*What does it mean to be a South Dakotan?
Lori Walsh is excited to find out on SDPB Radio's new program.* by Katy Beem

What a difference a year makes. When Lori Walsh signed on some twelve months ago as host of SDPB Radio's Dakota Midday, few could have foreseen the events that would make 2016 a banner year for big news stories, not the least of which included (at the time of this writing) a turbulent election of a new U. S. president, newly re-elected Representative Kristi Noem's announced bid for the South Dakota gubernatorial seat in 2018, and the Army Corp of Engineer's halt to Dakota Access Pipeline construction after months of protest by Native activists. To quote a Carpenters' classic, we've only just begun.

But behind the headlines, hundreds of everyday news items and individual stories from South Dakota's 66 counties also abound. For Walsh, it's essential that all of South Dakota's stories, both headlines and supposed sidebars, are told. It's why she's thrilled at the opportunity at hand as SDPB Radio weekdays grow with the two-hour news magazine In the Moment. "I'm honored and excited," says Walsh. "We'll include increased news coverage from a team of beat reporters from throughout the state. We'll find all those stories that are happening out there every day that nobody gets a chance to hear. Listeners will get the in-depth news coverage they already expect from SDPB and then those deep, rich stories."

Lori shares more about what we can expect:

How would you describe the mission of In the Moment?

LW: "To tell what it means to be a South Dakotan – what our lives are like, what our communities are like, what it's like to be educated here, to be creative here, to work and live and raise a family in this place."

How are you feeling about the changes SDPB Radio is undertaking?

LW: "When I was hired, I knew I was I coming into a fabulous team with the best journalists and storytellers in the state. What I didn't know was what was ahead – that after a year from arriving, this door would open and we would have this opportunity. I'm thrilled, excited and humbled by the amount of work that's ahead. I'm walking in with an open mind, heart, and ears to what people want to bring to the table. We should talk about Owen DeJong. Classical music is still really going to be a part of In the Moment. We have a great relationship with the South Dakota Symphony Orchestra. They have some incredible stories that I've already talked with them about that we're going to bring to you. They're going to come into the studio with the quintets and play for us. We'll hear soloists and we will very much still cover what classical music is happening in the state, because Owen's legacy really mandates that. You can't turn away from that after what Owen did for SDPB listeners. I am honored to have been able to know him and work side-by-side with him and we will carry that mantle forward."

You're the on-air host, but so much goes on behind the scenes. Tell us about the team approach to the program.

LW: "You don't put two hours of radio on every day, five days a week, without a huge group of people behind you. We've got producers Steve Zwemke and Chris Laughery, Radio Director Cara Hetland as our executive producer, and our radio reporters. But folks from SDPB TV are coming to tell listeners what they're doing in their world that maybe went under the radar before. Our sports team is going to show up for us in a great way. All those people are going to come together in this one show. It's not me, it's this whole enormous team, and that's the thing that I'm probably most excited about – it's the highest journalistic integrity that you already expect from SDPB and it's world-class radio storytelling."

What is it about the public media model that lends itself so well to In the Moment? How is public media able to have greater impact?

LW: "First, we're supported so strongly by the listeners and viewers of SDPB. No one else has that. We're supported by the people who live here. They're sending us their ideas, they're calling after the shows saying 'I love that! Do you know this person from this town?' They're sending me emails on a weekly or even daily basis. I'm getting emails from listeners who say 'I'm curious about why I don't have any bumble bees in my garden this year. Can you look into that?' And next we're talking about the environment and science, we're talking about just all those issues that matter. It's the time and thoughtfulness that we can bring to the conversation that we don't really see anywhere else. Since the first day I came here I noticed the thoughtful conversations that we have even in staff meetings around the table. We never have easy answers about our coverage – it's always complex, thoughtful and even gets a little philosophical. Although we provide news, we also ask – why does this matter? We have the time and time is such a resource that is underappreciated right now. So what makes public broadcasting special? I think it's that listener and viewer support, it is people reaching out to us and us connecting with them."

Tell us a little bit about some of the arts, culture and music programming that will be part of In the Moment.

