SDPB AND SDHC PARTNER TO BRING MORE OF the GREAT American READ TO SOUTH DAKOTA

The Lovely Bones author Alice Sebold in Brookings

Alice Sebold, whose novel The Lovely Bones is featured on PBS's The Great American Read America's 100 Favorite Books List, will be at the South Dakota Festival of Books as part of SDPB's partnership with the South Dakota Humanities Council (SDHC).

At the Festival of Books, Sebold will speak to college students and participate in an evening keynote event, an on-stage conversation with Lori Walsh, host of SDPB's In the Moment, Friday, Sept. 21, in Brookings. See sdbookfestival.com for details.

Publishers Weekly called The Lovely Bones, "A small but far from minor miracle. Sebold has taken a grim, media-exploited subject and fashioned from it a story that is both tragic and full of light and grace. The description of the crime is chilling, but never vulgar, and Sebold maintains this delicate balance between homely and horrid as she depicts the progress of grief for Susie's family and friends." Published in 2002, the novel became an unprecedented international bestseller, with translations in over 45 languages and American sales alone of more than five million copies. The 2009 film version starred Rachel Weisz, Susan Sarandon and Stanley Tucci. The book was also featured in Oprah's Book Club and Indies Choice Book Award for Adult Fiction.

Books for Your Book Club

SDPB is also partnering with the SDHC to feature The Lovely Bones and two other titles from The Great American Read's 100 Favorite Books List as part of the SDHC's "Book Club to Go" program. For a $50 application fee, your book club can receive up to 30 copies of a title from the lending library, plus an SDHC scholar to lead a discussion. Go to SDHumanities.org/lending-library to apply. TGAR Book Club to Go titles include:

Americanah* by Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie (2013)

Ifemelu and Obinze are young and in love when they depart military-ruled Nigeria for the West. In America, accomplished and self-assured Ifemelu is forced to grapple with what it means to be black for the first time. With post-9/11 America closed to him, quiet, thoughtful Obinze plunges into a dangerous, undocumented life in London. Fifteen years later, they reunite in a newly democratic Nigeria, and reignite their passion—for each other and for their homeland.

The Book Thief* by Marcus Zusak (2007)

Foster girl Liesel Meminger scratches out a meager existence in Munich by stealing when she encounters something she can't resist—books. Her accordion-playing foster father teaches her to read as she shares her stolen books with neighbors during bombing raids and with the Jewish man hidden in her basement.

PBS's The Great American Read is a TV series and digital initiative about the power of books and the joy of reading told through the lens of America's 100 best-loved novels. View the list of America's 100 Favorite Books and vote for your favorite! See SDPB.org/GreatRead.

AT SOUTH DAKOTA'S SPECIAL RODEO

BY KATY BEEM

When Justin Tupper and his son Taylor returned to their ranch near St. Onge, SD, from the national high school rodeo competition four years back, along with their tack and horses, they brought back an idea. After Taylor competed in the saddle bronc events at the Sweetwater Events Complex in Rock Springs, Wyoming, he and his dad spontaneously volunteered alongside other high school rodeo athletes and families to show the rodeo ropes to kids with physical and developmental disabilities. What Justin experienced touched him deeply. “They brought folks in on buses from all over, and I was amazed by how many people there were and how the local kids reacted with them,” says Justin. “I told my son we better go check that out and see what it’s all about.” As another volunteer led, Justin and Taylor flanked an aspiring rider as his horse gently walked a barrel pattern. “The minute this young gentleman got on, he threw his hands in the air and it was just jubilee and happiness,” says Justin. “It brought new light to everyday living and the things we take for granted.”

Back in Belle Fourche, Justin put forth the idea of organizing a similar event to the Black Hills Roundup committee, which he chairs. “The Roundup tries to do different events that help the community,” says Justin. “This event was paramount to me, and I felt to do it right, we needed to pair with high school kids because what I saw back in Rock Springs was those high school kids getting as much out of it and more as the kids they were helping through the rodeo. I really believe that.”

