Happy August, readers!

We are very excited about this month's issue. On pages 4 & 5 we feature an article about Calvin Coolidge and how his visit to our beautiful state forged the tourism scene we have grown to love. Enjoy community updates on our Keeping It Local pages found on 8 & 9, browse through classic and new programming on pages 14-19, and as always, we have tons of good content in between.

The 605 Drive, SDPB's Summer Membership event, is here! We'll be airing regular programming on our main channel alongside your favorite pledge specials. Pre-drive programming consists of finales of Grantchester and The Great American Recipe that you won't want to miss. Catch Doc Martin, Midsomer Murders, and Us on Masterpiece, which will remain in their regularly scheduled timeslots, and Nature: American Horses on Wednesday, 8/16 at 7pm. Finally, on Create, you won't miss any of your regularly scheduled favorites. It's shaping up to be an exciting month!

We are working on many projects throughout this summer, like new programming, radio content, and projects that we cannot wait to share with you! Please enjoy this issue, specially curated with our readers in mind, and have a wonderful month.

"President Coolidge admired the United States of America, our founding principles, and our nation's work ethic. He knew that there was something fundamentally different about our country that sets us apart – and he found much of that in South Dakota. Though this great leader isn't featured on Mount Rushmore, he is one of the biggest reasons why we're able to enjoy this monument today. I am humbled to be able to help honor his legacy."

–GOVERNOR OF SD, KRISTI NOEM

COOLIDGE IN SOUTH DAKOTA

South Dakota is chock-full of destinations that are a must-see for visitors and residents. National parks and monuments scatter the state from the Badlands to the Black Hills. Who is to thank for this? If we were going to associate a president with the state, we might think of the four busts that stand tall at Mount Rushmore before we think of the 30th president of the United States, Calvin Coolidge. This president not only spent a summer in South Dakota but paved the tourism path we have come to love about our beautiful state.

Known as "Silent Cal," Calvin Coolidge became president of the United States on August 3, 1923, after President Warren Harding died of a heart attack. Coolidge spent most of his term in the White House, maintaining the status quo of America. During his final summer as president, Coolidge visited the Black Hills of South Dakota, where his three-week trip turned into a three-month vacation.

Notably, in 1924, Coolidge signed the Indian Citizenship Act granting citizenship to all Native Americans. His Interior Department also authorized the Brookings Institution to conduct exhaustive surveys of federal programs for Native Americans.

During his final summer as president in 1927, he vacationed in the Black Hills of South Dakota, staying in Custer State Park at the State Game Lodge. When he arrived, the people of South Dakota gifted him a horse, a wide-brimmed Western hat, and boots. His wife, Grace Coolidge, spent her time knitting while Calvin spent his time fishing. Coolidge wasn't a natural-born fisherman, so the governor saw that fish from a local hatchery would be added to the ponds to help Coolidge enjoy his stay. One of the ponds is named Grace Coolidge Creek, after the First Lady.

Seth Tupper, a former employee of SDPB and author of Calvin Coolidge in the Black Hills, explains how strange this trip was for a president. "It was just a unique chapter of South Dakota history that a lot of people don't know about. It'll probably never happen again. It was something that was incredibly unique and quirky in sort of a fun way."

The Coolidge's had the time of their lives in South Dakota, and despite not being from the state, they fit in. Amity Shlaes, Chairman of the Board of the Coolidge Foundation and Coolidge biographer, shares, "He had an agricultural personality. He was an attorney, but he'd spent quite a bit of time in an agriculture place. So, he understood the way of life there and the attributes and habits. One habit is being a little low-key, perhaps under-promising and over-delivering, not bragging, which is very important."

Amity continues to say there was almost a recognition when he stepped off the train. "Imagine the train pulls up in Rapid City or Pierre, and the crowd is there, and they recognize each other. It's been said, I wrote that in my book, but I've heard others say it, that the South Dakotans said, 'Oh, this is familiar,' and so did the Coolidges."

While there, President Coolidge met with representatives from the Rosebud Indian Reservation and was presented with a Native American headdress. He was also given the honorary title of Wamble-To-Ka-Ha or "Chief Leading Eagle."

Coolidge worked out of the Rapid City high school in the summer of 1927. On August 2, Coolidge issued his famous statement to reporters on individual pieces of paper, stating, "I do not choose to run for president in 1928." Amity states this was not the standard action, saying, "It's a very lonely decision and feels perverse nowadays. It would be extremely perverse in politics not to run again when you could."