LW: "This is something I'm hugely excited about. We have Steve Zwemke on our team and he knows more about the South Dakota music scene than anybody I've met before. He's already setting up guests to come and play live music. He's reaching out to musicians and having them bring their art to us. I love authors, writers and poets, so I'm reaching out already to get these people to come in. I think we're in a literary renaissance in this state with our local nonfiction authors, fiction authors and our poets. We're hoping to get all those voices in a way that I don't think other states are even doing. We'll have visual artists and dancers, we'll go on Facebook Live and folks will be able to follow us online as it happens 'in that moment.' That's just going to be a lot of fun to own that. A lot of things are happening in this state that are going unnoticed and stories are going untold. So we'll get to hear some of those great writers and great musicians share their art."

When listeners tune in, what will they hear?

LW: "They are going to hear radio that they don't want to switch off. They'll hear the stories that are so compelling, so smart, so interesting that they cannot turn away. They are going to hear something about the state that they didn't know. They'll hear their own stories. They'll hear the news and information from our amazing staff of reporters, like SDPB's political reporter in Pierre telling them who the lawmakers are that are changing things.

Listeners will hear stories that feel inevitable in the sense that they knew this was what was true about living here, but they needed somebody else to articulate it for them. We'll discuss what's relevant. Even when we talk about South Dakota history, there's a reason that we're talking about it right now. In the Moment also means that we're present here with you. It's not about the distractions – it's an uncluttered public broadcasting environment. It's that we have the time to tell this story right now, we have the time to connect with each other right now, we're going to take the time to be together as a state, as a community, to ask some of those questions. And it's not always about giving you the answer and asking the next question. It's to put everything in context and give you something to think about. I don't expect you to come away from every In the Moment segment knowing how you feel about something, but I hope that people come away with more questions about how this all fits into their lives and what they can do next. I want to hear from people, I want to hear what they want to hear and we're getting that feedback already, and I'm excited for even more of that to come."

In the Moment airs 11am-1pm (10am-Noon MT), Monday through Friday, beginning Monday, January 2 on SDPB Radio. ♡

A feat of engineering symbolizing “the summit of power,” Adolf Hitler’s “Eagle’s Nest” (Kehlsteinhaus), is perched atop the rocky mountain of Kehlstein. A grand teahouse for diplomats featuring a golden brass elevator buried in the heart of the mountain, the building itself was a project of Nazi Party leader Martin Bormann and given to Adolf Hitler for his 50th birthday. The Eagle’s Nest remained unscathed from the bombing of the Allied Forces during WWII and since 1952 has been open to the public as a mountain top restaurant. Explore the architectural history of a structure whose grandiosity mirrored Hitler’s evil quest for world domination on Nazi Mega Weapons: The Eagle’s Nest.

A cautionary tale of freak accidents, near misses, human fallibility, and extraordinary heroism, American Experience Command and Control exposes the terrifying truth about the management of America’s nuclear arsenal and shows what can happen when the weapons built to protect us threaten to destroy us. The film recounts, in chilling, minute-by-minute detail, the story of a deadly 1980 accident at a Titan II missile complex in Damascus, Arkansas. Through the first-person accounts of Air Force personnel, weapon designers and first responders who were on the scene, the film reveals the unlikely chain of events that caused the accident and the feverish efforts to prevent the explosion of a ballistic missile carrying the most powerful nuclear warhead ever built by the United States — 600 times more powerful than the bomb that destroyed Hiroshima.

Five years after the earthquake and tsunami that triggered the unprecedented trio of meltdowns at the Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant, scientists and engineers are struggling to control an ongoing crisis at the wrecked plant. What's next for Fukushima? What's next for Japan? And what's next for a world that seems determined to jettison one of our most important carbon-free sources of energy? Despite the catastrophe, a new generation of nuclear power seems poised to emerge phoenix-like from the ashes of Fukushima. NOVA The Nuclear Option investigates how the realities of climate change, the inherent limitations of renewable energy sources, and the optimism and enthusiasm of a new generation of nuclear engineers is seeding a renaissance in nuclear technology, all while the most recent disaster is still being managed. What are the lessons learned from Fukushima? And how might we be able to build a safe nuclear future?

