WONDERFUL and WEIRD

Rock Garden Tour Celebrates South Dakota

Are you ready to turnip the fun? Join Flowerman and Oil Can as Rock Garden Tour rocks the house in a new concert special on SDPB1 Television on Saturday, Dec. 6, at 8pm (7 MT).

SPDB presents a unique concert experience as Flowerman (Producer Ted Heeren) and sidekick Oil Can (Tom Hurlbert) lead an eclectic mix of South Dakota trivia, song parodies, performance and more for North Grown Hardy: Celebrating 125 Years of South Dakota.

Brace yourself for a wild and witty performance featuring the creative minds behind the SDPB Radio program Rock Garden Tour. North Grown Hardy was recorded earlier this year in front of a standing-room only audience at the Matthews Opera House in Pleasure Horse adds come “cosmic country” to the mix.

Spearfish.

North Grown Hardy, SDPB Television’s second concert special with Rock Garden Tour, features members of the Family Band; Pleasure Horse, a regional band that presents “cosmic country”; and an amusing assortment of South Dakota minutiae, witty garden banter, odd little South Dakota moments, indie/alternative rock and clever home-grown songs about our state.

It celebrates the wonder and weirdness of living in South Dakota.

“It’s a journey to a state of mind,” according to Director of SDPB Radio Joe Tlustos. “It celebrates what makes South Dakota unique.”

The one-hour radio program that inspires the TV special is produced in partnership with the Fresh Produce advertising agency in Sioux Falls and has been part of the SDPB Radio lineup for several years. It airs on SDPB Radio on the last Saturday of the month at 8pm (7 MT). The first Rock Garden Tour television special, taped in Sioux Falls and aired last year, earned rave reviews.

Rock Garden Tour North Grown Hardy is supported by Landscape Garden Centers, Local Zip Convenience Stores, POET and the Friends of SDPB.

THANKS FOR THE Laughs

“Don’t drive like my brother.”

Tom Magliozzi, and his brother Ray, for that matter, said it often on public radio’s longtime hit program Car Talk. Tom Magliozzi, who died on Nov. 3, will live on in the program, a staple of SDPB Radio’s Saturday morning lineup at 9am (8 MT).

Tom, who, along with his brother Ray, hosted NPR’s Car Talk for the last 37 years, died from complications of Alzheimer’s Disease. “Turns out he wasn’t kidding,” said Ray. “He really couldn’t remember last week’s puzzler.”

Tom was born June 28, 1937, in an East Cambridge, Massachusetts neighborhood filled with other Italian immigrant families. It was there that he and his younger brother Ray picked up the uniquely Boston-Italian style of expressing affection through friendly insults and teasing. That style was at the stupid again!”*

heart of their banter with each other, and their listeners, on the radio show that made them beloved guests in millions of homes every Saturday morning.

Tom was the first in his family to attend college, enrolling at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he earned a degree in Chemical Engineering. He hated putting on a suit and working in the 9-to-5 world.

“He actually hated working in any world,” says his brother Ray. “Later on, when we were doing Car Talk, he would come in late and leave early. We used to warn him that if he left work any earlier, he’d pass himself coming in.”

After a period spent happily as a Harvard Square bum, a house painter, an inventor, a successful Ph.D. student, and an auto mechanic, Car Talk became his focus, and Tom spent the rest of his working life doing what he was born to do. “Making friends, philosophizing, thinking out loud, solving people’s problems, and laughing his butt off,” says Ray.

The radio show began as a fluke. Someone from Boston’s local public radio station, WBUR, booked an on-air panel of six car mechanics from the area. Tom was the only one who showed up. He was impressive enough to be asked back the following week, when he brought along his fellow mechanic and kid brother, Ray, and Car Talk was born.

They started off as volunteers, slowly injecting more and more humor and off-topic diversions into their discussions of carburetors and wheel bearings. “Since we weren’t making any money, we figured we might as well have fun,” said Tom.