Coolidge makes his way on horseback to the dedication of Mount Rushmore Memorial in August 1927.

Locals presented Coolidge with a large-brimmed Western hat and outfit as a gift.

Fishing for trout in Grace Coolidge Creek.

On August 10, Coolidge was invited to give a speech at the dedication ceremony for Mount Rushmore. During the ceremony, he gifted six drill bits to the artist who would start the project, Gutzon Borglum. Coolidge signed an appropriation bill for the building of Mount Rushmore as one of his final acts of presidency.

Seth explains how Coolidge's stay started South Dakota tourism. "He was his presence in the Black Hills, and his pledge of support for federal funding for Mount Rushmore helped get Mount Rushmore going. Mount Rushmore then became the linchpin of the entire Black Hills tourism industry. That was also a time when automobiles were becoming popular and spreading throughout the country, and this whole idea of jumping in your car and taking a road trip touring the country was a thing that was just getting started. So, having a president in the Black Hills every day for three months and having newspapers across the country running stories about how the president was fishing, sightseeing, and visiting all the beautiful things in the Black Hills, that was publicity that you couldn't buy."

We hope you will take advantage of the many resources available to learn about Coolidge and his impact on our iconic state. Destinations like the Rapid City high school and State Game Lodge are open for the public to start your journey learning about Coolidge. A book by previous SDPB employee Seth Tupper, Calvin Coolidge in the Black Hills, is available for an in-depth timeline of his summer in South Dakota. Additionally, you can visit coolidgefoundation.org to experience the history of Calvin Coolidge from start to finish. Chairman and biographer Amity Shlaes has written a biography titled Coolidge, which can be found on the website along with Calvin Coolidge's autobiography.

Lastly, tune in to SDPB1 on Thursday, August 3 at 8pm Central (7 MT) for the first of a handful of viewings of the documentary Coolidge: Rediscovering an American President.

"He [Coolidge] was doing South Dakota a favor by choosing to put the national spotlight on the state and encouraging people to begin to drive to South Dakota for a vacation or for tourism."

NATIONAL PROGRAMMING HIGHLIGHTS

Iconic America The Golden Gate Bridge

In this documentary series, David Rubenstein explores America's 400-year history through a close examination of iconic national symbols. Each episode tells the story of an American symbol to reveal its origins, significance, and the arc of its resonance. Explore the story behind this engineering marvel that symbolizes America's can-do spirit.

SDPB1: Tuesday, August, 2, 9pm (8 MT)

Great American Recipe Season 2 Finale

Join host Alejandra Ramos and judges Leah Cohen, Tiffany Derry, and Graham Elliot as they gather one last time with the three remaining home cooks, ready for the grand finale feast. In the final round, their challenge is to prepare an entire meal that represents their Great American Recipe. Who will be named the winner?

SDPB1: Monday, August 7, 8pm (7 MT)

Pig Little Lies

Pig Little Lies is a light-hearted documentary that follows the incredible journey of two rescued pigs, exposing the truth behind the misleading representation of potbellied pigs as micropigs. Through their story, the film showcases what happens after the pigs are saved from a shelter and discusses the breeders' deceptive practices, as these once-cherished pets end up abandoned.

Great Performances Leonard Bernstein's Kaddish Symphony

Recorded in July 2022, Bernstein protégé Marin Alsop conducts the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in a performance of Bernstein's "Kaddish" Symphony at the Ravinia Festival. Creating a musical meditation wherein women's voices are the tether to the highest powers, and examining the essential, eternal questions of humanity and faith, also featured are soprano Janai Brugger and Jaye Ladymore as narrator, along with the Chicago Children's Choir.

KEEPING IT LOCAL

AND THE FLOODS CAME: NEBRASKA 2019

The impact of severe weather for several days in March of 2019 will last for years. Flooding swept across the eastern half of Nebraska, leaving hundreds homeless and destroying homes, businesses, farms, ranches, and roads. News teams from Nebraska were in the fields, beside the rivers, and alongside the many relief workers and volunteers who were working to help the state recover and rebuild after the flood. They tell their stories and the story of this difficult time for Nebraska.

And the Floods Came is a collection of reporting on the efforts by the government, relief agencies, volunteers and your Midwest neighbors to reconstruct communities."

SDPB1: Thursday, August 17, 7pm (6 MT)

SURVIVING THE '72 FLOOD

Survivors of the catastrophic 1972 flood in Rapid City and the Black Hills of South Dakota tell their stories, with historical footage from one of the nation's deadliest natural disasters. The flood, which occurred on June 9, 1972, killed 238 people. Watch this sobering documentary, produced by SDPB.