A special two-part presentation, Frontline Divided States of America investigates the deep political divisions and bitter polarization that grew during the Obama presidency. Part One examines how President Obama's promise of change and unity collided with racial and political realities. Part Two surveys racial tensions in America, the war for control of the GOP, and the growing dysfunction in Washington.

Sherlock: The Smart Detective Drama Returns

Promising laughter, tears, shocks, surprises and extraordinary cases, Masterpiece Mystery debuts its fourth gripping 3-episode season of Sherlock. The mercurial detective Holmes (Benedict Cumberbatch) returns as Dr. Watson (Martin Freeman) and his wife (Freeman's real life spouse Amanda Abbington) prepare for their biggest ever challenge – parenthood. Toby Jones (Capote, Detectorists) joins the cast – but whether as a classic Doyle villain or mythical elder brother Sherrinford Holmes remains a closely guarded set secret.

Victoria: Queen of Sunday Nights

Masterpiece's Latest Crowning Achievement Comes to SDPB

In the much-anticipated new series from Masterpiece, actress Jenna Coleman (Doctor Who) stars as the young Queen Victoria at the outset of her epic reign, which set the stage for an entire era that would be named in her honor. Scripted by bestselling novelist Daisy Goodwin (The Fortune Hunter), Victoria airs in seven magnificent parts, beginning Sunday, January 15, 8pm (7 MT) on SDPB1.

Following Victoria from her accession to the throne at age 18, through her education in politics, courtship and marriage, Victoria paints a compelling portrait of a monarch who was raised to be the pawn of her powerful elders but who wasted no time in showing the empire who was in charge. The stellar cast includes Rufus Sewell (The Man in the High Castle) as Lord Melbourne, the British prime minister who was Victoria's father figure and intimate friend, and Tom Hughes (Dancing on the Edge) as the handsome, brilliant and awkward Prince Albert, who stole Victoria's heart after a rocky start.

In Victoria, writer Daisy Goodwin imaginatively depicts what it was like for an ill-educated, emotionally deprived teenager to wake one morning to find she is the most powerful woman in the world.

Victoria was made queen only by virtue of ill luck and unfruitful marriages on the part of her uncles, who failed to produce legitimate heirs to the crown. Her immediate predecessors were so disliked as kings that the institution of the monarchy seemed to be doomed. Victoria charts how the new ruler rose to the challenge and weathered a series of crises—some of her own making—without ever losing her youthful charm and innate sense of justice, which made her popular with her subjects.

Goodwin has been careful to stay faithful to facts, while reading between the lines to fill in the gaps where early Victorians were scrupulously silent. The result is a gripping historical pageant that reveals a side of Victoria that is at odds with her later reputation for prudery and high moral tone. In other words, Victoria was not a Victorian as we use the term. Famous for her candor and spirit, she was the first woman who seemed to have it all: a passionate marriage, nine children and the job of being queen of the world's most powerful nation. Her often tumultuous reign lasted for 63 years.

SDPB1: Sundays, Jan. 15, 22 & 29, 8pm (7 MT)

Based on Doug Most's acclaimed non-fiction book, American Experience: The Race Underground tells the story of how Boston and New York, two great rival cities,—spurred on by two rival brothers—battled through dirty politics, solved engineering challenges, and ultimately built America's first two subways, epic projects completed just a few years apart.

SDPB at Lakota Nation Invitational

SDPB Educational Specialist Steven Rokusek was on-hand at the Lakota Nation Invitational, Dec. 17-19 in Rapid City. Rokusek presented sessions targeted for educators attending the LNI Educational Conference. He also provided resources highlighting SDPB's science, mathematics, social science and language arts resources. SDPB's participation in LNI is made possible, in part, by a grant from the John T. Vucurevich Foundation.

SDPB's Steve Rokusek presented sessions for educators at LNI.

An educator learns about "Winter Counts" – pictorial calendars or histories used by Plains Indians to record tribal events.

