Subject: New Yorkers are going to be dressing up as Taylor Swift for Halloween this year, according to fashion expert

10/13/23

Hey Chad,

How are you today?

Spooky season has officially begun, and with views on the hashtag #HalloweenCostumeIdeas having amassed over 311 million views on Tiktok in the last 30 days alone, greetings card marketplace thortful has teamed up with fashion expert, Raymond Lam from Vendula London, to reveal how pop culture will impact the characters we'll see at Halloween celebrations this year.

In New York, the most people (8,000 a month on average) are searching for a Taylor Swift costume, making it the most popular Halloween costume choice this year! This is closely followed by The Little Mermaid and Barbie.

Please see the list of costumes below, followed by a ranking of which ones are the most popular in New York.

Let me know if you need anything else at all!

Best,

Katie

The most popular Halloween costumes in New York for 2023, according to a fashion expert

Will you be going as Cowgirl Barbie or a Roman let loose from the empire?

Whether you want your Halloween costume to be the talk of 2023, or you aren't sure what to go as yet, there are some cool and unusual pop culture moments that could impact what's popular in the world of spooky fashion this year.

With views on the hashtag #HalloweenCostumeIdeas amassing over 311 million worldwide in the last 30 days[1], greetings card marketplace thortful has teamed up with fashion expert Raymond Lam from Vendula London to predict who, or what, we may see trick or treating this year!

Raymond says: "Alongside the usual Halloween costumes of witches, vampires and ghosts, pop culture outfits are expected to be a huge influence this year. Costumes that we are going to see a lot of include:

Taylor Swift - After one of the most talked about tours over the summer, it is highly expected that the trend of dressing up like one of Taylor Swift's eras, as started by concert attendees, will continue into the Halloween season. This will be a relatively easy costume to DIY, or you could recycle your concert outfit if you were lucky enough to attend. Additionally, this will likely be a popular group costume, with each member of the group dressing as a different 'era'.

Searches for 'Taylor Swift Eras outfit inspo' have gone up a staggering +12,900% in the past year thanks to the star's world tour[2].

The Little Mermaid - Following the release of Disney's live-action adaptation of the beloved animated film, mermaids are likely to become a popular choice for Halloween-ers this year. This costume will probably be popular amongst adults as well as children.

Barbie - This was arguably a popular costume last year after set images were leaked, but after the success of the film following its release in July, many other Barbie variants will inspire outfits. The most popular Barbies are predicted to be Cowgirl Barbie, Roller Skating Barbie and perhaps even Weird Barbie, with the Barbie and Ken expected to be the source material for many couples' costumes.

Western Barbie seems to be a really popular choice since the movie's release, with searches for 'Barbie cowgirl outfit' having gone up by a whopping 7,300+% in the past year, and 'weird barbie' +141,000[3]!

Barbenheimer - Even though Barbie is already expected to be a massively popular costume this year, the viral content that stemmed from Oppenheimer being released at the same time may inspire more creative fans to make mashups of the two.

Wednesday Addams - Although Netflix's show Wednesday was released last year, this was not until after Halloween. Having been one of the biggest shows of 2022, many people may be ditching their usual Wednesday Addams costume to instead dress like Jenna Ortega's portrayal of the character. The dress the character wears in the viral 'Goo Goo Muck' dance scene may turn out to be more popular than the more stereotypical depictions of Wednesday. Additionally, fans of the show may opt for matching costumes by dressing as Wednesday and her eventual friend Enid.

Super Mario Brothers - There will probably be a surge in demand for costumes of various characters following the release of The Super Mario Bros. Movie this year. These costumes will also be a good choice for couples or groups, involving characters such as Mario, Luigi, Peach and Bowser.

Spider-People - Another popular film this summer was Spider-Man: Across The Spider-Verse. We will likely see the many different spider-people introduced in this movie, with some of the most popular costumes expected to be Spider-Gwen, Miles Morales and Miguel O'Hara.

Ellie & Joel - The Last Of Us has been one of the biggest TV shows this year so far, meaning that we will see many people dressing as main characters Ellie and Joel this Halloween. Certain fans of the show may opt to dress as infected characters, such as the Clickers.

Beyonce's Renaissance Tour bee costume seems to be a fan favourite, with searches for this outfit having gone up by +26,900%[4] in the last year.

Beyonce - One of the other most popular tours this year came from Beyonce, who drew in crowds with her Renaissance shows. Fans may try recreating her various on-stage looks from the show by donning silver clothing paired with statement sunglasses and hats.

