A bill moving through the State Capitol would establish a mandatory civil right education class in schools but some lawmakers have concerns. The course would focus on quote "the tactics of non-violent resistance employed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr." The State Department of Education would develop the curriculum, which is part of the reason some House Democrats say the bill may present more problems than solutions. REP. Monroe Nichols // (D) Tulsa said, "It is hard for me to put the legacy of dr. king in the hands of a race baiting superintendent." REP. Regina Goodwin // (D) Tulsa said, "The state superintendent says that he does not want to use the words culture, or diversity or inclusion or equity." The bill's author says the purpose of the bill is to ease confusion over House Bill 17-75, which restricted teaching on issues of race and gender. The bill now moves to the Senate.

O-DOT is giving people two options on how it can overhaul the I-44 interchange to Highway 4-12 near Catoosa. O-DOT prefers the first one - which includes straightening three lanes of I-44 in each direction and adding a two-lane ramp to Highway 66 North. This would allow O-DOT to increase the speed limit. Option two includes keeping I-44 curved, which means lower speed - as well as a single lane exit to Highway 66 North. O-DOT is accepting feedback until January 13th. The project is expected to begin in 2025.

If you take the B-A Expressway near Downtown Tulsa, get ready for a major road construction project that starts today. At least one lane will be closed going in both directions here on the BA between Peoria and Lewis for pretty much the entire year. This is going to be a full pavement reconstruction project which will close one lane each way for each phase. However, there could also be times where two lanes are closed in each direction as well. ODOT says that will probably be for about a month at some point during this project. This 15-million-dollar project has been on the docket for a few years now and ODOT Spokesperson TJ Gerlach says this section of the highway was due for some work. O-DOT will also do some work on the grass medians adding a barrier and adding shoulders to increase safety for all drivers

A big sidewalk project is coming to Sand Springs to make ADA improvements in the downtown area. Work is set to start today in what will be a roughly 6-month project to make these ADA improvements on the sidewalks. The project will take place along State Highway 97 from Wilson to McKinley and then north on McKinley from 2nd street to 10th street. O-DOT is coming in to add sloped curb cuts and yellow dotted pads to let people with disabilities know where the edge of the sidewalk and the beginning of the road are. These features will give handicapped people access between the sidewalks and the street. These types of projects can be requested either by the city or while O-DOT is working other projects. O-DOT says it shouldn't have to close any lanes along Highway 97 for this project but that if it becomes necessary, it will send out a notice well in advance.

The Oklahoma Department of Transportation wants more input from Oklahomans about its Active Transportation Plan. The active transportation plan is a collection of statewide policies and resources that will support and guide local communities' active transportation efforts. Oklahoma is one of 8 states that does not have an active transportation plan and O-DOT felt that this is the right time to put one together. O-DOT says the process would help create a better environment for people who use different modes of transportation outside of a car, including bikers, pedestrians and even people who ride scooters. Engineers and designers can then work on projects that would start incorporating those modes of transportation into street plans. The survey O-DOT is using can be found at OK-ATP dot org and will close on Wednesday at 11:59 p-m.

The Oklahoma Department of Transportation is deciding what to do about a bridge that's gotten a lot of attention on social media this week. It's the bridge that carries the eastbound lanes of the broken arrow expressway over 21st street in Tulsa. O-DOT found out about a problem with the substructure of the bridge thanks to a post on Facebook. O-DOT says damage to the piers, beams and deck appears to be normal wear and tear and the last time it was inspected two years ago - this area was in fair condition. O-DOT made temporary repairs this week. It was planning a rehabilitation project in 2026 but depending on what the inspection finds this week - work could start much sooner. The department says whenever the rehab happens, the bridge will be good as new. O-DOT tweaks its construction work plan every year starting in the Spring. Meaning it will likely be late summer before we know when this bridge will undergo a rehab project.