The state high school rodeo community agreed, and carved time and space for the special rodeo to take place during the annual high school championships, held every June in Belle Fourche. Together with the Roundup committee, Justin reached out to SunCatchers Therapeutic Riding Academy, a Rapid City non-profit that provides equine activities for special needs individuals. SunCatchers provided the specially trained, gentle horses and saddles needed by riders with physical or developmental issues. In 2016, the first year Justin and company got the special rodeo up and running, the event attracted over 80 participants and Justin figures over 100 of the high school rodeo contestants worked side-by-side with them.

When Justin says “side-by-side,” it can be interpreted literally. One of his favorite experiences from the special rodeo’s first year involves high school volunteers taking his directions to heart. “I announced that pairs of high school kids needed to reach out to an individual and stay with them through the events,” says Justin. “One older lady decided she’d rather just sit and watch. Well, the rodeo kids sat right down with her and just stayed right there visiting with her until the rodeo was over. It’s amazing what we get from those kids.”

Rhonda Fuhrer has been with the special rodeo since its inception. Rhonda, who supervises Belle Fourche’s medical clinic, is mother to two riders: 15-year-old Lan, who’s been rodeoing since fifth grade, and 18-year-old Morgan. Rhonda knows intimately the joy riding can bring to people with limited mobility. “Morgan has cerebral palsy,” says Rhonda. “She doesn’t walk or talk and she’s completely dependent on us. Our family spends a lot of our time riding and practicing at an arena. We would put Morgan on a horse and she loved it. I think she feels like she’s doing what all the other kids are doing. Seeing how much she enjoys that, feeling like she’s a part of the group, made me want to let the other kids and adults experience that.”

In addition to roping and riding, the special rodeo includes a petting zoo, pictures with the rodeo queens, and a meal, all supplied by area sponsors and volunteers. After the events, each participant visits the prize table, which gleams with shiny belt buckles, trophies, and plaques – prizes won in rodeos past and donated by their recipients. “One of my favorite stories is when one year high-schooler Taylor Bothwell from Pierre was paired with an older gentleman,” says Rhonda. “She’d taken him around to all the different events, then to the awards table. He’s looking at the different buckles, then he looked at hers and said, ‘I like your buckle.’ Well, she took it right off and gave it to him. No hesitation.”

More volunteers and donors have signed on to help the special rodeo grow. A gift from a local bank enabled the building of a new, portable ramp that lifts limited-mobility riders up into the saddle. The event is free to all participants and organizers hope to engage more individuals and families, even helping with costs for travel. Nonetheless, severe staffing shortages at facilities for people with disabilities can hamper participation. Oahe Inc., a special needs organization in Pierre that has sent two busloads of participants since the special rodeo’s beginning won’t make it this year. “Unfortunately, they’re in a staffing crisis and don’t have the staff to get any of the residents here this year,” says Rhonda. “That’s probably been one of the biggest challenges,” says Justin. “With the amount of high school kids we have to volunteer, we can accommodate many more. We’ve been reaching out as far as Gillette. We really believe we have the resources to even reach more people.”

“People, they’re just so giving with this event,” says Rhonda. “I think it makes everyone feel good, so people want to be a part of it. People just show up that day and pitch in where we need help.”

For more information about the Black Hills Roundup Special Rodeo, contact Rhonda Fuhrer at 605-210-3267 or check out the Black Hills Roundup Special Rodeo Facebook page.

The special rodeo takes place each June during the South Dakota High School Rodeo Championships. Finals air Thursday, July 5, at 8pm (7 MT) and Sunday, July 8, at 1pm (noon MT) on SDPB1. ♡

SDPB ELECTION 2018

SDPB: Trusted, In-depth Election Coverage

The information you need to navigate the election season.

SDPB Radio's Meet the Candidates

We've invited every South Dakota legislative candidate for a conversation with SDPB Radio's Lori Walsh. Listen and learn each candidate's priorities for their terms in office as well as hopes and goals for South Dakota.

Political and Public Policy Beat Reports

Lee Strubinger focuses on the races for governor, U.S. House of Representatives, attorney general and ballot initiatives. Tune in to In the Moment weekdays 11am - 1pm (10-noon MT) for community conversations with the candidates and about issues leading up to the election.

