

Let's Talk Cincy

Episode #178

Air Date: 2/10/2024

Synopsis:

A Cincinnati teen tells his story of surviving a beating from a mob of other teens, while the mayor talks about efforts to reduce teen violence. Plus, exploring the reasons behind a rise in homelessness and what can be done to provide housing.

Seg 1

We hear from the victim of a teen mob attack in downtown Cincinnati. He talks about the attack and why he is not bitter.

The Cincinnati Mayor Aftab Pureval discusses the city's response to the rise in teen violence.

Seg. 2

We talk with a man who is fighting for his life. Elwood Jones was on death row for a murder committed in Blue Ash decades ago. He has always maintained his innocence. A judge recently threw out the conviction and now prosecutors are seeking a new trial.

Seg. 3

Homelessness is on the rise in Cincinnati. Advocates talked about their plans to provide more housing to people in Cincinnati.

Seg. 4

The son of Civil Rights legend Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. announces a new program in concert with the Cincinnati Reds.