Fri Feb 23 12pm	The City Club Forum	Cleveland, The Reforested City	Over the last 50 years, Cleveland has lost about half its tree canopy due to development and disease. Thu Feb 1 8pm	Akron Roundtable	In a moderated conversation with Ideastream's Andrew Meyer	Born and raised in Akron, Shammass knows that people are what makes our city special. Growing up in Northwest Akron, Shammass learned about the importance of public service from his mom, Dr. Helen Qammar, who taught chemical engineering at the University of Akron. To her, life was about finding something you enjoy, and using it to give back to others. She also taught Shammass the importance of education and hard work. Those values, as well as the International Baccalaureate program at Firestone High School, helped Shammass get a scholarship to The Ohio State University and then the opportunity to attend Harvard Law School. After finishing law school, Shammass decided to come back home, to serve Akron like his mother.	Government & Politics	one hour
Fri Jan 26 12pm	The City Club Forum	A Closer Look at U.S. Foreign Policy and Diplomacy	Though headlines are dominated by the conflicts in Ukraine and Israel, those are just two items on a lengthy United States foreign policy agenda. China's interest in Taiwan threatens democracy and U.S. investments there; nascent democracies across Africa need support; economic and political crises in South American nations are creating migration challenges at the U.S. southern border; and trading partners around the world require U.S. attention, and any action on the global climate will require significant leadership from the U.S., as well. Beyond all of that, non-state actors threaten to destabilize the global economy through criminal activity. As President Biden ramps up his re-election campaign, he is faced with an unending list of foreign policy challenges. Though these will likely receive less attention in the campaign than domestic concerns, their importance can't be overstated.	Government & Politics	one hour

Tue Mar 26 8pm	WKSU Specials	Civics 101: Gerrymandering	The word gerrymandering has become synonymous with weirdly-shaped maps of electoral districts, nefarious political maneuvering, and partisanship. But when did gerrymandering become the norm? Civics 101 explores the complicated history of the gerrymander, and how states draw their district maps.	Government & Politics	one hour
Thu Feb 29 8pm	Akron Roundtable	Accelerating Leadership and Innovation to Meet Unmet Medical Needs	Northeast Ohio Medical University was founded in 1973 to meet Northeast Ohio's critical need for primary care physicians. Formed as a single college that served three universities — The University of Akron, Kent State University and Youngstown State University — whose premed students would serve as a pipeline for future doctors. NEOMED has always believed that knowledge is power... and that collaboration is the way to accelerate that knowledge into practice. The fledgling College would also develop association agreements with hospitals in Akron (Summa [Akron City Hospital], Akron Children's and Akron General), Canton and Youngstown. Those hospitals would help build the foundation for clinical training of the College's inaugural class of 42 students.	Health	one hour
Fri Feb 9 12pm	The City Club Forum	Hope, Health, and Humanity	The MetroHealth System aims to redefine healthcare and go beyond medical treatment. Also home to a renowned Level I Adult Trauma Center, it has more than 600 doctors, 1,700 nurses, and nearly 9,000 employees—making it an economic hub in our communities. In November 2022, MetroHealth opened the new Glick Center—an 11-floor hospital on the main campus as part of a wider neighborhood revitalization effort.	Health	one hour
Fri Mar 22 12pm	The City Club Forum	You and Your Adult Child: How to Grow Together in Challenging Times	Straddling adolescence and adulthood is a uniquely challenging time. Not only do young adults face their own future life choices, but they are confronting the many stressors facing our world and trying to make sense of their place in it. However, our job as parents is far from over. With increasing mental health concerns among youth, rising inflation, and a rapidly changing job sector - the work of parenthood feels very different than it did before.	Health	one hour
Thu Jan 25 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Northeast Ohio colleges continue to produce nurses, but state shortage remains	In late 2023, the Ohio Nurses Association, which represents over 200,000 nurses across the state, declared a "code red" because of the state's ongoing nursing shortage. That shortage is largely blamed on the coronavirus pandemic, and the subsequent burnout nurses experienced after hospitals were overwhelmed with patients. Legislators at the Ohio Statehouse introduced a bill recently that was aimed at addressing this shortage, which called for increased funding for nursing schools, and for establishing standards for staffing levels at hospitals. Tue Jan 30 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Cleveland public health leaders concerned over Ohio tobacco regulation ban amid high smoking rate	Starting in April, Ohio cities will no longer be able to regulate tobacco sales in their communities, due to a move by Ohio Republican lawmakers last week overriding Governor Mike DeWine's veto of this provision in the budget bill. This ban on local bans affects cities across the state, including Columbus, whose ban on the sale of flavored tobacco products went into effect Jan. 1, and Cleveland whose city council had introduced a similar ordinance last year. Thu Feb 22 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Public health experts concerned about syphilis rise in Northeast Ohio	After reaching historic lows in the early 2000s, syphilis cases began to spike again over the past five years across the U.S., including in Ohio. A new report from the Centers for Disease Control showed cases nationally reached over 200,000 between 2018 and 2022. That's the highest it's been since the 1950s. In Northeast Ohio, this is alarming public health officials who are most concerned about pregnant women and their infants.	Health	one hour
Thu Mar 21 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Cleveland Clinic says AI is leading to new drug discoveries and faster diagnoses, but has its limits	Artificial intelligence has the power to completely change the practice of medicine. The Cleveland Clinic says it has gone beyond theory and is actually using AI in healthcare in a variety of ways, such as discovering new drugs, making hospital staffing and patient admissions more efficient, reducing time doctors spend on documenting charts, and even speeding up diagnoses, like for stroke or breast cancer. Tue Mar 26 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Akron launches initiative to improve response to mental health crisis calls	In recent years, law enforcement agencies have been reforming the way they handle calls involving someone experiencing a mental health crisis, moving to what's called a co-responder model. Instead of just police responding to those calls, they are paired with a behavioral health specialist or other expert trained to handle these calls, with the hope to improve safety and decrease use of force instances. Tue Jan 30 8pm	WKSU Specials	Humankind: Medicine's River of Meaning	Medical reformer Rachel Naomi Remen explains a vision of the doctor-patient relationship, in which the patient is viewed not as "broken" or as a "victim," but as someone whose strengths have not yet been fully uncovered. Also, excerpts from 'Escape Fire,' a powerful documentary, along with comments by its young director, Matthew Heineman, about the over-scheduled work day of doctors and how too many pharmaceuticals don't make us better. Fri Mar 15 12pm	The City Club Forum	A Conversation with Justice Janet C. Protasiewicz	The state of Wisconsin has firmly established itself as a battleground state: Four of the six past presidential elections have been decided by fewer than 23,000 votes, and the political stakes have never been higher. Yet, the state's politics echo many that we see here in Ohio, right down to a tense dispute over Wisconsin's Republican-drawn legislative maps, which were overturned in December. Mon Jan 8 9am	The Sound of Ideas	"Poetic Reentry" series provides an outlet and a voice to formerly incarcerated people	Every year, more than 20,000 individuals are released from Ohio prisons. Many programs exist to help former inmates transition back into mainstream society, everything from general education classes, to job training, to counseling. Poetry is one tool that can help different populations deal with trauma, grief, and express feelings that have perhaps been long buried.	Law & Justice	one hour
Tue Jan 9 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Investigative series looks at prosecutorial misconduct in Ohio	When improper conduct occurs in the criminal justice system, such as when prosecutors fail to disclose evidence that could benefit the defense or make inappropriate comments in court, it can affect a defendant's ability to get a fair trial. For a small number of defendants in Ohio, it has led to wrongful imprisonment for years, or even decades.	Law & Justice	one hour
Fri Jan 12 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Grand jury declines to indict Trumbull County woman charged after miscarriage Reporters Roundtable	A grand jury in Trumbull County declined to indict a Warren woman who faced charges after having a miscarriage at home at 22 weeks into her pregnancy. The pregnancy loss followed a series of visits to her doctor and the hospital. Prosecutors had charged 34-year-old Brittany Watts with felony abuse of a corpse, but the grand jury didn't agree. The case captured national attention and begins this week's discussion of hews topics on the Reporters Roundtable.	Law & Justice	one hour
Tue Jan 16 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Cleveland Community Police Commission wants more oversight over police policy	The Cleveland Community Police Commission is taking a big step in asserting its authority over the city's police department, as it was created to do with the passage of Issue 24 more than two years ago. The city charter says the CPC has the "final authority over police policies, procedures and training regimens." The commission passed a motion in December to restrict the issuance of police policies, otherwise called General Police Orders or GPOs, by the Cleveland Division of Police.	Law & Justice	one hour
Fri Feb 2 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Ohio lawmakers introduce bill to add nitrogen gas as death penalty option Reporters Roundtable	At least two state lawmakers, and Attorney General Dave Yost, want Ohio to become the second state in the country to use nitrogen gas for executions after Alabama successfully executed an inmate using that method. Lethal injection, Ohio's current protocol, has had many problems, including a lack of availability of the needed drugs.	Law & Justice	one hour
Thu Feb 8 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Some Ohio legislators aim to restart death penalty executions, others want to abolish them	The debate over Ohio's use of the death penalty has come front and center in the halls of the Statehouse in Columbus. Recently, Alabama executed an inmate by means of nitrogen gas. That execution influenced a pair of Republican Ohio lawmakers to introduce a bill calling for the state to adopt the use of nitrogen gas as an alternative to lethal injection.	Law & Justice	one hour