SD Political Junkies

Wednesdays at noon (11am MT) on SDPB Radio

Discuss the latest political events and issues with South Dakota's journalists on Political Junkies. Each week, reporters and editors from South Dakota's media outlets delve behind the headlines with SDPB's Lori Walsh. Our Political Junkies include:

Denise Ross.

Jonathan Ellis, Reporter & Columnist, Sioux Falls Argus Leader

Dana Ferguson, Watchdog & Government Reporter, Sioux Falls Argus Leader

Jon Hunter, Publisher, Madison Daily Leader

Denise Ross, Editor, South Dakota Dashboard & Black Hills Knowledge Network

Seth Tupper, Enterprise Reporter, Rapid City Journal

Roger Whittle, Managing Editor, Watertown Public Opinion

JJ Perry, Executive Editor, Aberdeen American News

Noel Hamiel, Former state lawmaker and South Dakota Newspaper Hall of Fame member

Fact-based, Fact-checked Election Coverage

SDPB's news team dug into the details with fact-checked transcripts of our recent gubernatorial and house candidate debates.

Set in a carnival-esque, funhouse environment inspired by 1950s Coney Island-complete with bearded ladies, fire eaters, and a Ferris wheel, The Guardian said, "Everything comes with a nod and a wink. A less affecting Cosi is hard to imagine."

American ReFramed Farewell Ferris Wheel

Carnivals have a delightful place in the American imagination, with childhood memories of family fun, fantasy, and summer love. But rising expenses and changes in U.S. labor patterns mean this national pastime is nearly extinct. This intriguing documentary is an inside look at the struggle of an industry trying to stay alive by employing Mexican migrant workers with a controversial visa.

AfroPop: First Friday & American Ascent

Begin a musical journey in Oakland, CA, on First Friday. Thousands of people – rich and poor, young and old, black and white – gather in the streets of downtown. But after a teenager is murdered during the event, the future of First Fridays and the rebirth of Oakland itself is in peril. And on American Ascent, join the first African American expedition to tackle Denali, North America's highest peak. In June 2013, nine African Americans set out to build a legacy and become role models for inner city kids and people of color all over America.

Islands Without Cars

This new travel series takes a rare and whimsical look at life without cars, buses or trains. On small, remote and sparsely populated isles scattered throughout Europe, most of the inhabitants travel and transport goods by donkey, bicycle and other non-motorized vehicles. It may seem like a bygone era, but for some, it is a modern reality.

Staycation USA

Take a road trip through the U.S. and visit 10 Streets, 10 Monuments, and 10 Modern Marvels that transformed America.

10 That Changed America, hosted by Geoffrey Baer, explores the nation's built environment with new episodes and a website that reveal the fascinating and often untold stories behind America's streets, monuments and modern marvels.

10 Streets That Changed America

Discover how streets have connected the nation, divided communities, and changed the way Americans live, work, and shop. Trace Broadway's 400-year evolution: from Native American trail to Dutch trading route to the home of America's first public transit service and an electrically-lighted theater district known as the "Great White Way." This episode reveals how Broadway has become the poster child for the "complete streets" movement, in which automobiles take a back seat to more sustainable forms of transit. Ride from Boston to New York on the Boston Post Road, a dirt "highway" created for the nation's first mail carriers. Take America's oldest streetcar line out to some of the nation's first suburbs in New Orleans, and in Detroit drive a Model T along America's first mile of concrete-paved road. Explore a car-friendly street created by a 1920s entrepreneur who predicted that Los Angeles would be dominated by the automobile, and take a horse and carriage ride on a Brooklyn parkway built on the proposition that streets should be scenic. Streets featured are:

The National Road.

Lincoln Memorial, Washington, D.C.

10 Monuments That Changed America

Explore the stories behind ten American monuments and the historical moments that inspired them. Visit little-known locations like the Robert Gould Shaw and Massachusetts 54th Regiment Memorial, a sculptural masterpiece dedicated to one of the first African-American units to serve in the Civil War, and learn the surprising stories behind American icons like the Statue of Liberty, which was devised as a propaganda piece by French republican politicians. It's an episode full of epic battles fought over how to remember our past: from Maya Lin's controversial design for the Vietnam Veterans Memorial to the ongoing controversies over Confederate monuments across the South. The episode also uncovers pivotal moments in the evolution of American monuments when daring artists found new ways to honor our history.