Michael Goodroad: New Friends Board Member

Michael Goodroad.

The Friends of SDPB is pleased to welcome Michael Goodroad of Rapid City to our Board of Directors.

Goodroad has served as Director of Radio Sales for the former Rushmore Media Company, now the Homeslice Media Group, in Rapid City for 19 years and is the former president of the Rapid City Arts Council. He studied at Union Theological Seminary in New York City and has worked for the Methadone Maintenance Program at Bronx State Hospital and in mental health counseling in the North Beach area of San Francisco.

Goodroad directed the South Dakota Tie-Line Program, a program connecting people to services and resources, as well as the Information and Referral Program in Los Angeles County. He has served as a board member of the Black Hills Playhouse and as a commissioner for the Rapid City Human Rights Commission.

An avid traveler, Goodroad has visited India on a Fulbright Scholarship, Nepal, Turkey, Greece, Thailand, Peru, England, Italy, Morocco, Mexico, Guatemala, Belize and other countries. A jazz enthusiast, Goodroad hosted a Jazz radio program for 12 years on a Black Hills commercial radio station.

SDPB Radio Debuts On Point with Tom Ashbrook

Tom Ashbrook talks arts, culture, news, technology and more as he hosts On Point.

Featuring a diversity of guests calling in from around the country, On Point with Tom Ashbrook debuts on SDPB Radio Monday, January 2. On Point is a nationally-syndicated two-hour call-in program that addresses news issues, as well as arts, culture, technology, health, and business topics.

A sound-rich discussion program that “values what America is thinking,” On Point has been positively received in over 300 NPR member radio markets, getting high points for reinventing the talk show format by seeking out a breadth of callers from a variety of backgrounds and, in host Ashbrook’s words, “being a connective tissue for all of America.”

On Point debuted on Boston’s WBUR in the aftermath of 9/11. Prior to hosting On Point, award-winning journalist Tom Ashbrook spent a decade as a foreign correspondent in India, Hong Kong, and Tokyo.

During the late 1980s Ashbrook became foreign editor for The Boston Globe. Jack Beatty, a writer and senior editor at The Atlantic, is a news analyst for On Point.

On Point airs 9am-11am (8am-10am MT) Monday through Friday beginning Monday, January 2, on SDPB Radio.

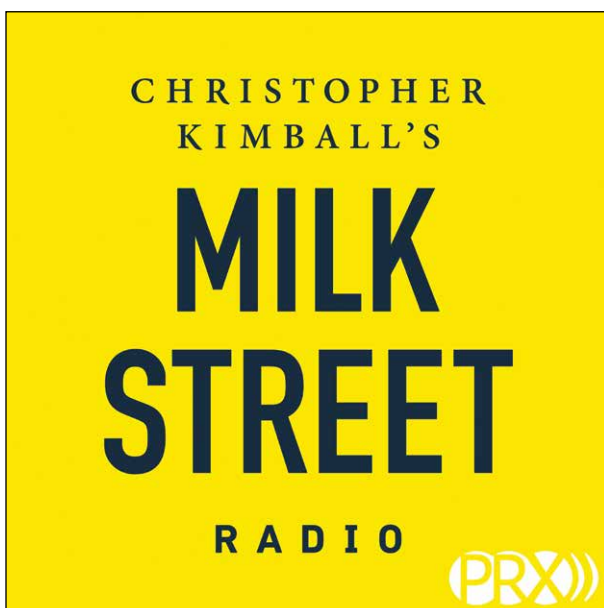

To join the conversation on the air, call On Point’s toll-free number 1-800-423-8255 during a live broadcast.

All Things Considered

South Dakotans will receive more local and national news as NPR’s All Things Considered expands with an earlier start time. Starting Monday, January 2, SDPB Radio airs an additional hour of All Things Considered, which will broadcast from 3pm-6:30pm (2pm-5:30pm MT) Monday through Friday.

Learn to Draw with Dick Termes

With major funding from Rapid City-based John T. Vucurevich Foundation, Art Basics with Dick Termes premieres online Monday, Jan. 23 on SDPB.org.