The brothers’ unique combination of hilarious, self-deprecating banter and trustworthy car advice was picked up by NPR in 1987, and Car Talk soon became the network’s most popular entertainment program ever, reaching audiences of more than 4 million people a week. The program has continued to be a top-rated show on NPR stations in syndication, even after the guys stopped recording new shows in 2012.

Along with the solid car advice he dispensed on the radio show with his brother, Tom often took on the additional roles of philosopher king, life advisor, moral scold, and family counselor.

“He’d always ask guys who were in a dispute with their wives or girlfriends one question: ‘Would you rather be right, or would you rather be happy?’” us great.”*

said Ray.

“He and his brother changed public broadcasting forever,” said Doug Berman, the brothers’ longtime producer. “Before Car Talk, NPR was formal, polite, cautious ... even stiff. By being entirely themselves, without pretense, Tom and Ray single-handedly changed that, and showed that real people are far more interesting than canned radio announcers. And every interesting show that has come after them owes them a debt of gratitude.

“I think the body of work he leaves will definitely be held up with great American humorists like the Marx Brothers and Mark Twain. He was a genius. And he happened to use that genius to make other people feel good and laugh.”

The family asks that in lieu of flowers, or rotten fruit, fans of Tom make a donation in his memory to either their local NPR station or the Alzheimer’s Association.

*“I like to drive with the windows open.
I mean, before you know it, you’re going to spend plenty of time sealed up in a box anyway,

We're Making Stuff Wilder and Making Stuff Colder with two hours of NOVA. In Wilder, the science series leads host David Pogue on a journey into innovations based on nature's toolbox, from underwater wi-fi based on dolphin communication, to robotic "mules" and "cheetahs" for the military, to swarms of robotic bees. In Colder, Pogue explores the frontiers of cold science, from saving the lives of severe trauma patients to ultracold physics, where bizarre new properties of matter are the norm.

Ken Burns' dramatic and exciting tale of an American dynasty – The Roosevelts – comes back with a two-part marathon airing on Christmas and New Year's days. The 14-hour documentary (six hours on Dec. 25 and eight hours on Jan. 1) tells the intertwined stories of three powerful people who changed the course of our country. It starts Theodore Roosevelt, and then chronicles the accomplishments of his distant cousin Franklin Roosevelt and Franklin's wife and Theodore's niece – Eleanor Roosevelt.

Frontline takes a historical journey into the life of Jesus and the development of the Christian Church in the four-hour From Jesus to Christ: The First Christians. Drawing on new and sometimes controversial historical evidence, the series transports viewers back 2,000 years, tracing the life of Jesus of Nazareth. The film then turns to the period that followed Jesus' death.

Programs Spotlight Human Trafficking, Fraud against Elderly

SOUTH DAKOTA FOCUS

Human trafficking and fraud aimed at the elderly are in the spotlight on South Dakota Focus in December.

SDPB Television's signature public affairs program will examine human trafficking in our region on SDPB1 Television on Thursday, Dec. 11, at 8pm (7 MT), with an encore on Sunday, Dec. 14, at 1pm (Noon MT). Guests include U.S. Attorney Brendon Johnson, Sioux Falls; Dr. Elizabeth Talbot of the University of South Dakota; Kimberly Doody and Kerry Stephenson of the women's shelter Mita Maske Ti Ki; and the Rev. Susan Omanson of the advocacy organization Be Free.

Behind the scenes at South Dakota Focus.

The program, now in its 20th year, turns the lens on fraud that targets the elderly on SDPB1 on Thursday, Dec. 18, at 8pm (7 MT), with an encore on Sunday, Dec. 21, at 1pm (Noon MT). The program, produced in partnership with AARP South Dakota, will look at the cons and schemes that are crafted to appeal to the elderly and steal their funds.

Tune in Democracy: Online, on TV, on Radio

Join SDPB at the State Capitol in Pierre as Gov. Dennis Daugaard details budget plans for South Dakota's 2016 fiscal year when he presents the annual Budget Address on Tuesday, Dec. 2, at 1pm (Noon MT). The speech will be carried live on SDPB1 TV, SDPB Radio and on SDPB.org. It will repeat later that day on SDPB1 TV at 10pm (9 MT).

