Connect to Your Coast by Serving on MLK Day and Beyond

Alabama Coastal Foundation to Host "Clean Up our Downtown Waterfront" on Jan. 16

Mobile, Ala. (January 6, 2011) – When Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. was assassinated on April 4, 1968, he was in Memphis, Tennessee fighting for sanitation workers' rights. To honor Dr. King's legacy, the Alabama Coastal Foundation (ACF) is hosting a "MLK Day of Service: Clean Up our Downtown Waterfront" event at Cooper Riverside Park on Monday, January 16 from 1:30pm-4:00pm. In addition to the clean-up, people will be able to learn about other ways they can volunteer their time in support of our coastal environment throughout 2012. There will also be a children's area with fun, conservation-based activities.

Registration for the clean-up will begin at 1:30pm with short safety training at 1:45pm. Volunteers will pick up trash along Mobile's Downtown Waterfront and throughout the downtown area. The ACF needs volunteers to help with registration and break-down, directing foot traffic and the children's area. Additionally, the ACF is accepting supply donations for the event. ## Adoption and Microchip/Rabies Clinic Set for January 28 at Eastern Shore Pet Hospital

Fairhope, AL -The Haven will be holding its first low-cost life-saving Rabies and Microchip Clinic for 2012 at the Eastern Shore Pet Hospital on Plantation Blvd in Fairhope on January 28. The times will be 11am to 3pm. Dr. Ron Shindler and his dedicated staff will be administering the rabies shots and microchips to those who want one or both. "The Haven's mission of eliminating euthanasia as a means of animal control is a noble one and we want to be part of that," said Dr. Shindler. The price will be $10 for a rabies shot and $10 for a microchip. The Haven will also be transporting some of their available animals to the event via their M.A.R.U. (Mobile Animal Rescue Unit) and offering them for adoption.

Rabies is a serious viral disease that affects warm-blooded animals. It is often thought of affecting primarily dogs and cats. While the incidence of rabies in domesticated animals has been virtually eliminated, the occurrence in bats, raccoons, skunks and other wild mammals is still prevalent. Because of its high communicability, getting a rabies shot for our pets is required by law.

While micro-chipping is not required by law, it can be an important investment for the owner since even the best behaved animal can suddenly go missing. Executive Director Mike Graham points out that the simple act of inserting a microchip into the animal can increase the odds that the pet will be returned to the owner if found. Says Graham, "By compiling the monthly shelter intake and outcome reports from our four partnering animal control shelters in Baldwin County, we are monitoring an increase in the number of pets being reunited with their owners which reduces the euthanasia rate".

If you're looking for your next best friend, or if your pet needs a rabies shot or microchip, mark you calendar to come to the Eastern Shore Animal Hospital on January 28.

About The Haven Adoption Guarantee Animal Shelter

The Haven rescues, re-habilitates, and re-homes over 900 animals each year serving Baldwin County since 2000. The non-profit animal shelter is responsible for leading the four municipal animal control shelters into creating a no-kill society for companion pets, caring for over 70 homeless cats and dogs at the shelter on any given day, and finding loving homes for these homeless, injured, neglected and abused and abandoned animals. All animals are vaccinated, evaluated both behaviorally and medically, fed, watered and marketed until they find their forever home.

Scale Back Alabama kicks off sixth year, featuring Biggest Loser winners

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Jan. 19, 2012

CONTACT: Rosemary Blackmon, (334) 272-8781 or Miriam Gaines, (334) 206-5226

Today marks the kickoff of Scale Back Alabama, a statewide weight-loss contest designed to help Alabama fight obesity and to encourage participants to develop lifelong healthy habits. The program, now in its sixth year, has resulted in a total weight loss of nearly 760,000 pounds and healthier lifestyles for thousands of individuals.

In the last 15 years Alabama has seen its obesity rate double, and the state was recently named the second most obese state in the nation in a report from the Trust for America's Health and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. More than 30 medical conditions are associated with obesity, including heart disease and diabetes, but adopting a healthy lifestyle can lower the risk of developing such diseases.

Today's news conference featured interviews with two University of Alabama graduates who know firsthand the benefits of making healthy choices. Olivia Ward won the 11th season Biggest Loser contest, and her sister, Hannah Curlee was first runner-up. The sisters lost a combined 249 pounds during the competition and now travel the country encouraging Americans to eat less and move more. During the 2012 Scale Back Alabama contest, they will share valuable advice with participants through weekly emails that offer health tips and encouragement.

"Programs like Scale Back Alabama highlight the necessity of making healthy choices," said Dr. Donald Williamson, state health officer. "Even small changes can have a huge impact on an individual's weight and overall health."

Scale Back Alabama 2012 begins Jan. 21. The 10-week contest is free of charge and is targeted to adults 18 and older. It primarily focuses on the workplace and utilizes local businesses, schools and organizations as weigh-in sites. To participate, teams of four register and have their initial weigh in at a local site during the week of Jan. 21-27. Participants who complete the contest and are on a team in which every member loses at least 10 pounds are placed in a drawing for one of three grand prizes, the top prize being $1,000 per team member.

“Scale Back Alabama has been the catalyst for thousands of people across the state to increase their physical activity and incorporate nutritious food into their diets,” said Donald Jones, Scale Back Alabama chairman and administrator of Marion Regional Medical Center in Hamilton, Ala. “It’s great to see Alabamians taking charge of their health and embracing healthier lifestyles.”

One of the more recent additions to the contest has been a school competition. “We have more than 50 K through 12 schools participating in this year’s contest,” said Dr. Williamson. “The school competition is an extension of the Health Department’s efforts to promote better health among teachers and faculty in the hopes that it will also affect the students. It’s a similar approach to the overall campaign which has resulted in healthier families due to the emphasis on adults in the workplace.”