THE MIDDLE OF EVERYWHERE - CONNECTING RURAL SOUTH DAKOTA

South Dakota has always been a mainly rural state made up of farms, ranches, and small towns held together by social institutions and individual access to various technologies, from centralized electrical service to broadband Internet. Far from living in the middle of nowhere, rural South Dakotans now connect with one another and the outside world regardless of location and relative distance.

PRESERVING SOUTH DAKOTA'S PIONEER PAST

Learn more about the historical buildings of the Berdahl Family and Ole Rolvaag, a Norwegian immigrant and author of "Giants in the Earth." We'll step inside Watertown's Mellette House, the home of South Dakota's first governor Arthur C. Mellette. Finally, take a look around the Pickler Mansion, the home of Major John A. Pickler, an American Civil War veteran and South Dakota's first member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

SDPB1: Friday, August 25, 9:30pm (8:30 MT)

I REALLY GET INTO IT: THE UNDERAGE ARCHITECTS OF SIOUX FALLS PUNK

Largely ignored and left to their own devices, a group of Sioux Falls, South Dakota teenagers in the late 80s and early 90s created their own culture, community, and economy.

I Really Get Into It: The Underage Architects of Sioux Falls Punk is a story about the tenacity and ingenuity of youth, finding and following your convictions, and how the kids you least expect often make the most noise. Shot on location in eight cities and assembled from archival video and photos, the documentary features interviews with Larry Livermore (Lookout. Records), Ian MacKaye (Fugazi), Mike Park (Skankin' Pickle), Rebecca Hanten (Cadillac Blindsides), Terry Taylor (Hammerlord), and dozens of current and former members of the Sioux Falls all-ages music scene.

SUPPORTER SPOTLIGHT

For some, South Dakota Public Broadcasting programming is habitual. It is a part of the morning and evenings, a part of the daily commute, and a part of entertainment at the end of the day. For some, the habit of having SDPB on the radio or tv is also a comfort. For Karen Abata, SDPB is both. Public broadcasting was a part of her childhood and remained a part of her life.

"I've been listening for so long that there are voices on the radio that are so comforting. When I hear Garrison Keillor's voice it brings back memories of 50 years ago. It's just a very calming influence to hear these voices that we've been listening to for so long."

Supporting public broadcasting is something she witnesses in her parents, who have given for the entirety of their lives.

"My mom and dad were we're always really consistent supporters of public television and public radio. When my mom moved here, she became a member of SDPB. The first question for her was, 'How do I access the public radio and public TV?' My mom donated money to the 24-hour classical station. She loved it; that was her world. She would get up in the morning, turn on the radio, get a cup of coffee, and read her paper. It was so incredibly important to her."

Karen continues by sharing how SDPB has a generational effect. Not only do she and her husband give, but their kids have also made it a part of their lives.

"My husband and I have donated since we got here in 2006, and the interesting thing is, these habits and these interests just passed through generations. Our kids are listening to public radio and watching public TV, and they're in their thirties and early forties now. They are all very familiar with public broadcasting."

Lastly, Karen celebrates SDPB for bringing people together, especially through member benefits like Passport.

"We used to have these Sunday night dinners with some friends. They would come over, we'd have dinner, and we would watch Masterpiece. And when my mom moved here in 2015, every Sunday, it was our ritual that she'd come over with us, and we'd have dinner and watch Masterpiece and Nova."

COMING UP....

The 605 Drive – SDPB's Summer Membership Drive is upon us! Enjoy many of your favorites on our main channel, and all of our regularly scheduled programming on Create. Tune in starting Saturday, August 12.

Call or text 800-777-0789 or visit us online: www.sdpb.org

A woman with blonde hair in a ponytail is seen from behind, sitting in a red and black hammock. She is looking out over a scenic landscape featuring a calm lake, dense evergreen forests, and rugged mountains under a cloudy sky. The hammock is strung between trees, and the woman's legs are visible, wearing dark sneakers.

Watch the final two episodes of Masterpiece Grantchester season 8 on SDPB. First, Geordie is placed on desk duty as Elliot contrives to force him to resign. The next murder case is handed to Larry, who wisely enlists the help of Miss Scott. Then, Will has disappeared, but with Bonnie about to give birth, Geordie must find him and bring him to his senses before it's too late. Catch the action in back-to-back, can't miss episodes.