Art Basics with Dick Termes: Drawing is the first in a video series featuring art lessons from internationally acclaimed artist Dick Termes. Termes is best known for his “Termespheres” – large, colorful spheres painted in six-point perspective that rotate to produce the illusion of perfect proportion. The new video series is designed specifically for beginning artists of all ages and was filmed on-location at the Termesphere Gallery, Termes’ geodesic dome studio in Spearfish.

If you’re in the area, join us for a special premiere party at Meier Recital Hall on the BHSU campus in Spearfish on Tuesday, Jan. 24 — reception at 6:30pm and program at 7:00pm. Open to the public.

Watch SDPB Magazine for an upcoming interview with Dick Termes about art and learning.

Enjoy a Rockin’ Night Out with SDPB

International hair metal heroes Joel Hoekstra and Brandon Gibbs team up to rock out live at ICON Lounge in Sioux Falls and you can be front-row center for SDPB’s live television recording of the performance for No Cover, No Minimum on SDPB-TV. Local favorites 35th & Taylor also perform.

New York guitarist Hoekstra plays with White Snake (who recorded 80s smash hit “Here I Go Again”), Trans Siberian Orchestra, and Night Ranger. Vocalist and guitarist Brandon Gibbs tours with Cheap Thrills, Poison, and is part of rock supergroup Devil City Angels along with Rick Rockett (Poison), Eric Brittingham (Cinderella), and Tracii Guns (LA Guns). Hoekstra and Gibbs tour together and with Monsters of Rock.

35th & Taylor is lead singer Anna Taylor, Evan Kaler, Jack Osborn, and Max Miller. Hailing from the Sioux City and Dakota Dunes area, the group cites its musical influences as the Black Keys, White Stripes, Grace Potter, and Joss Stone.

Get in on the fun, Saturday, Jan. 21st at ICON Lounge.

Information is available at iconsioxfalls.com.

Over-the-Air SDPB TV Reception

Whether you're cutting the cord to save money or to cut back on media consumption, a traditional over-the-air TV antenna may be your best option to receive SDPB. With the addition of SDPB Kids on January 16, SDPB will offer 4 channels free, over-the-air. Here are some antenna tips for getting the best reception possible.

Tip 1. Modern HDTV's can connect to antennas.

Today's top-of-the-line televisions can be hooked up to over-the-air antennas so you can receive the best local programming has to offer. It's as simple as connecting the proper antenna, selecting the "Antenna" or "TV" input source on the set, and tuning your antenna for best reception.

Tip 2. Perform a channel scan.

If you already have an antenna or converter-box you should occasionally perform a channel scan or ("re-scan.") By properly orienting your antenna and performing a channel scan you'll be assured that you are receiving all of the signals that are broadcast in your area.

Tip 3. Locate station and signal strength.

Visit www.AntennaWeb.org, run by The Consumer Technology Association and the National Association of Broadcasters. Here you can type in your home address to generate a list and map of stations predicted to be received in your area. Along with the stations and map, the stations are color-coded to show the type of antenna needed to receive them. The best direction to aim the antenna for optimal reception is also included.

Tip 4. Not all antennae are created equal.

The type of antenna you need depends not only on your physical proximity to the signal, but also the terrain and other interference-producing obstacles, like trees and buildings. If you receive a strong signal from area broadcasters, a small, indoor, top-of-set antenna will typically suffice. If you are farther away from broadcast towers or have terrain interference, antenna height is a concern. Sometimes mounting an antenna in the attic will suffice. However, you might have to consider a rooftop-mounted antenna with an amplifier for distant signals. Do your homework before you go antenna shopping.

Tip 5. Choose the best of both worlds.

Cable and satellite subscribers can still set up antenna to receive free, over-the-air programming offered on multiple channels by SDPB and commercial broadcasters. In fact, because your over-the-air signal isn't as compressed, the picture is more vivid and an antenna is a terrific back-up if service is interrupted.

Tip 6. Contact an SDPB reception expert.

