Health	PR 05-044	07/01/05	12:00	30:00	Dr. John Whitcomb and Host George Zach discuss the new food pyramid. Dr. Whitcomb is the Physician Champion of the Aurora Sinai Health Task Force. Dr. Whitcomb believes there has been a profound shift in the health care field. It has gone from episodic care to personal responsibility. His training involved treating illnesses with antibiotics or surgery. As the population is aging, there is now the issue of degenerative diseases. Personal responsibility is needed by adhering to proper nutrition, exercise and cutting risk behaviors. These but the risk of degenerative diseases. The new food pyramid guidelines recommend that ½ of your daily food intake should be from whole grains. He discussed the focus on fruits and vegetables, which should equal 9-10 servings. Two servings of chicken or fish and 3 servings of calcium are recommended. He talked about the DASH diet- dietary alternative to suppressed hypertension. Eating a high level of foods with antioxidants promotes brain health. Weight control requires eating less and more colorful fresh foods.

Health	PR 05-046	07/22/05 07/25/05	12:00 PM	15:00	Host Jackie Kahlhamer talks about women's heart health with Dr. Beth Collister, a local physician. Dr. Collister spoke about the issue of women's heart health coming to the forefront. It is the leading cause of death for women. Heart disease affects women differently than men. They often have vague symptoms that could indicate other issues (nausea, anxiety, arm pain, etc.). Dr. Collister discussed the role of prevention and what can be done to avoid heart disease. Especially important are healthy eating and exercise.

Health	PR 05-052	07/29/05	12:00 PM	30:00	Host Michael Wittig and Carol Roth discuss health insurance and dairy farmers. Carol is an Outreach Specialist for UW (University of WI) Extension. She has personal experience regarding health insurance and dairy farmers. Being one, she found herself at a place where she had to seek outside employment in order to get health insurance. She gave statistics of how many farmers go without insurance and how many are underinsured. Different types of insurance options were discussed. Many are too expensive for farmers to afford. It was stressed that people need to take control of their health insurance, be good consumers and read their policies so they know what is covered. Many dairy farmers do not receive preventative care. There are some programs available for those who do not have insurance to receive some type of health care.

Health	PR 05-045	08/01/05	10:30 AM	15:00	Host George Zach talks with Dr. John Whitcomb, the Emergency Room Director for Aurora Sinai Hospital. Dr. Whitcomb discussed the proper use of the ER. The ER is often used as a default source of health care. This causes overcrowding and drains the resources of the ER staff. Dr. Whitcomb discussed what a prudent layperson is and how they view an emergency. He gave symptoms of what those could entail. Southeastern WI has very high health care costs, with complex reasons. The state receives low payment for Medicare and Medicaid. Milwaukee County does not have a health care system. Thus the costs of the uninsured get shifted to the private sector. Providing patients who use the ER for primary health care with mentors has been very valuable. The mentors teach how to utilize how health agencies. Dr. Whitcomb believes there needs to be a fundamental change in the way America delivers its health care.

Health	PR 05-050	08/12/05 08/19/05	12:00 PM 12:00 PM	15:00	Host Jackie Kahlhamer talks with Dr. John Riegleman about wellness. Dr. Riegleman is a local chiropractor. Wellness is still in the state of definition. It can include many aspects- not smoking, wearing a seatbelt, maintaining a healthy weight, exercise and nutrition. Homeostasis is the state of well-being. It is never too late to start practicing good habits that will contribute to wellness. The more educated people are about this, the more likely they are to work towards wellness. It is important to read food ingredients on labels. Dr. Riegleman states that if you can't read it, don't eat it. He encourages eating organic foods.

Health	PR 05-051	08/15/05	10:30 AM	15:00	Darla Harper and Host Jerry Sherstad discuss the health services for those with special needs. Darla is the Program Director for Green Valley Enterprises, an organization that provides services for the physically and cognitively disabled. Ages of those served are birth to those in their 90's. Some of the clients have been disabled since birth. Others may have had a head injury, heart attack stroke, etc. They may be dealing with such issues as depression, home safety, and the need for personal care and occupational therapy. The goal is to get them back to their maximum potential. Green Valley tries to take on any health challenge someone may have. They want to see people remain in their homes as opposed to being placed outside of it (an institution, nursing home, etc.). Green Valley works to educate the medical community about their services. It is hard when a doctor gives a diagnosis and there is nowhere to turn.