The address begins SDPB's annual Statehouse coverage, the state's most comprehensive look at the South Dakota Legislature.

Coverage of the 90th Legislative Session opens on Tuesday, Jan. 13, at 1pm (Noon MT) with the Governor's State-of-the-State Address.

After that, SDPB will kick off nine weeks of comprehensive Statehouse coverage.

Former USA Today Editor Earns 2014 Neuharth Award

Veteran journalist Peter S. Prichard, former editor of USA Today and former president of the Newseum, is the recipient of the 2014 Al Neuharth Award for Excellence in Media. The Newseum Institute's awards ceremony, which took place at the University of South Dakota in October, will be presented on SDPB1 Television on Sunday, Dec. 14, at 2pm (1 MT).

The award honors lifetime achievement in media, is the first Neuharth Award event on the Vermillion campus following 2013 death of Al Neuharth, founder of USA Today, the Newseum and the Freedom Forum.

Prichard served as president of the Newseum and Freedom Forum until January 2009, and currently is chair of the Newseum board of trustees. He was editor-in-chief of USA Today, the nation's largest-circulation newspaper, from 1988 to 1995.

A Season of Splendor and Specials

A season of splendor is in store as holiday music and specials fill the air in December.

SDPB1 Television offers two Christmas with the Mormon Tabernacle Choir specials – one featuring Alfie Boe and South Dakota's own Tom Brokaw on Dec. 4 at 7pm (6 MT); and one featuring Deborah Voigt and John Rhys-Davies on Dec. 19 at 9pm (8 MT).

We mark Hanukkah with the Chef's Life Holiday Special celebrating favorite foods, Dec. 16 at 9pm (8 MT).

The ethereal voices of the Celtic Woman ensemble will steal hearts with a special Celtic Woman – Home for Christmas presentation on Dec. 4 at 8:30pm (7:30 MT). And Celtic Thunder gets into the act with Celtic Thunder Christmas on Dec. 3 at 9:30pm (8:30 MT) and Dec. 5 at 11pm (10 MT).

University of Wisconsin-Madison Chemistry Professor Bassam Z. Shkhashiri presents his annual one-hour science extravaganza for kids of all ages in Once upon a Christmas Cheery, in the the Lab of Shkhashiri on Christmas Eve afternoon at 2pm (1 MT). SDPB1 will fill the air with Christmas music late Christmas Eve and early Christmas morning. Then, we'll end the year with a Live from Lincoln Center Gershwin Celebration at 7pm (6 MT) and Michael Feinstein New Year's Eve at the Rainbow Room at 9pm (8 MT).

Check the listings for specials throughout the month.

Jazz Up the Holidays with SDPB Radio's Uncle Jimmo

Jazz Nightly with Jim Clark will be offering great jazz with a holiday theme throughout December. Jazz babies should tune into the SDPB Radio program, weeknights from 8-11pm (7-10 MT). Uncle Jimmo will start with a few holiday selections as the month starts and increase the tempo as Christmas nears.

"The week before Christmas, I'll be playing almost all Christmas jazz," Clark says.

Jazz Nightly will feature four new Christmas jazz CDs during the month.

- Joey DeFrancesco – "Home

For The Holidays"

- Irvin Mayfield's Jazz Playhouse – "A New Orleans Creole Christmas"
- The David Ricard Big Band – "Holidays With A Bang"
- Linnie Godfrey – "Spending the Holidays with Linnie Godfrey"

"I'll also be playing all of the great old stuff," Clark says, "including two excellent releases from last year: Nnenna Freelon and the John Brown Big Band's "Christmas" and The Rob Parton Big Band's "Christmas Time Is Here."

Jim "Uncle Jimmo" Clark

As December winds down, don't forget to start 2015 with Jimmo's All Night New Year's Jazz Party from 11:30pm (10:30 MT) Dec. 31 to 5am (4 MT) New Year's Day.

'Tis the Season for Giving

SDPB Radio, SDPB Television and SDPB Online play an important role in the lives of South Dakotans. And you play an important role in SDPB.