Blue Ivy - After dancing on-stage at her mother's Renaissance tour shows, Blue Ivy rapidly increased in popularity on the internet. For Halloween, Beyonce fans may recreate Blue Ivy's on-stage outfits instead of her mother's, such as her red jumpsuit or one of her head-to-toe silver ensembles.

Nepo Baby - Following ongoing debates around 'nepo babies' online, the internet went wild when Hailey Bieber was seen wearing a 'nepo baby' t-shirt back in January. This is likely to be a popular outfit as it is easy to recreate and DIY yourself.

Roman Empire - given the recent viral Roman Empire trends, it could be expected that this will go on to inspire many Halloween costumes from toga party vibes to Roman legionaries. This is a fantastic choice for Halloween enthusiasts looking for a legendary and powerful costume.

'Travis I'm Pregnant' - couples who are looking for easy, DIY costumes this year may choose to dress as Kourtney Kardashian and Travis Barker, inspired by when she held up a cardboard sign announcing her pregnancy at a Blink-182 concert earlier this year.

Käärijä - Eurovision fans may decide to dress up as fan favourite Käärijä this year, who gave us Finland's entry of 'Cha Cha Cha'.

Which costumes are most popular in New York this year?[5]

Costume	Estimated monthly search volume
Taylor Swift costume	8,000
Little Mermaid costume	7,000
Barbie costume	6,000

Flu-like symptoms lead to heart disease diagnosis for Stillwater woman

Forty-one-year-old mother of two will share her story at the Nov. 3 Go Red for Women Luncheon at the Albany Capital Center

ALBANY, October 13, 2023 – In March of 2019, Lindsay Callahan thought she had the flu. An EKG was part of the battery of tests that doctors performed on her – and it led to a result the then-36-year-old mother of two, who works part-time at DeCrescente Distributing Company, never expected.

“I was negative for the flu, but failed my EKG,” Callahan said. “My blood pressure was through the roof, and the doctor thought I was having a pulmonary embolism. They sent me to Malta Med Emergency Center for follow-up.”

Tests there only found a heart murmur. Although other family members had heart murmurs, this was the first time that Callahan had heard she had one. She did know that she had Factor V Leiden, a blood clotting disorder.

Callahan didn’t improve; in particular, her cough worsened. Ten days after her first test, she was at the gym and couldn’t exert herself at all. Her primary care doctor sent her for an echocardiogram.

“The tech doing that echo saved my life,” Callahan said. “She sat me down, and said although she couldn’t be specific, my valve was ruptured and my heart was working very hard.”

After blood work, Callahan’s next step was a transesophageal echocardiogram, an ultrasound done through the esophagus, because its proximity to the heart gives a good view of the valves.

The 20-minute procedure showed that her mitral valve that was “flailing.” It also showed the need for open-heart surgery to repair it.

“I couldn’t even fathom what was happening,” Callahan said, recalling how she felt on the drive home from the test. “I’m from a big Italian family and when I got home, everyone was there.”

Her 5- and 7-year-old children were foremost in Callahan’s mind.

“I wanted to wait to tell them until they were old enough to comprehend what was happening,” she said. But the need was too great, and surgery was scheduled for June 2019.

“The kids’ pediatrician was really helpful; she and I even cried together,” Callahan said.

Between her diagnosis and the surgery, Callahan weakened.

“I couldn’t work out, and I had constant heart palpitations,” Callahan said. “Once, I was in a pool with my children, and had a hard time even treading water.”

Callahan spent time wondering how she had gone from nothing to being so sick so fast, and wondered why the heart murmur hadn’t been found.

“One of my doctors suggested that the stress of pregnancy might have done it,” she said. “I had high blood pressure and pre-eclampsia with my pregnancies. I was never someone who loved being pregnant. I was only 27 and 29 when I had my children, but never felt well in that time.”

On June 24, 2019, Callahan had open-heart surgery at Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York City.

“My husband, my two sisters, my nieces and my mom and dad came with me,” she said. “Saying good-bye to my children that morning was hard. I didn’t know if I’d ever see them again.”

After initially feeling well, Callahan’s recovery became more difficult.

“Nobody prepares you for the little things that come after surgery,” Callahan said.

The Factor V Leiden had to be controlled, and her lungs filled with fluid. At home, she collapsed once, in full view of her children.

“When I came to, I thought I was having a stroke,” she said. “My mouth and tongue were numb. It was a panic attack.”