Heath	PR 05-057	08/19/05	12:00 PM	15:00	Host Jackie Kahlhamer talks with Dr. John Riegleman, a local Chiropractor about natural health care. Dr. Riegleman believes the body has tremendous capabilities to heal. It is our job to take care of our bodies. Dr. Riegleman looks at a holistic approach to dealing with heart disease, high cholesterol and diabetes. The lack of caring for our bodies often leads to chronic conditions, which puts more of a burden on the health care system. He highly recommends eating better and preventative care.

Substance Abuse	PR 05-045	08/01/05	10:30 AM	15:00	Host George Zach discusses substance abuse, as seen by an emergency room physician, with Dr. John Whitcomb. Dr. Whitcomb is the Director of Emergency Services at Aurora Sinai Hospital, who states that he sees every day the dark side of alcohol. It is the most common drug and most badly abused. He believes that in the state of Wisconsin, the next emerging epidemic is methamphetamine abuse. It is a very wicked drug. Milwaukee has seen a cocaine epidemic, a drug which even "nice" people abuse. He has seen young adults suffer heart attacks from their 1 st use of the drug. Dr. Whitcomb does not believe the government can stop drug abuse- it is a personal responsibility issue. He talked about different models of drug abuse treatment. He believes the faith-based models are a real source of hope.

Substance Abuse	PR 05-053	08/05/05 08/08/05	12:00 PM 2:30 AM	15:00	Host Dave Katsma and Sue Sutter discuss substance abuse as seen by a pharmacist. Sue is a local pharmacist and co-owner of a pharmacy. The vast majority of Rx prescriptions are for legitimate reasons. But sometimes legal drugs are abused, which often include pain pills or stimulants. Sue discussed red flags that may indicate Rx drug abuse. Pharmacists interact with physicians and the patient as a means to help prevent abuse. She discussed what types of over-the-counter drugs are abused. State law will require some of these to be sold behind the counter as of 10/01/05. Certain cold medicine products are used to make "meth", a very dangerous street drug. There will also be restrictions on the quantity of certain cold medicine products that can be purchased. The customer will have to be 18 years old and will have to sign for it. Sue discussed what someone can do if they suspect a family member or friend is abusing drugs.

Substance Abuse	PR 05-054	08/08/05	10:30 AM	15:00	Jo Anne Swyers, Dodge County Sheriff Dept. Detective, and Host Michael Wittig discuss the relationship between substance abuse and crimes against children. Jo Anne believes that substance abuse by juveniles is at an epidemic. This often leads to other behaviors that bring them into contact with law enforcement. Drug habits often need to be subsidized through crime. Many crimes against children are committed by adults when their inhibitions are lowered by drugs or alcohol. Child sexual predators or "groomers" start by giving children alcohol or drugs. Now the child is "guilty" and afraid to tell their parents. Jo Anne stresses that anytime an adult is involved, the adult is the guilty one. Family members may be reluctant to turn in a family member who is a substance abuser, even if they are abusing children. There is no longer any typical drug abuser. They are in all walks of life and all different ages.

Substance Abuse	PR 05-054	08/08/05	10:30 AM	15:00	Host Michael Wittig talks with Jean Buschke about substance abuse and its relationship to domestic abuse. Jean is the Executive Director of PAVE (People Against a Violent Environment). Jean has been in that position for 9 years. Alcohol abuse as a precursor to domestic abuse has dropped since then. There now is an increase in the abuse of prescription medicine abuse. This is abused by both the abuser and victim, to dull to pain. Victims also use alcohol to hide their pain. Hiding from these issues is not the answer- they must be dealt with. Sometimes in-patient treatment for substance abuse is needed. It is very expensive and may not be covered by health plans. Substance abuse crosses all economic lines. Substance abuse and domestic violence is often a layered issue. There are no quick fixes.

