

QUARTERLY REPORT & PROGRAM LISTS FOR WIUP-FM'S
PUBLIC INFORMATION PROGRAMMING
REPORT FOR JANUARY FEBRUARY AND MARCH 2023

This report was prepared by Dr. Zachary Stiegler, Faculty Advisor for WIUP-FM

In the 1st quarter of 2023, WIUP-FM continued to present a varied schedule of both recorded and live public information programming dealing with issues of national, regional and local interest.

WIUP-FM broadcasts the nationally syndicated news and current events program Democracy Now!, Monday through Friday from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. Democracy Now! is a national, daily, independent, award-winning news program hosted by award-winning journalists Amy Goodman and Juan Gonzalez. Democracy Now!'s War and Peace Report provides our audience with access to people and perspectives rarely heard in the US corporate-sponsored media, including independent and international journalists, ordinary people from around the world who are directly affected by US foreign policy, grassroots leaders and peace activists, artists, academics and independent analysts.

During a regularly scheduled public information programming hour – (Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. during the fall and spring semesters, 10am-11am during academic breaks) – WIUP presented an array of programs dealing with issues of interest to both the academic and non-academic communities we serve. These include US Politics, (White House Chronicle) regional environmental news (The Allegheny Front), recent publications in literature, scholarship, and nonfiction (The Book Show), media analysis and criticism (Counterspin, The Media Project), issues focusing on women (51%) and LGBTQIA (This Way Out) populations, as well as current research and public affairs (The Best of Our Knowledge, Scholars' Circle). Descriptions of the nature of each program and the topics covered follows in this document.

WIUP-FM broadcasts a minimum of twenty recorded public service announcements per broadcast day. These announcements benefit local, regional and national public service and information organizations and agencies. The complete audio cart listing of all our recorded Public Service Announcements is included within this document.

In addition to recorded public service announcements, WIUP-FM broadcasts twenty live-read announcements per broadcast day. A listing of the agencies and organizations served by these announcements is included within this document.

1st QUARTERLY ISSUES REPORT
January 1 – March 31, 2023

Episode for March 24, 2023

A former EPA administrator is calling the agency's response to the train derailment in East Palestine too weak. Questions are being asked about the cleanup and testing of the creeks polluted by the derailment. Some researchers say Ohio EPA isn't testing surface water for enough chemicals. Also, trout season is nearly here, with opening day on April 1. We catch up with officials stocking a local lake with some of the 3 million trout that will be released throughout Pennsylvania this year.

Episode for March 17, 2023

Spring starts on March 20, but for many places, spring has been here for a while. How does that impact nature? We have the story of one family in East Palestine who isn't sure if their home or water is safe. We talk with U.S. EPA's onsite coordinator there, who breaks down how the government is monitoring chemical pollution. We have news about U.S. Steel, Shell's ethane cracker, and proposed federal rules for PFAS in drinking water.

Episode for March 10, 2023

People in East Palestine want to know if their homes are polluted by long-lasting chemicals called dioxins from the train derailment last month. We'll also hear from residents near the derailment site who are finding the investments they've made in their homes are worth a lot less after the crash. Plus, an environmental group is trying to stop the U.S. Forest Service from clear cutting a section of national forest to promote the growth of white oak trees.

Episode for March 3, 2023

We have updates on the train derailment in East Palestine, where many people are deeply skeptical of officials who say it is safe to return to their homes. Meanwhile, Republican politicians are walking a fine line in East Palestine: showing concern for residents without being seen as liberal environmentalists. EPA orders Norfolk Southern to test for dioxins. Plus, the Bearded Ladies Cabaret tackles climate change with a comedy show in drag, on ice.

Episode for February 24, 2024: The latest on the Ohio train derailment

We have the latest on the aftermath of the Norfolk Southern train derailment in East Palestine, Ohio. We hear from residents in Beaver County who feel left out of the response and farmers concerned about the black soot they found on their homes and properties. Experts are now warning dioxins could be present. Plus, some are looking for additional soil and water testing from independent researchers outside of the government.

Episode for February 17, 2023

We have the latest developments of the East Palestine train derailment that polluted the area with toxic chemicals. We report on a community meeting where tensions ran high as residents asked questions about air and water quality and health impacts. We ask if stricter regulations could have averted the East Palestine train derailment. Plus, a new memoir shares how the life of an environmental policy expert was informed by the work of a Pittsburgh environmental champion.

Episode for February 10, 2023

We discuss what we know about air and water issues in the aftermath of the train derailment in Ohio. We also have reactions to a government report that finds many conventional oil and gas drillers in Pennsylvania aren't following regulations. Plus, lead from bullets is showing up in birds of prey. We'll hear about solutions to the problem.

