

QUARTERLY ISSUES REPORT
WHYY-91FM

FOR THE PERIOD OF JANUARY 1, 2020 THROUGH MARCH 31, 2020

The license of station WHYY-91FM has determined that the following issues were of importance to the Delaware Valley community during the past three months and has aired the following programs to address these issues:

ARTS and CULTURE

The Pulse

February 7

60 Minutes

9:00 am

How Movies Move Us

Movies may not be real — but in a lot of ways, they're real to us. Great films help us understand the world, history, and one another. They have the ability to reach a level of truth that we feel in our bones.

The Why

March 12

60 Minutes

10:00 am

Why Philly's Jewish museum filed for bankruptcy

Philadelphia's National Museum of American Jewish History recently filed for bankruptcy. Here's what led to the museum's financial struggles and what this situation says about fundraising for other cultural institutions in the city.

The Why

March 18

60 Minutes

10:00 am

The Philly neighborhood trying to keep renters out

For a long time, Philadelphia was known for having a higher rate of home ownership than other major cities. But over the last decade, as people see the city more as an attractive place to live and development booms, the city has seen a big increase in the number of renters. However, there's one neighborhood in Northeast Philly trying especially hard to keep renters out.

Protest's living legacy: Why activists are still protesting five decades after MLK

AGRICULTURE AND ENVIRONMENT

Fresh Air

January 31

60 Minutes

1:30 pm

How A Heart Attack Brought Antonio Banderas Closer To 'Pain And Glory'

The Spanish actor has been nominated for an Oscar for his role as a screenwriter and director who has stopped working because of physical and emotional pain.

The Why*February 26*60 Minutes*10:00 am*What to do with Philly's polluted refinery site?

Last year, the oldest oil refinery in the country — Philadelphia Energy Solutions — shut down and declared bankruptcy. Now, it looks like the plant might be shut down for good.

HEALTH ISSUES*The Pulse*February 28*60 Minutes*9:00 am*The Anatomy of Sadness

Sadness seemingly comes out of nowhere sometimes: a song, a photo, a movie scene, a memory, and there it is. Your heart seems heavy. Tears well up in your eyes. What is happening in the brain when we feel sad? We delve into this complex emotion, and explore how we experience it, and how we deal with it.

Radio Times*Coronavirus*March 3*60 Minutes*10:00 am

The coronavirus is making many people uneasy – stores around the country have been cleaned out of hand sanitizers and masks. Over the weekend, two people in Washington state died from the virus. Cases have also been confirmed in New York, California, Rhode Island, and Florida, with a total of 91 illnesses in the U.S. Covid-19 has been reported in 50 countries, infecting almost 90,000 people. Although 3000 people have died of the illness, most people who contract it are expected to recover. But there's still a lot we don't know about the novel coronavirus, including how widely it will spread and how dangerous it will ultimately be.

The Pulse*March 12*60 Minutes*10:00 am*Recalling the past, in hopes of triggering better life in the present

Rineman develops programs here that help bring back old memories for people with dementia. This is all part of something known as reminiscence therapy. Town Square serves people with dementia and Alzheimer's — they come here to spend the day. And being here seems to "spark" memories for them.

The Why*March 26*60 Minutes*9:00 am*Pa. hospitals can't handle predicted surge of COVID-19 patients

Pennsylvania officials have sounded the alarm to "flatten the curve," but hospitals in Philadelphia and across the state likely won't be able to handle a predicted surge of coronavirus cases.

POLITICS

Radio Times

Battleground 2020: How Pennsylvania turned red

January 3

60 Minutes

11:00 am

Flashback to November 6, 2016 in Pennsylvania when Donald Trump captured the presidency besting Hillary Clinton by just 44,000 votes to become the first Republican to carry the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania since 1988. All this despite the fact that there are nearly a million more registered Democratic voters in the State. Today on Radio Times, we'll look back to the election of 2016 – how Trump managed to flip three counties that historically vote democratic and how low voter turnout in Philadelphia influenced the outcome.

NPR

Regional Roundup

February 3

90 Minutes

8:00 pm

NPR special coverage of the Iowa caucus results

Radio Times

Regional Roundup

March 23

60 Minutes

11:00 am

On this week's Regional Roundup; Congressman ANDY KIM of New Jersey's 3rd district will fill us in on what federal government is doing to mitigate the damage being done by the coronavirus pandemic, as well as what he's hearing from his constituents..