Substance Abuse	PR 05-058	08/22/05	10:30 AM	30:00	Host David Katsma enjoins Greg Hanson in discussion on the effects of and treatment for substance abuse. Greg is a Certified Alcohol and Drug Counselor 3 for Dodge County Health and Human Services Department. He sees alcohol as being the #1 drug if choice in Dodge County. He believes it is also the #1 cost to society. He mentions other drugs abused, but mainly it is alcohol and marijuana that are abused. Alcohol has the same characteristics as a narcotic. There are 4 categories of criteria to determine is someone has a substance abuse problem. If it affects them in their job, family, financial or legal aspects it is an abuse issue. Greg spoke on the effects of substance abuse on the individual, their family and society. Treatment options were discussed.

Substance Abuse	PR 05-059	08/26/05 08/29/05	12:00 PM 02:30 AM	15:00	Host Michael Wittig and Waupun Police Chief Dale Heeringa discuss substance abuse from the police department's perspective. Chief Heeringa believes alcohol is the most widely abused drug. This often results in underage drinking violations and OWI. Domestic calls to the department are often the result of AODA. The city saw its first finding of rock cocaine last year. Substance abuse does not just affect the abuser, but also their family and society. The police have a Counter Act program for 5 th graders that is drug resistance program. Legal ramifications of being caught were discussed. Someone at age 17 is charged as an adult. The Waupun Police Department works closely with the Dodge County Sheriff's drug unit. Budget tightening affects the ability to hire another drug investigator. Chief Heeringa encouraged citizens to report suspicious activity to the police department.

Substance Abuse	PR 05-063	09/16/05	12:00 PM	30:00	Host Hackie Kahlhamer talks about chemical dependency with Mickey Gabbert, the Manager of Chemical Dependency Services at Rogers Memorial Hospital. He discussed aspects of chemical dependency, both physical and mental. It is the #1 cause of accidents on the job. He also sees more abuse of Rx drugs by older adults. When someone comes to treatment, assessment of needs for the client and their family is very important. Ramifications of being in recovery were discussed. Mickey is very pleased when he sees very positive changes occurring as a result of treatment. Although, not everyone receiving treatment changes. Family participation is very important in the treatment process.

Substance Abuse	PR 05-068	09/26/05	10:30 AM	15:00	Steve Bauer, the District Attorney of Dodge County, and Host Jackie Kahlhamer discuss substance abuse in the local court system. Mr. Bauer estimates 75% of crimes are related to substance abuse. These crimes can be directly or indirectly related to substance abuse. Mr. Bauer believes there is a moral decay that occurs when using drugs. Individuals become obsessed with using and obtaining the drugs and can't fulfill their responsibilities to society. Alcohol is the major problem. Effects from this can be operating while intoxicated, domestic battery, bar fights, etc. Mr. Bauer discussed penalties and that he believes even stronger penalties would be better deterrents. A strong family life, and a sense of purpose can help people avoid these vices.

YOUTH

Youth	PR 05-048	07/08/05 07/11/05	12:00 PM 2:30 AM	30:00	Host Daphene Van Hullum and Marcia Decker discuss the issue of children staying home safe (alone). Marcia is the Beaver Dam Hospital Community Training Center Coordinator. The state of WI has no legal minimum age when a child can stay home alone. Parents can determine when it is appropriate for their child(ren) to stay home alone. Marcia gave several factors for parents to look at when determining the readiness of a child to stay home. These include: safety of the home and surrounding environment and testing the child to see if they can understand dangerous situations. Role playing with children is very helpful to gauge a child's understanding of certain issues. Things for a parent to address: telephone and computer safety, first aid kits, severe weather, strangers, fire safety and others were discussed. Communication between child and parent is extremely important. Firm ground rules must be set and adhered to. Marcia recommends a written contract between parent and child of what is allowed and what is not, etc. Parents need to reassess their child is competent to be left alone, such as watching for signs that the child is afraid to stay home alone.