SDPB staff can work with you to help resolve some issues. We're available weekdays from 9:00am to 5:00pm CT / 8:00am to 4:00pm MT. The telephone number is (800) 456-0766. We do not make on-site service calls, but we may be able to answer your questions about antennas and over-the-air reception. We also encourage you to visit local retailers who are equipped to answer questions about television antennas.

For more information about antennas and over-the-air reception, visit SDPB.org/CuttingTheCord.

Tune in SDPB Classical

SDPB continues its commitment to classical music with SDPB Classical – our digital broadcast signal. While SDPB Classical is not available on an analog signal, you can tune in to SDPB Classical three ways:

- On SDPB Radio HD Channel 2, with your HD radio. HD radio is a regular, table-top radio that receives both analog and digital broadcasts.
  - Online at listen.SDPB.org/listen-now
  - On your device with the SDPB app. Download the app at SDPB.org/app
- For more information, visit SDPB.org/Classical.

Focus: Government, Media, and Mental Health & Criminal Justice

This month South Dakota Focus looks at the 2017 legislative season, social media, and the issue of incarceration and mental illness in South Dakota.

Join host Stephanie Rissler live from the State Capitol in Pierre where she's joined by state legislative leaders to discuss the 2017 lawmaking session, Thursday, Jan. 12.

Next, how social media savvy are you? Social media has changed the way we shop, communicate, and get our news. It's widely known social media giants watch and analyze our every click, "like," or "dislike" to handfeed us advertisements, app suggestions and more. But lately, Facebook, Twitter and other social media giants have taken criticism for suppressing news stories and even proliferating "fake news." Social media experts join South Dakota Focus to discuss the hidden and not-so-hidden agendas behind sharing and click-baiting. Before you take that next online quiz, "like" a page or Google a potential purchase, tune in to our social media discussion, Thursday, Jan. 19.

And we'll discuss a report filed last fall from the Task Force on Community Justice and Mental Health. The creation of the 22-member task force was spearheaded by South Dakota Supreme Court Chief Justice David Gilbertson, after Gilbertson became aware of the tripling of the number, between 2013 and 2015, of incarcerated people in South Dakota who were unable to move forward in the criminal justice process due to a lack of mental competence in understanding the process and criminal charges. We'll examine the task force's work and recommendations for legislation that they hope will address the problems on Thursday, Jan. 26.

South Dakota Focus airs live Thursdays in January at 8pm (7 MT) on SDPB1.

SDPB will broadcast the presidential inauguration live from the West Lawn of the U.S. Capitol on Friday, January 20 at 10am CT (9 MT).

Dakota Life: Fun & Play

Harlan Van Meetern in his Harrisburg workshop.

This January, Dakota Life returns to look at ways we play in South Dakota.

We venture to Wakonda, SD to visit Girard Auction & Land Brokers, Inc. Girard's is one of the biggest Midwest auctioneers of rare and vintage pedal cars and toy tractors from International Harvester and Allis Chalmers. We'll examine the widespread appeal of vintage toy collecting and learn how Girard's has become a major-league player from its location in a small town in southeastern South Dakota.

Next we travel a short distance north to Harrisburg, SD to discover Harlan Van Meetern's workshop. An electrician by trade, Van Meetern's resourcefulness and creativity turn wire, aluminum, wood, couple bearings and other materials into miniature mechanized farm toys like hay rakes and tractors.

And we'll boldly go where few ice skaters have gone before, as SDPB's Charles Michael Ray takes us skating through wintry Black Hills canyons via miles of frozen streams.

The latest fun-filled episode of Dakota Life premieres Thursday, Jan. 5 at 8pm (7 MT) and Sunday, Jan. 8 at 1pm (Noon MT).

Gwen Ifill, Pioneering Journalist and PBS NewsHour Co-anchor, Dies at 61

Gwen Ifill.

Gwen Ifill, host of PBS NewsHour passed away Nov. 14, 2016 in hospice following several months of treatment for endometrial cancer.

