THE PROPERTIES OF PERPETUAL LIGHT: JULIAN AGUON – The Properties of Perpetual Light is an homage to the work of the activist-writer, which author Julian Aguon describes as “the work of bearing witness, wrestling with the questions of one’s day, telling children the truth.” With prose and poetry both bracing quiet, Aguon weaves together stories from his childhood in the villages of Guam with searing political commentary. Throughout the book, Aguon grapples with one heart-breaking loss after another by immersing himself in the beauty of his island, the magic of Micronesia, and the wisdom of his favorite books and elders. Comments: Awareness of other Pacific Island cultures: Guam is the most developed of all US-affiliated islands to the south and west of Hawaii. As such, its media promotes US mainland networks and content providers to the exclusion of content from neighboring islands containing ethnically related communities, from which we have been historically isolated through political subdivision. These nearby islands are now the source of significant in-migration. Mainstream/commercial media has cultivated a popular perspective of neighboring islanders and their cultures as odd and backwards, that media attitude has fostered widespread negative profiling of immigrants from these areas. KGTF features programming intended to promote tolerance of people from neighboring communities, and an understanding of the challenges they face as aspiring individuals, families, and workers.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE “Goin’ Back to T-Town” – Even before the Civil War, African Americans, both slave and free, were settling in Oklahoma. By the turn of the century, the territory was dotted with all-black communities, but none as extraordinary as Greenwood, in Tulsa. Segregation kept blacks apart from white Tulsans, but black Greenwood thrived. Black residents built and supported two movie houses, two newspapers, 15 grocery and drug stores, 13 churches, and a number of restaurants, funeral parlors, clubs and hotels. In 1921, angry whites looted and burned Greenwood to the ground in one of the most vicious race riots the nation had ever seen. But tough, enterprising black citizens rebuilt a new Greenwood from the ashes, making it stronger and more alive than ever. By 1936, the neighborhood boasted the largest concentration of black business in the United States. But the Greenwood that fought its way back from racial violence of the 20s couldn't survive the progressive policies of integration and urban renewal of the 60s. In a nostalgic celebration of old-fashioned neighborhood life, the black residents of "T-Town" relive their community's remarkable rise and ultimate decline. Ossie Davis narrates. (60 minutes)