Youth	PR 05-050	08/12/05	12:00 PM	15:00	Pat Molter, the President of New Beginnings Are Possible, and Host Dave Katsma discuss the education of youth. At NBAP they believe it is easier to build a child than to restore and adult. They work with at-risk kids who are wonderful youth. Most live with someone other than a natural parent. NBAP places emphasizes on education. Many of the children are bounced from 3-4 different schools during the school year. They often live in an environment where they are not read to, or no one helps them with their homework. One third of all Milwaukee Public School 3 rd graders are behind in reading levels. NBAP provides educational opportunities outside of the school setting. Tutors work one on one with children. Partnerships are built with school teachers. Daily reports are sent home and to the schools. Students often lack the dream of going beyond a high school education. NBAP works to have them see this. They are determined to make learning fun through several different types of summer camps. A big endeavor is the summer reading program.

Youth	PR 05-051	08/15/05	10:30 AM	15:00	Host Jerry Sherstad talks with Darla Harper about the need for youth services. Darla is the Program Director at Green Valley Enterprises that serves those with special needs, due to physical or cognitive impairments. When a child is born with these concerns, the family often needs somewhere to go to for help- to give answers, comfort, hold their hand and/or listen to them. Green Valley offers a Birth to 3 Program that provides speech and occupational therapy. It helps to get them ready for everything. Sometimes a youth may have a head injury and may need rehabilitation before going back to school. A summer camp is offered for children ages 5-18. This offers opportunities they may not have and respite for the families. Many of these children have autism. The camp offers them life skills to take with them. People need to see these children in the community. They need to feel accepted by other youth.

Youth	PR 05-065	09/12/05	10:30 AM	30:00	Host Jackie Kahlhamer discusses the correlation between nutrition and mental health in youth with Kari Thielke. Kari is a Registered Dietician with Rogers Memorial Hospital. She works with youth dealing with eating disorders. She talked about proper nutrition and the impact of youth not eating properly. Youth who struggle with eating disorders often are afraid of food. Childhood obesity is a growing problem. Parents need to be examples of healthy eating to their children and to help their children develop good eating habits. When a youth is suffering from a mental health issue begins to eat properly, the change in them is quite noticeable.

Youth	PR 05-067	09/23/05 09/26/05	12:00 PM 02:30 AM	15:00	Sally Schoenike, the Youth Development Agent at Dodge County UW-Extension Office, and Host Jackie Kahlhamer discuss the need to encourage youth to live healthy and well. With childhood obesity becoming a looming problem, it is important to address this by promoting an active lifestyle and healthy eating habits. As youth develop lifestyles of activity and good eating, they will most likely carry these into adulthood. Youth need to be made aware that choices they make today will affect how they feel tomorrow. It is a good idea for parents to take children along when they grocery shop. They can use this time to teach children about healthy eating. The newly revised food pyramid is a good model for nutrition.

Jay Sekulow, Chief Counsel for American Center for Law & Justice discusses the conscience clause issue and shows a roll-in of a cash in Vermont 12 years ago regarding a private printer who was sued for racial discrimination because the owners refused to print pro-abortion material. The case was dismissed and put anti-discrimination law in its proper place. Congressman Jim Ryun discusses pro-life legislation regarding fetal pain issue and how it has been medically proven that a fetus that is 19-20 weeks and over feels substantial pain during an abortion. He discussed the problem of judges who legislate from the bench. Pat Monaghan also discusses the conscience clause issue and abortion issue and states that momentum from the public is positive. Jay shows roll-in of a case in Dec. 1990 where Planned Parenthood took a school district in Florida to court. Planned Parenthood wanted a federal judge to stop the abstinence program that was being taught to 7th graders removed on the basis that the program did not give information about contraceptives, did not promote abortion and that the program promotes a religious view by not discussing birth control. ACLJ represented the school board and based its case on the fact that it was an act of censorship and social engineering. Other school boards are reluctant to use the program for fear of similar lawsuits.

Dr. Kristen Plastino talks about how parents can help encourage their teens to delay sexual activity. She talks about six factors for teens to delay having sex. She gives 10 tips for parents on how they can talk to their teens. Parents should be clear about their own sexual values. Talk to your child early and often about sex. Supervise and monitor child's activities. Know your child's friends and families. Discourage early and frequent dating. Encourage group activities. Make sure teens know who to contact you. Discourage dating older teens. Help teens set goals for their future. Let teens know you value education and make sure they know you are watching them – set a good example. And have a strong relationship with your teen.