"Gwen was a standard bearer for courage, fairness and integrity in an industry going through seismic change," said Sara Just, PBS NewsHour executive director. "She was a mentor to so many across the industry and her professionalism was respected across the political spectrum. She was a journalist's journalist and set an example for all around her."

And from her co-anchor, Judy Woodruff: "She was not only my dear friend, she was the best partner one can imagine, because she was committed to fairness and to the finest in journalism. You always knew when working with Gwen that she had your back. I'm crushed that she won't be sitting by my side on the NewsHour any more, but her mark on this program and on American journalism will endure."

Gwen covered eight presidential campaigns, moderated two vice-presidential debates and served for 17 years on PBS NewsHour and as moderator and managing editor of Washington Week. In her early career, she covered politics and city hall for some of the country's most prominent newspapers, including The New York Times, The Washington Post and The Baltimore Evening Sun, carving a path as one of the most accomplished journalists in U.S. media. She won countless awards, including the George Foster Peabody Award and the National Press Club's Fourth Estate Award, and was the best-selling author of The Breakthrough: Politics and Race in the Age of Obama.

"When I was a little girl watching programs like [PBS NewsHour] — because that's the kind of nerdy family we were — I would look up and not see anyone who looked like me in any way," Ifill told The New York Times in 2013. "No women. No people of color ... I'm very keen about the fact that a little girl now, watching the news, when they see me and Judy sitting side by side, it will occur to them that that's perfectly normal — that it won't seem like any big breakthrough at all."

In a media landscape often dominated by pundit-heavy cable news, Ifill's understated delivery provided viewers with a rare dose of calm and steadiness.

"Shouting is a good way to foment conflict, but it's not the best way to inform," she said in a 1999 interview.

Farewell and Grazie, Maestro

Owen DeJong.

Musical guests, friends of SDPB, and friends and family gathered to honor Owen DeJong as he retired from 20 years as host of Morning Classics on SDPB. Great Performances Bel Canto The Opera dramatizes the story of the 1996 Japanese hostage crisis in Lima, Peru.

Throughout January, Great Performances presents programs that transport you via the universal language of music.

Great Performances Bel Canto The Opera

SDPB1: Friday, Jan. 13, 10pm (9 MT)

The Lyric Opera of Chicago's opera adaptation of Ann Patchett's best-selling novel Bel Canto, a gripping contemporary story inspired by the 1996 Japanese Embassy hostage crisis in Lima, Peru. Curated by Renée Fleming, Lyric's creative consultant, the production features a score by the remarkable, young Peruvian composer Jimmy López and a libretto by Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright Nilo Cruz. The work dramatizes the tensions and unexpected alliances that form between the terrorists and their hostages. Australian-born American soprano Danielle de Niese portrays the story's central figure, the fictional soprano Roxanne Coss, under the baton of Lyric music director Sir Andrew Davis, with direction by Kevin Newbury.

Landmarks Live

Landmarks Live is a new popular music series that follows a major artist or band as they visit landmark locations, relive (or experience for the first time) landmark moments, and throw fans a one-of-a-kind landmark show. Hosted by Chad Smith from the Red Hot Chili Peppers, each episode presents an artist or band performing at a legendary destination of personal significance, and include interview and documentary footage of the featured artist.

Alicia Keys

SDPB1: Friday, Jan. 20, 10pm (9 MT)

Landmarks Live premieres with Alicia Keys. A native New Yorker from Hell's Kitchen and Grammy Award-winning artist, Keys' collaboration with Jay Z, "Empire State of Mind," automatically became the New York's newest anthem. In this special recorded over a one-year period, Alicia's love affair with New York continues as she performs in notable locations all around town including the world famous Circle Line harbor tour, the Unisphere in Queens, and Harlem's Apollo Theater.

Brad Paisley

SDPB1: Friday, Jan. 27, 10pm (9 MT)

Country music superstar Brad Paisley returns to his roots in the beautiful Appalachian Mountains for a special outdoor concert at West Virginia University. As the hit-maker behind 23 number one singles and the winner of just about every Country music award imaginable, Brad brings his unique skills as a singer songwriter, guitarist and entertainer back to his home state as well as to viewers everywhere.