Each week, more than 100,000 people across the state take advantage of the best educational, arts and culture, public affairs and sports programming available in our great state.

It's your multi-media network. And the quality programming, educational materials and outreach are due to the generous support of South Dakotans. Businesses and organizations support a variety of activities as underwriters and we thank you. The biggest source of support for the programming budget comes through the contributions of people who choose to be members of Friends of SDPB. Thank you.

December is the season of giving. Consider SDPB in your end-of-the-year giving plans.

Go to www.sdpb.org/donate or call toll-free at 800-333-0789.

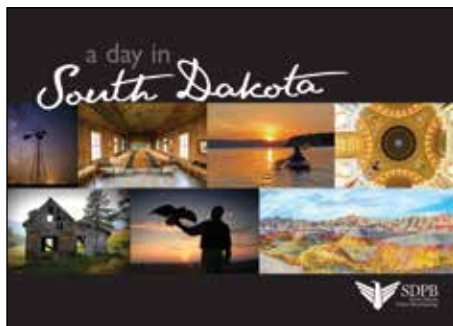

There are plenty of ways to make a contribution. Here are a few.

- Check or money order.
- Stock and other properties.
- Donations to Friends of SDPB endowments at foundations like the South Dakota Community Foundation or the Sioux Falls Area Community Foundation.
- Planned giving through your estate.
- Donating your car or another vehicle.

Whatever your plans as 2014 comes to a close, SDPB wishes you a warm and wonderful holiday season.

Be Evergreen and Get a Date (A lot of Them)

Evergreen Members of Friends of SDPB are getting a date – all of them, in fact, for 2015.

Here's how it works: As an Evergreen member, you divide your annual gift into monthly payments and agree to make that gift automatic, generally via credit card or electronic funds transfer from your bank. The deduction shows up every month on your statement and SDPB has the funds it needs to pay monthly and quarterly program costs.

It's easy and saves on time and mailings.

Start the process today by going to SDPB.org/donate or calling 800-333-0789.

Thank you.

No Cover, No Minimum Presents Jami Lynn in Concert

One of South Dakota's most dynamic voices will be featured as Jami Lynn stars at a live taping of SDPB Television's music series No Cover, No Minimum.

You can enjoy a great concert, for free, and be part of the live studio audience as Lynn performs in SDPB's Martin Busch Studio on Tuesday, Dec. 9, at 8pm (7 MT). Performing with Lynn on some songs will be Andrew Reinartz, Dalton Coffey, Nick Schwebach and SDPB's own Owen DeJong.

No Cover, No Minimum, SDPB Television's long-running music series, showcases local and regional acts as well as performers on the national level who come to South Dakota.

To attend, please get your free tickets by calling 677-5861 or 800-456-0766 before 5pm Dec. 9, or arrive at least a half-hour before the concert begins. The studio is in the Al Neuarth Media Center at the northeast corner of the University of South Dakota Campus in Vermillion. Plan to be seated by five minutes before the show begins.

Lynn, a South Dakota singer/songwriter who has earned national and international notice, began performing folk and bluegrass music at the age of 13 and playing the guitar and writing her own music by 16. As a student at USD, she recorded her first album, Dreamer, as Jami Lynn

& The Aquila Band. Sodbusters, her second full-length album was inspired by stories of her ancestors' journey to Dakota Territory.

In 2012, she joined forces with Black Hills flat-picker Dylan James, and the two released their duo album, "Cluck & Croon" in early 2013.

The No Cover, No Minimum concert will air on SDPB1 Television later this year. No Cover, No Minimum airs on SDPB1 on Saturday nights at 10pm (9 MT). December concerts on SDPB1 Television include:

- Dec. 13, Blues Bashers
- Dec. 20, Billy Lurken
- Dec. 27, 2014 South Dakota Rock and Roll Hall of Fame

Check out the website at SDPB.org/nocovernominimum.

Singer/songwriter Jami Lynn and friends will be featured on a special taping of No Cover, No Minimum.