In November, another setback happened. Callahan had trouble forming words, and when she did, they often came out slurred. Two separate trips to the emergency department didn’t show anything. Her primary care doctor told her to call as soon as it started happening again. When it did, her primary pulled together her cardiologist and surgeon and told them to not let her leave the hospital until she received an MRI of her heart and brain.

A neurologist diagnosed post-perfusion syndrome, which can happen after a patient has been on a heart-lung machine. The condition is also called “pump head.”

“I’m not big on meds, but after that, I went on anxiety medication right away,” Callahan said. “I found that what my mind went through after open-heart surgery took over my entire body, and I was having depression and anxiety. My biggest struggle was thinking, how the heck did I survive?”

Today, Callahan feels good, her children are thriving, and she feels certain that her purpose is to help others.

“I know my family history, and share that with my kids,” she said. “My father had open-heart surgery and has a defibrillator; my mother tested positive for the BRCA gene. I’ve had the BRACA test and everything is fine. My children had the new cardiac survey, and my daughter has a leaky valve. Now we know.”

“You have to be aware of your body,” Callahan said. “Any little symptom I have, I call my cardiologist. One thing I would tell everyone is that you aren’t crazy. If you go to a doctor and they don’t find anything and say it’s fine, but you don’t feel fine, see someone else. I was placed here to go through this to help others. When you get through something, pay it forward. That’s the best thing to do. You have to live every day as if it’s your last. Take chances. You just have to.”

Callahan will share her story at the Go Red for Women Luncheon, set for Friday, Nov. 3 at the Albany Capital Center. For ticket and registration information, visit CapitalRegionNYGoRedLuncheon.heart.org.

Chantel & Chad-

We are still in disbelief from Sunday. Once again the Capital Region rallied together to make an incredible impact in our fight against breast cancer. Over 10,000 walkers in Washington Park not only helping us reach our goal of raising $700,000 for this year's Making Strides Against Breast Cancer movement in the Capital Region, but also sending a powerful message of hope to all those impacted by this disease in our community and beyond.

None of it would be possible without our partners like YOU who are leading this movement. I can't tell you how thankful we are to have Albany Broadcasting on our team and a part of this very special day. The start line was magical and we got the most amazing feedback about the kids area!! So thank you for always being champions of our mission and people that we can rely on!

You can check out our photos from the walk on our Facebook page here. Our volunteer photographers (Matt Whalen, Erin Fortin, George Hackney, and Jean DerGurahian) did a wonderful job capturing the essence of what the day is all about. If either of you have any pictures from the day please also share with us either here or tag us on social media (@albanystrides & @americancancersocietyevents), we'd love to see them—especially if members of your team were there!

Although the “big day” is over, we know our shared dedication to the fight against cancer is not. If there is anything you have planned or want to plan to continue to engage the community throughout the month/year please let us know how we can support you in that! We will see you bright and early for RKWP day on the 27th—this one will be extra special (:

Lastly, if you have any feedback from Sunday's walk we would love to hear it. We're always focused on ensuring the best possible event experience for both attendees and our sponsors so please feel free to share what you loved and what we can improve on!

NYS Capitol and Empire State Plaza Among Participating Sites for the Alzheimer's Foundation of America's Light the World in Teal Program.

NEW YORK (October 30, 2023) — Landmarks across Albany, including the New York State Capitol and the Empire State Plaza, together with more than 1,000 buildings and landmarks around the world, will be lighting up teal on November 2 to raise Alzheimer's awareness as part of the Alzheimer's Foundation of America's (AFA) Light the World in Teal program.

The annual program, held in November as part of Alzheimer's Awareness Month, aims to literally shine a spotlight on Alzheimer's disease and show support for the millions of people affected by it. Teal is AFA's Alzheimer's awareness color.

Participating Albany landmarks include:

- New York State Capitol
- Empire State Plaza

- Alfred E. Smith Building
- SUNY Plaza Building
- New York State Education Building
- Albany International Airport Gateway

“It’s wonderful to see some of Albany’s most well-known and world renowned sites helping to raise Alzheimer’s awareness and show support for the millions of Americans impacted by the disease,” said Charles J. Fuschillo, Jr., AFA’s President & CEO. “. “By ‘Going Teal,’ these sites are literally highlighting the issue of Alzheimer’s and the need to continue doing more for the 6.7 million Americans currently living with it. We thank them for supporting this program and all those affected by Alzheimer’s disease.”