Episode for February 3, 2023

Can new recycling technologies that break plastics down into their chemical components save us from the plastic waste crisis? We talk with an environmental reporter about a new government study. Also, the North Country National Scenic Trail has only about 20 known hikers who have trekked the entire 4,800 miles through eight states, including Pennsylvania. But in the farm country of northwestern Ohio, one more name is about to be added to the list.

Episode for January 27, 2023

One stop for some birds migrating south from Pennsylvania is the cloud forest in Costa Rica. But the cool, misty mountains are getting warmer and drier. Plus, closer to home, birders and naturalists oppose a new development next to a wetland in Huntington County. And, January is National Radon Action month, and that means it's time to test your home for the radioactive, cancer-causing gas.

Episode for January 20, 2023

An electric heat pump can reduce the carbon footprint of your home. We look at the pros and cons of this climate solution. The National Weather Service wants the public to become "river ice spotters" to help monitor for ice jams on area rivers. Plus, Frick Park has a new resident: Castor the beaver. We have news about new PFAS standards for drinking water in Pennsylvania, the Chesapeake Bay, and the new Pa. DEP secretary.

Episode for January 13, 2023

State regulators call out the conventional oil and gas industry for a widespread failure to comply with Pennsylvania environmental regulations. And, an art exhibit aims to give trees the legal tools to protect themselves. Plus, we go forest bathing in Frick Park to improve our mental and physical health. News about a proposed new federal limit for soot and an investigation into a Christmas Day natural gas explosion.

Episode for January 6, 2023

Environmental groups say they found high levels of benzene in the air in the Mon Valley near Pittsburgh and want federal regulators to step in. Also, natural history museum specimens like mice stuffed with cotton and preserved for decades give researchers important information about the environment. But these collections are at risk. Plus, the US Postal Service reverses course and commits to converting its fleet of vehicles to electric.

March 20, 2023

This Way Out Radio Episode #1825: Asians on Parade at World Pride Mardi Gras

Feature: Florida is exactly where you don’t want to be if you’re a transgender kid and your family. The “Don’t Say Gay State” is also becoming the “Don’t Be Trans” state. A ban on gender-affirming healthcare for trans children went into effect on March 16th. It was devised by state medical boards at the behest of Governor Ron DeSantis, but the legislature is still not satisfied. A bill is moving through the state Senate that would make it a felony to treat gender dysphoria for people under 18. That would put both doctors and parents in jeopardy. President Joe Biden expressed his view of the anti-trans campaign in an interview on Comedy Central’s The Daily Show. As a coalition of LGBTQ organizations prepare a lawsuit on behalf of parents with trans kids, prominent advocates are speaking out. Lesbian star Lily Tomlin took on the issue during a Yahoo Entertainment interview about her new trans-friendly film, “Moving On. Lesbian White House Secretary Karine Jean-Pierre sees the Florida fever as a plague that’s spreading across the country. Meanwhile, the Georgia House passed a ban on gender-affirming care the day that Florida’s ban went into effect. It was already clear that her side would lose when out Representative Karla Drenner took the floor (with music by THE CHARLIE DANIELS BAND and THE L PROJECT).

Feature: World Pride brought a vast array of flavors to the Sydney Gay And Lesbian Mardi Gras Parade. This Way Out correspondent BARRY McKAY explored one region of the queer globe as he wandered among participants waiting for the parade to begin [chats with members of contingents from The Philippines, Thailand, and Japan, with intro/outro music by ELECTRIC FIELDS, and traditional music bridges introducing each country’s float riders).

January 10, 2023

This Way Out Radio Episode #1815: The Queerest News of 2023 (Part 3)

