Invasive Species Roadshow helps people identify invasive species in Rhinelander	NEWS	7/14/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	RHINELANDER - People who thought they found invasive species on their property could get their theory tested. The Oneida County Land and Water Conservation held an invasive species roadshow Friday. People could bring their plants to Trig's Greenspace to see whether or not they were invasive species. The conservation group says it is important for people to be on the lookout for invasive plants.
Manufacturing jobs on the rise in the Northwoods	NEWS	7/19/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	RHINELANDER - Those looking for jobs in manufacturing don't have to go to a big city to get a job. There are a lot of opportunities right here in the Northwoods. Nicolet College held a manufacturing expo with both educators and employers Wednesday to show the community what opportunities are available in the field. "It's just a really good opportunity to see what the education pathway looks like for manufacturing, but then also that end game at the very end to see what the sacrifice was worth when you look at employment opportunities," said Nicolet College Career Coach Angeline Kesler.
Workers and volunteers scour Northwoods lakes for aquatic invasive species	NEWS	7/19/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	SUGAR CAMP - Equipped with a box full of tools and their trusty canoe, Aubrey Nycz and Tom Boisvert hit the water ready to search Wednesday morning. "It's kind of like a little scavenger hunt," Nycz said. The duo from the Oneida County Aquatic Invasive Species program hunted Paradise Lake northwest of Sugar Camp for items like Chinese mystery snails and Eurasian Watermilfoil, noting where they're located and how much of the species there is in the area.
Demmer Library holds cooking demo with invasive species	NEWS	7/26/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	THREE LAKES - Normally when we think of invasive species, we want to get rid of them. But on Tuesday in Three Lakes, people learned how to cook with invasive species. It was all part of a cooking demonstration held at the Demmer Memorial Library. Oneida County AIS Coordinator Stephanie Boismenu led the class. Boismenu says it's an effort to help educate the public.

Wet spring, summer leads to increase in West Nile cases	NEWS	7/26/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	RHINELANDER - All the rain across the Northwoods this spring and summer likely didn't help get rid of any mosquitoes. The pesky insects can carry the West Nile Virus, which has animal rehab workers worried about an increase in cases.  Wild Instincts Rehab Director Mark Naniot has seen between 10 to 15 cases of suspected West Nile Virus come in to his Rhinelander-area facility. Naniot usually doesn't submit his birds for testing because they often come back negative. But he received word from the state Wednesday saying there are 27 counties with confirmed cases -- including Oneida, Vilas, Lincoln, and Langlade counties.
Vilas Co. Sheriff's Office warns of break-ins and vandalism	NEWS	8/3/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	VILAS COUNTY - Police believe more than one person broke into a Vilas County home and stole food and other items in late July. It's not the first recent break-in or act of vandalism they've seen.  Vilas County Sheriff's Captain Gerry Ritter said at first police got reports of car break-ins at a Woodruff-area apartment complex in late-July. Ritter said the suspects were going through unlocked cars and taking things out. Then, the act moved into Vilas County.
Make It! Camp in Three Lakes introduces kids to science, Fab Lab	NEWS	8/10/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	Make It! Camp in Three Lakes introduces kids to science, Fab Lab Submitted: 08/10/2017  THREE LAKES - The Fab Lab in Three Lakes gets used constantly during the school year. But middle and high schoolers helped keep it popular this summer, too.  On Thursday, teams were busy programming a robotic vacuum cleaner to follow a specific route as part of Make It! Camp. Those kinds of projects help introduce kids to the science and technology field.  "I haven't taken any classes here at the school about the Fab Lab. I was just curious. What could I do here?" said Three Lakes student Aubrey Krajewski. "I really like what I've been doing. I feel like this could be something I could do in the future."
School districts remain in 'limbo state' on funding with overdue state budget	NEWS	8/28/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	RHINELANDER - Arbor Vitae-Woodruff school superintendent Jocelyn Smith held off until last week before notifying her teachers of their salaries for this fall. That's not normal.  Rhinelander's school board used old numbers to try and set its budget for the coming year. That's rare.  Districts across the state continue to play a financial guessing game without an approved state budget, not knowing how much money they'll get from the state government to run their schools.  "We're in a limbo state," Smith said of Arbor Vitae-Woodruff schools. "It has weighed heavy on the board's minds."

Walker explains why he vetoed stricter restriction on sexually violent offenders	NEWS	9/26/2017	6:40A, 7:40A, 8:40A 12:30P, 1:30P AND 4:30P AND 5:30P	:20	WISCONSIN - Central Wisconsin lawmaker Katrina Shankland (D-Stevens Point) believes rural, small communities should not be treated as a dumping ground for sex offenders. But a recent veto by Gov. Scott Walker may cause that to keep happening in some places. Communities like Rosholt in Portage County have two sexually violent persons living under the same roof even though neither of those men offended in Portage County. Under state law, judges have the ability to place released sexually violent offenders in a different place than their home county. "What's happening with sexually violent persons is they are getting transferred from urban areas to more rural areas. I recognize this is not fair and we live in an imperfect world," said Shankland.