The Albany landmarks are among more than 1,000 sites worldwide “going teal” for Alzheimer’s awareness on November 2. This is the tenth year of AFA’s Light the World in Teal campaign.

---

Individuals can also participate in raising Alzheimer’s awareness by “going teal” on their own November 2. You can wear teal or even use social media to raise awareness.

---

More than 6.7 million Americans, including 410,000 New Yorkers, are currently living with Alzheimer’s disease. The number of people with Alzheimer’s is projected to more than double by 2060, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

All Stewart's Customers Can Enjoy a 99¢ Single Scoop Cone this Saturday, November 11th in Honor of Veterans Day

To honor our Veterans, all Stewart's customers can enjoy a 99¢ single scoop cone this Saturday, November 11th.

Stewart's Shops is proud to support veterans, not only on Veterans Day, but every day throughout the year. They support over 140 veteran groups each year with monetary and product donations. From job training, providing meals for events and life skills trainings, Stewart's Shops donations positively impact veterans all year long.

This year, Stewart's highlighted one of the amazing veterans' organizations they support:

Stewart's Shops donated $50,000 to the Veterans & Community Housing Coalition (VCHC) to support the Foreverly House Project. Once completed, this will be the only facility in New York that houses homeless veteran women and their children. This is an incredibly impactful housing facility that will help many struggling veteran mothers transform their lives and their children's lives.

"Through the last 40 years, Veterans & Community Housing Coalition has developed a continuum of housing opportunities and support services for our homeless veterans. Foreverly will serve an unmet target population of homeless veteran moms and their children. This program will be the first of its kind in the state." said Cheryl Hage-Perez, an Executive Board Liaison, focusing on the development of the Foreverly House Project.

VCHC broke ground on this project June 27th and the house is expected to be completed this year!

Stewart's Shops is privileged to donate to veterans' organizations like VCHC who are doing impactful work in the communities they are a part of.

For Immediate Release

November 27, 2023

(Cohoes, NY) Building on Love, Inc. will be the beneficiary of "Finding Christmas" a holiday themed extravaganza produced by Peak Music Studios on Sunday, December 10, 2023, at 2:00pm at the historic Palace Theatre in downtown Albany, NY.

This event will celebrate local musicians, singers and artists and features the local performers chosen via an open audition process and the stars of Peak Music Studios.

The event will be hosted by Greg Aidala and will include special performances by local artists including Angelina Valente, Joyce Fitzgibbons, Camtron5000, Kadeeja Fredankey (and more). They will be joined by the stars of Peak Music studios including Jeff Moore, Derek Defreest, Julia Wocjik and Teagan Mann (and more).

The Albany School of the Berkshire Ballet and The World of Dance will also be performing at the event.

All told, nearly 100 performers will be hitting the stage in support of the event.

"Electric Sleighbells," the latest from Peak Music Studios will be performed at the event. Crafted in a whirlwind four-week creative frenzy, that was every bit as hectic as it sounds, this contemporary Christmas anthem will surely be an event highlight. The song was a collaboration with Alex Hengsterman, Jeff and Crystal Moore (co-owners of Peak Music Studios), and Tom Szalowski. The group wanted to write a song for the show that reflected a modern take on both the ups and downs of the holiday season. The ultimate message is that Christmas is about coming together with love.

Ticket prices are $27 for adults and $15 for children 12 and under. Seating will be general admission.

Tickets and information can be found at <https://buildingonlove.org/finding-christmas/>

This event will benefit Building on Love's Family Grant Program which provides funding to individuals/families facing a recent life-altering medical diagnosis. The program funds essential non-medical living expenses to approved grant recipients.

On Wednesday, December 20th at 6:30 we will gather at Hudson Shores Park and then proceed around the City of Watervliet with Santa in his sleigh. Several businesses, civic organizations, Police, Fire and even a few individual residents will join the parade with Santa. A route has been announced via social media and is also on the city's website. I have attached to this email the route.

The parade started in 2020 when covid put a damper on many social activities so a parade was suggested and has been part of our yearly activities that has been a highlight here in the city according to Mayor Patricelli. For more information, please contact Mayor Patricelli at 518-378-4051 or via this email address.

I have attached this link of a few photos from last years event. <https://photos.app.goo.gl/uXdKnCVRuSro3NcS6>

I want to thank all those that participated in the past and especially all those that helped me make this possible.

Hope everyone has a great Holiday and a Merry Christmas....