In the conclusion of The Queerest News Of 2022, we focus on some of the people – and other “animated” characters – who made it: Press Secretary Karine Jean-Pierre brought her special rainbow flare to the White House briefing room on National Coming Out Day, October 11th (with an intro from The Wizard of Oz); Australian National Basketball League star center, Melbourne United's Isaac Humphries, becomes the sport's second active proudly gay professional (with an excerpt from Humphries' social-media posted coming out to his teammates); U.S. Supreme Court nominee Judge Ketanji Brown Jackson patiently explained rights and wrongs as she was grilled by Republicans on the Senate Judiciary Committee during her confirmation hearings. Tennessee Senator Marsha Blackburn veered away from judicial matters altogether in her transphobic rant, trying to use Judge Jackson's position on the Board of a local private school against her; in the category All-Time Jeopardy! Greats, the answer is: She's the first woman to win over a million dollars and the first trans woman to qualify for the Tournament of Champions. You won if your answer was, “Who is Amy Schneider?” The Oakland, California engineering manager talked about her success with George Stephanopolis on ABC-TV's Good Morning America; the long-running globally-popular U.K. animated children's TV show Peppa Pig finally introduces its preschool audience to their first same-gender couple (with an excerpt from the pivotal scene featuring Penny Polar Bear); Velma Dinkley, one of the animated human pals of oversized dog detective Scooby-Doo, goes “full lesbian” in the latest installment of the globally-popular franchise, Trick or Treat Scooby-Doo (with revealing snippets from the movie); if you've ever wondered what turns Fox News' homophobic pro-authoritarian Little Lord Fauntleroy on, Tucker Carlson has come out as a candy-phile. The announcement that the cartoon M&M's characters were being redesigned to make them more inclusive drove Tucker into a sugar rage, especially the changes to Ms. Brown. Larissa Murray is the “Ms. Green” voice actress who served as the jaded “spokescandy.” She gave the yellow journalist something to chew on in an interview with TMZ; and finally, we celebrate grassroots activists in a voice montage of just a tiny few of them

January 3, 2023

This Way Out Radio Episode #1814: The Queerest News of 2022 (pt. 2)

Feature: In Part 2 of This Way Out's review of some of the queerest news of 2022, LGBTQ rights were debated in the U.S. Supreme Court and in Congress, results of national elections in Australia and midterm elections in the U.S. each cheered queers, the FIFA World Cup in Qatar was a perilous experience for sexual and gender minorities and their supporters, Israel and New Zealand led increasing national bans on “conversion therapy” that falsely claims to turn queer people straight, Christian fundamentalists fueled censorship of LGBTQ-supportive books across the U.S., Australia’s Citipointe Christian College provided an example of religious bigotry masquerading as “religious liberty” on school campuses, and trans actress MJ Rodriguez made Golden Globes history (reported by MICHAEL TAYLOR-GRAY, LUCIA CHAPPELLE, CHRISTOPHER MARTINEZ/Pacifica Radio, and SARAH MONTAGUE; with a :35 Donor Thanks/E-Newsletter Promo at about 13:44 into the program; and with music by OSCAR BRAND; GARRY ENTROPY, NICK AFOA; BETWEEN THE LIONS, THE MONOTONES; THE KINGDOM CHOIR; and MAC QUAYLE). .

History of American grand strategy

Grand Strategy defines the broad goals of nations or even groups. American Grand Strategy is best understood historically, as an amalgam of influences and interests. Is American grand strategy a reaction to events and domestic interests, or is it derived more strategically based on the American place in the world? And what does the history of American grand strategy tell us about its current goals? We speak with three of the authors of Rethinking American Grand Strategy. Hosted by Doug Becker. [dur: 58 mins.]

- Christopher McKnight Nichols is Associate Professor of History and Director of the Center for the Humanities at Oregon State University. He is the author of Promise and Peril: America at the Dawn of a Global Age. He is also co-author of the opinion articles “[‘Grand strategy’ has a bad rep. Causes of political and economic turmoil in Haiti

Haiti faces a political, sociological, and economic set of crises. The country faces mass famine, with an estimated 4.7 million people facing acute hunger. With the assassination of its President, Haiti is also facing a political crisis. Officials governing the country are having a legitimacy crisis given the poor response to previous crises that have seen the Haitian people lose power, authority, even sovereignty over the nation. And international intervention has done little to help the nation, and in fact it has exacerbated the problems. How can the nation thrive in light of a history of exploitation and colonialism that has led to these crises? How can the Haitian people be empowered to seize control of their destiny? [dur: 58mins.]

Book analysis – A Promise Kept: The Muscogee (Creek) Nation and McGirt v Oklahoma

In 2020, the Supreme Court surprised many observers by holding up the rights of the Muscogee (Creek) nation. In McGirt v Oklahoma, the Court held that the Creek Nation retained its sovereign rights over a very large part of Eastern Oklahoma. The decision began with a poetic line: “At the end of the Trail of Tears is a promise.” The case raises further interest in issues of Indian law, which includes a very important case on the docket this year on the issue of the adoption of Indian children without the consent of the tribe. Robert Miller and Robbie Ethridge have written a new book on the McGirt case, on the history of the Muscogee nation’s relations with the United States, and the details of the case itself. And the title of the book references that first line of the decision. It is called A Promise Kept: The Muscogee \(Creek\) Nation and McGirt v Oklahoma. Our guests are the authors of the book.