Government	PR 05-055	07/15/05 07/18/05	12:00 PM 2:30 AM	30:00	Host David Katsma interviews Marvin Munyon, the President and Founder of WI Capitol Watch. WCW seeks to protect, promote and preserve the traditional family through public policy. They discussed the current biennial budget that was passed by the Legislature, but not signed by the Governor, who has threatened to veto some or all of it. WI law requires a balanced budget which the Legislature accomplished by borrowing money into the future, robbing from other funds and using unacceptable accounting procedures. They discussed other bills that have been introduced: the Voter ID and proof of citizenship for driving bills, and aspects of each. The Marriage Amendment bill has passed in Legislature. It must pass again in another Legislative cycle and then it will go to a referendum. Marvin believes it is very important for citizens to be active in their government. Citizens need to be interested, informed and involved. He gave ideas on how this can be done.

Government	PR 05-056	07/18/05	10:30 AM	15:00	Bill Petracek, the City Administrator of Fox Lake, and Host Michael Wittig discuss current issues of the city. Bill believes the most pressing issue affecting the city is its aging infrastructure and working to replace it. The city is carrying a large debt. Funding capitol improvements is challenging. The city government works to keep the mill levy at an acceptable rate for the community. They will be losing some of their debt load beginning in 2007. Citizens were encouraged to be involved in their city government. Bill discussed the TIF (tax incremental financing) District and how this is a bright spot in the community. It is to help bring in both residential and industrial development. The city is working with a very tight budget and trying to do more with less.

Lomira is seeing a housing boom. Recently 6.9 million dollars were returned to the tax role due to the early retirement of a TIF (tax incremental financing) district. TIF is a government tool used for economic development. Street improvements and special assessments of sidewalks and driveway approachments were discussed. There is a need to expand the village's wastewater treatment system, due to rapid village growth. The state requires all communities to develop a Smart Growth plan and discussion of this ensued. Radium levels in the well water are at the borderline. The hope is to find a new well with low radium levels.

Government	PR 05-047	07/25/05	10:30 AM	30:00	Gary Rogers, the Administrator for the City of Waupun and Host Jerry Sherstad discuss current issues affecting Waupun. The city has a large amount of property inside and surrounding it that is owned by the state, making them heavily dependent on state funding. State properties do not pay property taxes. Currently 51% of revenues come from the state, which is something they want to grow away from. He believes they can do this through downtown revitalization. They are working with the state with the hopes of gaining some state property that will allow Waupun to expand. Gary discussed the proposed Taxpayer Bill of Rights (TABOR) and the impact it could have on communities. He believes it is state government indirectly telling local governments what they can do. He believes TABOR could cause them to cut local services.

Government	PR 05-053	08/05/05 08/08/05	12:00 PM 2:30 AM	15:00	Host Dave Katsma discusses legislation/government affecting pharmacy with Sue Sutter. Sue is a local pharmacist and the recipient of the 2005 American Pharmacists Association Good Government Pharmacist of the Year award. She is on the State Pharmacy Examining Board which is her profession's regulatory board. She is actively involved in addressing the issues in Legislature affecting pharmacies. Sue states that pharmacy is the most heavily regulated field in all the health professions. Pharmacy reimbursements often come through public policy programs through the state and federal budget processes. She discussed Canadian drug imports and the safety issues involved there. It is federally illegal to purchase Canadian drugs. Governor Doyle wanted to encourage it, but it was never changed at the federal level. Buying drugs through the internet is very risky as you can't be sure where they really come from. The FDA needs to assure the safety of Rx drugs. Medicaid is the state program for the poor. Medicare Part D is a federal program that will soon help seniors pay for prescription medications.

The police department held a public forum to talk about sex offenders in the community due to citizen concerns. There are 3 classifications of registered sex offenders. Depending on what they were charged with, the chance of reoffending and the other issues determines the classification and how and if community members are notified. The state runs a registry of released offenders and where they live. This information is available online (or by calling). Keeping track of offenders is another aspect that affects an already tight budget. Citizens were encouraged to be aware of issues and call the police if anything suspicious is noticed.