During the 10-week contest participants will not only receive useful information about diet and exercise, they will also be able to join in outdoor activities that promote healthy living. Each week Scale Back Alabama will provide information about events offered by Fresh Air Family, an Alabama-based organization that offers free and low-cost programs to promote exercise and the outdoors. Additionally, during the 10 weeks of the program, Alabama’s 22 state parks will offer a free one-day pass to Scale Back Alabama participants who show their weigh-in card.

To emphasize the importance of exercise and to prove that it can be fun, three participating organizations developed Scale Back Alabama dance routines that were showcased at the kickoff news conference and are posted on the Scale Back Alabama website. Other organizations participating in the contest are encouraged to create their own dances and send them to contest sponsors for the website.

Those interested in participating in the 2012 Scale Back Alabama contest can find weigh-in sites and additional information about the program at www.scalebackalabama.com.

Scale Back Alabama is sponsored by the Alabama Hospital Association and the Alabama Department of Public Health, with generous underwriting by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Alabama.

BENEFIT BASS FISHING TOURNAMENT

Hosted by Bama Bass Anglers

Big Creek Lake - February 18, 2012

Caleb Mosley is a 16-year-old student at Baker High School who has been battling a terrible disease for almost 6 years now.

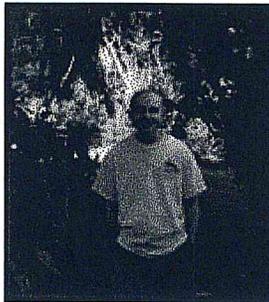

At age 10, he was diagnosed with High Risk Anaplastic Medulloblastoma, a form of brain cancer. After several radiation and chemotherapy treatments, Caleb was cancer-free, but in March of 2010 he relapsed, and the cancer had spread to his spine. Doctors immediately began chemotherapy once again, trying many different kinds.

In September of 2010, rapid tumor growth caused a buildup of spinal fluid on his brain, which led to him having emergency surgery to relieve pressure.

He is still currently receiving more chemotherapy treatments from St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

He truly is a very special young man, strong willed and determined.

With all he has been through, he is still the most kind, unselfish person you could ever meet.

Hi Pablo,

Thanks so much for the opportunity to talk about the Funky Monkey 5K. We really appreciate it, especially since this is a first year event.

The main talking points about the Funky Monkey are:

- 1) The race is a fundraiser for the Thompson Foundation, the charitable arm of Thompson Engineering. Since 2004 the Foundation has awarded more than $400,000 dollars to local charities. This fundraiser will help us continue our mission.
- 2) The race itself honors local charities with the opportunity to earn $1,000 for your favorite charity. The charity with the largest pre-registration by March 8 (when online registration ends) will receive a check on race day (one of those big fun kinds and the real thing).
- 3) Our post-race party is gonna be fun! Cammie from the Old Dutch Ice Cream Shoppe will build Mobile's Biggest Banana Split, the Blind Mule is bringing banana bread, Serda's will deliver hot coffee and Budweiser will deliver cold beer. We'll also have some runner's favorites – peanut butter and jelly, bananas and chocolate milk! And a runner in a monkey suit! And door prizes!
- 4) Our t-shirts are cool. We're making an impression our first year and guaranteeing the first 200 registrants a performance t-shirt!
- 5) Finally – anyone from Thompson Engineering who runs has the chance to "Beat the Boss." Thompson Engineering CEO Jimmy Shumock challenged his employees to meet him at the start and beat him to the finish. Jimmy will make a donation to the Foundation in the name of each employee who does! We hope to expand this program at next year's race.

Here's some general info:

Funky Monkey 5K & Fun Run

Saturday, March 10, 2012. Certified 5K course on the University of South Alabama campus. 3/4 mile Fun Run. 5K start – 8am. Fun Run Start – 9am. First 200 to register are guaranteed a performance tech t-shirt. All Fun Run participants receive a finisher ribbon. After the run, watch Cammie with the Old Dutch Ice Cream Shoppe build “Mobile’s Largest Banana Split!” We’ll also have Funky Monkey Banana Bread from the Blind Mule, PB&J, bananas, hot chocolate, awards, door prizes & more! Plus – help your favorite charity win $1,000 with the Funky Monkey 5K Charity Challenge. The charity with the largest registration participation takes home a donation of $1,000! www.funkymonkey5k.eventbrite.com and Facebook!

Funky Monkey Charity Challenge

Take on the Funky Monkey Charity Challenge! The charity with the largest number of registrants receives a $1,000 donation from the Thompson Holdings Foundation. It’s easy to participate. # Tornadoes impact Alabama's blood supply

In the wake of the deadly tornadoes that swept through Alabama on Monday, LifeSouth Community Blood Centers says that blood donors are needed immediately to meet a shortage of blood statewide.

"The tornadoes didn't cause an increase in the usage of blood, but the devastation severely hampered our donors' ability to make it to our donor centers and our bloodmobiles, especially in Central and Northern Alabama," said LifeSouth's Director of District Operations J.D. Pettyjohn. "While all blood types are needed, the need for donors with negative blood types is especially great."

LifeSouth is the largest supplier of blood products in the state of Alabama. Pettyjohn said the current shortage has impacted the entire state, not just areas affected by Monday's storms.

Donors must be 17, or 16 with parental permission, weigh a minimum of 110 pounds and be in good health. A photo ID is also needed. Call LifeSouth toll-free at 1-888-795-2707, or go to www.lifesouth.org to find a blood drive near you.
