Called – Producer: Brian Gevik

As a young man, Dennis Ellingsen wanted to be an artist. He was actively pursuing a career in art when he felt called to a different line of work. He went to seminary, was ordained, and worked until a few years ago as a Lutheran pastor. Now retired, Ellingsen has returned to making art, both on his own and in his new position as University of Sioux Falls Artist-In-Residence.

Landsat 8 – Producer: Cara Hetland

In February, NASA launched a satellite that will help map the earth. Hundreds of people were on hand at EROS to witness the control room style launch. 90 days after the launch (mid-May), NASA turns the keys over to the satellite to the USGS, who will monitor and control the satellite from the EROS center near Garretson.

ISSUE: People/Places/Events in South Dakota
PROGRAM TITLE: Dakota Life #1510—Best of Dakota Life
DATE & TIME: June 6, 2013 @ 8:00 PM CT/ 7:00 PM MT
DURATION: 00:40:13

Segments:

Prehistoric Art/Stone Mosaics- Producer: Chad Andersen

There are many signs of prehistoric settlement and occupation scattered around the state. Mystery surrounds the creation and placement of the stone circles, effigy mounds, and other man-made structures built by the area's first occupants. Still, these objects and their position in the earth do provide archeologists some insight into what might have been important to those long-ago people.

Dust Bowl Memories-Producer: Brian Gevik

Those old enough to recall the dirty thirties talk about surviving the Dust Bowl experience of drought and economic depression.

Turner County Fair – Producer: Brian Gevik

Why some say the oldest county fair in the state is also still the best. The annual event in Parker has been held almost every year since 1885.

The Needles of Rushmore – Producers: Charles Mike Ray & Brian Gevik

A new guide for climbers features information about hundreds of routes up Black Hills rock formation. The book also offers dozens of very high quality photos taken from some very hard-to-reach vantage points.

Hang Gliding – Producer: Josh Kappler

A pair of Yankton-area men fired up about hang gliding, aka “silent flight.”

Casting the PCJ2 Nugget- Producer: Charles Mike Ray

The largest Black Hills gold nugget still known to exist was cloned at a Hill City foundry. The original nugget, found by prospector Potato Creek Johnny, now has a sister nugget, the Potato Creek Johnny 2 nugget. The second nugget is being auctioned off for charity.
