This morning, Mobile County Commissioner, president, Jerry Carl joined me to discuss the importance of participating in the 2020 Census, the role of the county commissioners and why this will be his last year in this role and what's next?

This interview was recorded before the coronavirus pandemic was first reported.

Alabama Counts! 2020 Census Talking Points

The 2020 Census is very important to the future of our state. We all need to stand up and say “I Count” by completing and submitting our Census forms in March and April 2020. We All Have Something to Lose • Many Alabamians directly benefit from the federal programs whose funding allocations are determined in part by census data. In fact, it is about $1,600 per person in Alabama. Completing a census form will help ensure that Alabama receives its fair share of funding. • The assistance programs tied to census data are critical to all Alabamians. They support children, education, hospitals, health care, rural development and community programs that are important to rural communities. If this funding is reallocated to other states due to a poor census count, then the funding for the missing services will have to be made up in some way at the local or state level. This affects everyone. • Alabama is currently at risk of losing a Congressional representative in the 2020 Census due to representative in the 2020 Census due to projected slow growth. That means one less voice for Alabama values at the federal level. We need maximum census participation to retain our current Congressional representation. We Can be a Force for Change • Your voice matters. We all have a say in the outcome of the 2020 Census, and it can end with Alabama's fair share of funding secured and with fair Congressional representation. • All you have to do is complete and return your 2020 census form. It is a simple civic duty. • In mid-March 2020, the U.S. Census Bureau will mail a packet to every Alabama household. It will include information on how to complete your census form in three ways. 1. Online via computer or smart phone 2. Call a toll-free number and complete it over the phone with a U.S. Census Bureau employee 3. Call the toll-free number and request a traditional paper form. Some rural areas with low internet access will receive a paper form in the first mailing. • The information you submit will be basic household information and is private and will not be used against you in and is private and will not be used against you in any way or for any other purpose. It is against the law for your information to be shared or used by another agency. We Must Take Action • Both rural and urban Alabama will be key to the state's success in 2020 Census. More than 40 percent of Alabamians live in rural areas. • In 2010 many rural areas, particularly in west Alabama, had among the lowest response rates in the state. Pockets of urban the state's urban areas also experienced lower response rates. We need everyone's help to raise the participation level for 2020. • The end goal is maximum participation. Don't sit on the sidelines. Show them that you count, that Alabama Counts by completing your census form. • Starting in April, Governor Ivey and ADECA will have resources available through the Alabama Counts 2020 Census campaign.

Brown Bag regularly has a walk-through audience of well over 1000 people.

While Brown Bag did historically feature touring musical performers, for the last twenty years we have endeavored to feature our own music community. This is to increase local top of mind awareness of the depth and quality of our musical community.

A cornerstone of Brown Bag has been it's diversity of musical genres. Included over the years has been jazz, rock, pop, soul, reggae, classical, gospel, and country. We've had big bands, steel pans, chamber groups, and chorus. And we're damn proud of it,too!

About the Brown Bag series....

Started September 1985

Originally produced as a part of a fall arts event, September Celebration. In the days when there were no restaurants downtown, we would have food venders.

Brown Bag has been the site of numerous betrothals, many civic events, scenes in two movies, and has been listed in Frommer's Travel Guides as a "Must Do" event.

Brown Bag has been recognized as a benchmark in the revitalization of downtown, given the Bienville Award by the Chamber of Commerce, and has been the recipient of multiple municipal proclamations and designations.

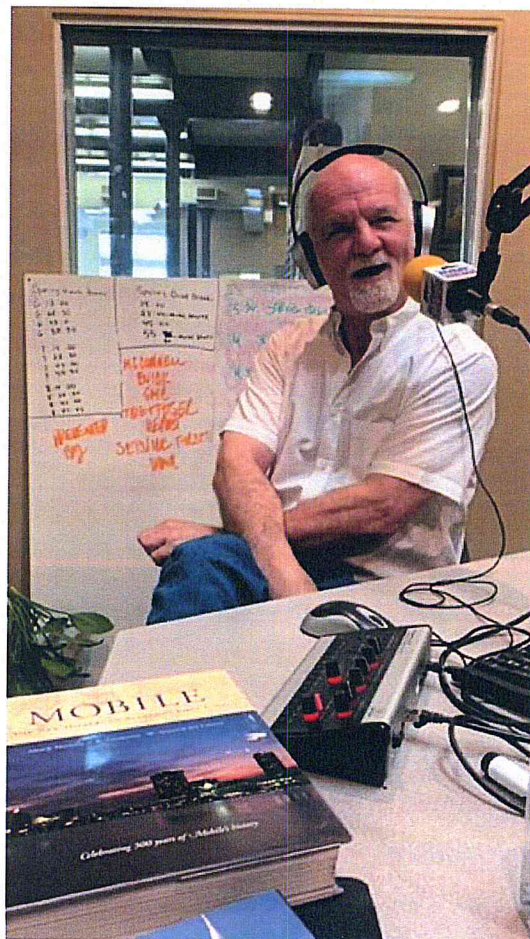

Brown Bag ties in with various non-profit organizations to have on-site presence.

MOBILE, AL., May 3, 2020 – National Travel and Tourism Week (NTTW), the annual celebration of the contributions and accomplishments of the U.S. travel industry, will spotlight resilience and hope in the face of the coronavirus pandemic with this year's theme: the Spirit of Travel.

Celebrated annually the first full week in May, NTTW was created by Congress in 1983 to underscore the economic power of travel in the U.S. The 37th NTTW (May 3-9) arrives at an opportune moment to unite the industry, celebrate its indomitable spirit, and elevate the role it will play in America's economic recovery. "Through every hardship, I find myself in awe of the travel industry's ability to join together, adapt, and emerge stronger than before," said U.S. Travel Association President and CEO Roger Dow. "This is our toughest challenge yet, but what I've seen is that the spirit of travel has not been shattered."

The coronavirus pandemic is impacting our home life, our business life, how we worship and where we can shop. While businesses have once again opened their doors to customers, sanitation, is top of mind! You don't want to take chances with your customers nor employees....not only does this impact your health, it impacts your bottom line.

This morning, the owner of Virus Containment Services (VCS), Michael Schubert (and his sweet daughter) joins me with details on how his company uses UV-C technology, to keep you safe and his drive to start this company right here in Mobile. According to the VCS website: "VCS is an industry leader in the eradication of bacteria and viruses using high intensity UVC light. UV-C technology is a tried and true, scientifically proven method of disinfection. Hospitals have long used UV-C lighting exposure to control and kill drug-resistant bacteria, and we now are bringing that level of disinfection to bear in the fight against the