Municipalities need to make themselves attractive to businesses and residentially. They are expected to provide city services without unreasonably high property taxes. A nice selection of jobs should be available- for the spouse and children (of the breadwinner). Both the city and county have a revolving loan fund program to help businesses create jobs at all levels. Municipalities need to have jobs available that pay well enough for the employee to purchase a home in the city and pay property taxes.

Senator Fitzgerald is Co-chair of the Joint Finance Committee. He discussed the biennial budget process. A new budget was currently passed. The Governor vetoed portions of what the Legislators presented. The major portion of the budget if the funding of education. It encompasses 55% of the total budget. With that in mind, Senator Fitzgerald refuted claims that public education is seriously under funded. The Governor restored funding to education that had previously been cut. He did this by moving monies away from other agencies such as Health and Human Services and Transportation. Health and Human Services may be challenged to provide some of the services they currently do. The state needs to do 3 major transportation projects – the Marquette and Zoo interchanges in Milwaukee and the southeast corridor.

Jay Sekulow Chief Counsel for American Center for Law & Justice speaks on the issue of Judicial Activism. He states that the upcoming hearing may be the most significant historic hearings for the Senate Judiciary Committee with regard to the confirmation of two justices to the U.S. Supreme Court. There have been only 108 justices since the very first Supreme Court. A video report is shown on the same matter and the first case mentioned is the 1803 Marbury vs. Madison case because it marked the first time the U.S. Supreme Court declared a federal law unconstitutional. The second case mentioned is the infamous 1857 Case of Dred Scott in which the Supreme Court upheld slavery as constitutional and was a factor to user in the Civil War. The next case mentioned is the 1954 Brown vs. Board of Education case in which the high court overturned segregation in public schools. Other cases mentioned are the 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortion and 2003's Lawrence vs. Texas case. The Supreme Court wiped out laws against sodomy and declared homosexual sex a protected right under the U.S. Constitution. Jay has three congressmen on the show to discuss the injustices of judicial activism and the serious negative ramifications of judges who legislate from the bench. Congressman Todd Akin (R), Congressman Trent Franks (R), and Congressman John Hostettler (R). Jay and the Congressmen agree that Judge John Roberts understand the role of a Judge. The trucking industry provides many different types of employment opportunities including truck drivers, mechanics, office personnel and dispatchers. He discussed wages and that they take very good care of their drivers. There is a shortage of drivers right now. A federal law prohibits drivers under age 21 from crossing the state line. This proves challenging for the trucking industry to recruit drivers. Mr. Kreilkamp said trucking is not the male-dominated field as is often perceived. More women and minorities are joining the ranks. Trucking is a good career field to be in, but there are negatives such as being away from home a lot and weekend work. Dr. Hytrek believes that the state's technical school system is the economic engine of the state. They offer training for today's workforce. It is very important to work closely with manufacturers to see what their needs are. When a new business comes to town, WTC (Wisconsin Technical College) system helps provide qualified employees. Many of the students are employed while attending school. Therefore, courses are designed to make it as accessible as possible for the adult working student. When a business closes, the technical colleges want to be there to help the employees. Manufacturing is still very strong in Wisconsin. Manufacturers are concerned about the aging baby boomer population. There is a predicted shortage coming of over 3 million workers, of which will hit the state particularly hard. Although the state lost over 80,000 manufacturing jobs in previous years, last year 16,000 were created. There is a shortage of skilled employees as manufacturing has changed dramatically, with the need for employees who have technical skills. The service industry is growing dramatically also. Again this is affected by the aging baby boomers. A campaign was started by technical schools to encourage students towards manufacturing. MPTC does employment statistic follow-ups on graduates. Employers are asked if the graduates were able to fulfill their needs.

Per his discussion with local employers, he stated that the current labor pool is tapped, meaning anyone that can work should be able to have a job. Beaver Dam is transitioning into a retail center. Jobs that supply a living income are most needed. It is hard for retail to supply these types of jobs. There have been some smaller manufacturing upstarts, which have potential to grow. Southeastern Wisconsin has lost up to 80,000 manufacturing jobs in the last number of years. Mayor Hanks discuss the need for a strong job base. It is estimated that every paycheck dollar gets spent 7 different times in a community. It is important for the city to have a skilled labor force with people that are motivated and have good work habits. This is important to employers considering a move to the city.