10 Modern Marvels That Changed America

Celebrate those who have scoffed at the laws of nature and defied the naysayers — and sometimes even gravity — by undertaking these fantastic feats of engineering. Each story includes a fun physics lesson and a tale of human folly, beginning at the Erie Canal, a 363-mile long man-made waterway that was built in the 19th century by thousands of laborers using primitive hand tools. Learn how professional engineers connected our growing nation by building magnificent bridges, intricate rail networks, and a continent-wide system of freeways. Discover the extreme measures that engineers have taken to deliver water from distant rivers to our kitchen sinks. It's easy to take these modern marvels for granted with today's easy access to roads, bridges, and drinking water. But behind many of our daily conveniences was a clever engineer — and a remarkable story.

Lindy Lou: Juror #2

For 20 years, Lindy has lived with an unbearable feeling of guilt. Committed to fulfilling her civic duty, Lindy sat with 11 other people on a jury that handed down the death penalty to a Mississippi man convicted of a double homicide. An overwhelming feeling of regret compels Lindy to track down her fellow jurors. A conservative, religious woman from the South, Lindy manages to tackle this topic with humor, an open mind, and sincere curiosity.

Celebrate. Remember.

Vermillion commemorates its healthcare legacy through community art.

In the era of telecare and online consultations, we can take for granted health care was not always a call or click away. Before the construction of Vermillion's Dakota Hospital in 1935, residents of Clay and neighboring counties relied on a series of private hospitals in Vermillion, sometimes located in converted homes or hotels. Spearheaded by the Dakota Hospital Foundation, the formation of a three-story brick building was a modern medical marvel and a literal lifesaver for community members. The response to news that the building – where so many Vermillionites had been born, healed or passed away – would be demolished for the new Sanford Vermillion Medical Clinic was understandably mixed. “It really meant something for the folks that were here,” says Jerry Yurtzenka, Vermillion resident and associate professor in Biomedical Sciences at USD. “I look at it as sometimes you have to destroy those old icons in order to build and have a great facility.”

To commemorate the boosterism required to build the original building as well as the memories it housed, the Dakota Hospital Foundation turned to art. They commissioned sculptor and USD professor of art Christopher Meyer, who invited “over 150 community members of all various backgrounds, ages, shapes and sizes to model for hand models.” Assembly, the resulting bronze sculpture, now stands where Dakota Hospital tended residents for some 80 years.

The documentary Celebrate.

Remember: The Making of The Dakota Hospital Memorial Project captures the making of the sculpture.

Neutrino Day X

Live coverage from Lead, home of the U.S.'s largest particle physics experiment

Over the next 10 years, the Sanford Underground Research Facility (SURF) in Lead will expand the former Homestake Gold Mine to create the Long-Baseline Neutrino Facility (LBNF). The endeavor will require workers to remove over 870,000 tons of rock and erect a 70,000-ton neutrino detector. Once installed, the four-stories-high detector will receive a beam of neutrinos powered by DUNE, the Deep Underground Neutrino Experiment, from Fermilab in Batavia, Illinois, 800 miles through the Earth.

Christopher Mossey, Fermilab Deputy Director for the LBNF, is overseeing the project expansion. Mossey joins Cara Hetland on SDPB Radio's Innovation, broadcasting live from SURF's 4850 Level on Friday, July 13 at noon (11am MT) in conjunction with Neutrino Day X, the 10th annual science festival in Lead, SD. Learn how a venture of this scale is undertaken by hundreds of international and local scientists, technicians and workers.

SDPB broadcasts live from SURF underground lab.

Governor's 2018 Agricultural Summit

The Governor's Agriculture Summit is live from Rapid City on SDPB.org, starting at 1:45pm (2:45pm CT) July 11 and again at 8am (9am CT) July 12.

The Ag Summit brings together leaders in business, finance, education, government and production agriculture to discuss the ways agriculture impacts South Dakota.
