN OUR COMMUNITY BUT WITH THIS TRAINING AND NEW EQUIPMENT WE REALIZE THAT IT IS NOT THE CASE.

ABRAHAM:

ACCORDING TO AUTHORITIES CHILD PORNOGRAPHY IS LIKE A DRUG FOR SEXUAL PREDATORS AND IT IS ONLY THE PRELUDE TO WHAT COULD BE A SEXUAL ASSAULT ON A MINOR.

SOT: JIMMY

WHAT WE HAVE HISTORICALLY REALIZED IS A PERSON BEGINS TO REGULATE ADULT PORNOGRAPHY AND THEN GRADUATES TO CHILD PORNOGRAPHY – IT'S SIMILAR TO A DRUG, PEOPLE START WITH MARIJUANA AND THEN IT LEADS TO MORE AND MORE - WE ARE SEEING SOMETHING SIMILAR HERE.

TO PREVENT CHILDREN FROM BECOMING VICTIMS OF CHILD PORNOGRAPHY IT IS IMPORTANT THAT CHILDREN DO NOT USE THE INTERNET WITHOUT ADULT SUPERVISION. THE COMPUTER SHOULD BE IN A COMMON PLACE AND HAVE THE SCREEN IN VIEW. INSTALL SYSTEMS TO BLOCK PAGES THAT ARE FOR ADULTS.

SOT: JIMMY

IT IS NECESSARY FOR PARENTS TO PAY ATTENTION TO WHAT THEIR CHILDREN ARE DOING. MAKE SURE THAT WHAT THEY ARE SEEING IS APPROPRIATE.

COMMUNICATION BETWEEN PARENTS AND CHILDREN IS ALSO VERY IMPORTANT; DO NOT LET THEM TALK WITH STRANGERS ON SOCIAL NETWORKS. FROM EL CENTRO, I'M ABRAHAM RETANA, NOTICIAS UNIVISION NOTIVALLE.

ABRAHAM

ACCORDING TO THE HEALTH CENSUS UNDOCUMENTED IMMIGRANTS DO NOT RECEIVE ADEQUATE MEDICAL CARE FOR FEAR OF BEING INVESTIGATED BY THE MIGRATION OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES AND THEREFORE BE DEPORTED.

SOT: MARLENE

Enroute to the hospital they encountered a CHP officer, who gave her son CPR, because he was not responding and had stopped breathing. He then placed the child upside down and started hitting his back. On the third hit the child responded by moving and started crying. With that response, I felt relieved.

Mrs..Perea, the mother of the child, anguished with her son in her arms, arrived at the hospital. She said that even though this was a very traumatic experience, it ended with her son being born again. With this New Year her son will start a new life. She says the experience she went through, she would never want anyone to go through. To have her son unresponsive in my arms and not knowing what to do. She will never forget this experience.

For the heroic acts, the officer Salvador Acevedo and Deborah Zendejas will receive a Recognition award. They both said that they just did what was expected of them, in what both are trained to do. In end, Jay Aguilar, stayed in the hospital for one month and a half. Another person stated that without traffic there are no sales, there is nothing, and that affects us a lot.

For two hours the traffic in Mexicali, paralyzed. The mexican flags seemed so far away, as you saw the desolate international border.

What normally can take up to two hours to cross from Mexicali to Calexico, on this day, due to the game of Mexico vs. Brazil, the area was deserted.

A person stated that it was bad enough when there is traffic and we have to lower our prices to suit customers. imagine with no traffic, we fall very behind.

DEMONSTRATION

LENGTH: 2:46

PROGRAM: CG2:Abraham Retana, Univision Notivalle News

NARRATIVE: The Search & Rescue Team known as Borstar, has a new exercise to demonstrate on how to save lives at the Colorado River.

Since we have been here, the traffic has diminished, even though we still have people crossing, we are ready for whatever happens.

Borstar started in 1998 along with The Initiative Bi-National Frontline Security Pact with Mexico, Since then, they have informed immigrants about the danger in crossing illegally through the Colorado River, that supplies three states, California, Arizona and Baja California.

In the apparent tranquility of the Colorado River in accordance with the Frontline Patrol Sector, Yuma could be a mortal trap, especially for those who swim.

We have medical situations related to hypothermia, where the body loses its temperature, quick. Then the medical situation, along with today's heat, this afternoon, should be 108 degrees which places the body to go into a heat stroke.

From the year 2000 to 2013, undocumented arrests, have diminished about 95% in Yuma, AZ. This includes crossings and deaths of migrants.

The deaths of migrants has reduced and also there has been no detainments. That's due to a reduction in border crossing in Yuma, AZ.

Our mission is to maintain agents and civil people to safe and secure frontlines. Our responsibility is not only limited to immigration but to maintain a safe public place.

In us being a Bi-National Frontline Patrol Program, we work very closely with Contraparte Mexicana to continue to diminish the number of fatalities, also to maintain the frontline against delinquent organizations.

If necessary, we have officials in charge of contacting the Police, Federal and rescue groups in Mexico ready if necessary.

Borstar patrols the Colorado River, day and night. They count on the most up to date equipment to help save persons that may have suffered cardiac arrests and also to resuscitate them.

NARRATIVE: At the end of this week, 2 flights of 300 undocumented children were cancelled. They were to divert these children to San Diego and Calexico, CA. The Mexican Government in Calexico is trying to confront this case. The Federal Authorities have not issued a reason for the cancellation.

Mexico is in a great disposition to offer our Latin American Brothers, the Consulates of the World Central America in the United States all the acknowledgement and providing with them the best experiences in diverting minors to be confirmed with the practices of the International Consulate to be humanly responsible for all of them.

I declare that Hector Huerta, the alternative Consulate, that if deportation of minors occurs, he will work with authorities in Mexicali and the Mexican Migration to assist anyone who would require a mediator, from the Internal Safety Department of the United States. I affirm that in arriving in the United Nation, does not give you the right or permission to qualify to the DACA Program.

The Migration Laws have formed opportunities to accommodate certain persons, but many times there will be persons that cannot be accomodated. It is a reality, very sad, because it is affecting families.

The Department of Safety has issued a message that will be broadcasted in the Central American States in regards to the danger of exposing little children who are sent off to the United States and are free to the delinquent organizations.

In trying to prevent Violations,, because it is obvious, that as the years pass, the United States, more and more united, will protect it's territory and those persons that enter into our Nation, legally or illegally, for those persons,Nothing will change. The Federal Authorities have not acknowledged whether the diversion of minors will occur in the border. Only that they are trying to find a humanitarian resolution to terminate what is considered a crisis in the Land of Immigration.
