July 1, 2023 through Sept. 30, 2023

Section I. Issues

The stations have identified the following topics as significant issues facing our community in this quarter:

- Mental Health: Suicide prevention has come to the forefront of the issues with a new hotline (9-8-8) and SW Behavioral Health Dept. pushing hard to help prevent these tragedies with its Reach4Hope programs.
- Realty concerns: Young people still cannot afford homes and rents are amazingly high right now, creating a housing crunch in southern Utah. Prices for houses have decreased slightly, but the cost is still staggering, especially for a young family. A house typically costs $400K in the county, so even with a big down payment, a monthly payment would be $3K.
- Community Involvement: Appearances weekly from the local mayors like Michele Randall, Kress Staheli and Nanette Billings get us updates on the respective cities in our listening area.
- Environment: With a wetter than usual summer, land issues shifted from not enough water to too much water after a record snowpack began melting.
- Economy: Gas prices are still at an unbelievably high rate and southern Utah communities struggle to deal with the ripple effect created by this, such as the rising costs of groceries, goods, and services.