Wed Feb 14 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Ohio Supreme Court Justice Sharon Kennedy says the state needs more lawyers in rural communities	The seven most populous Ohio counties have 75% of the state's attorneys, including Cuyahoga and Summit in Northeast Ohio. Meanwhile, 82 of 88 Ohio counties are considered underserved, which according to the Ohio Access to Justice Foundation, means there are more than 700 people in population for every attorney. In some cases, there are much more. For instance, Harrison County on the eastern side of the state, has roughly 15,000 residents, but only 13 active attorneys. The Rural Practice Incentive Program, which was created last year through the Ohio Department of Higher Education, hopes to address this shortage by repaying student loans for qualifying attorneys in these communities. Fri Feb 16 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Former FirstEnergy executives indicted in HB 6 bribery scandal Reporters Roundtable	State felony charges were announced this week connected to the ongoing corruption scandal surrounding the passage and referendum defense of the energy bill known as House Bill 6. Mon Mar 18 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Class action lawsuit settlement over Cuyahoga jail calls for improving 'inhumane' conditions	Cuyahoga County has reached a settlement with 19 plaintiffs who were involved in a class action lawsuit over conditions at the Cuyahoga County jail. Last week, Cuyahoga County Council agreed to make updates to the facility, and address policies that have been problematic for years. Back in 2018, a U.S. Marshals report found that conditions at the jail were inhumane. Those conditions, as well as staffing shortages, led to multiple inmates dying in jail custody in the last several years.	Law & Justice	one hour

Mon Feb 19 9pm	WKSU Specials	More Perfect: The Viability Line	When the justices heard oral arguments in Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization , the landmark abortion case, one word came up more than any other: viability. The viability line was at the core of Roe v. Wade , and it's been entrenched in the abortion rights movement ever since. But no one seems to remember how this idea made its way into the abortion debate in the first place. In the second of a five-part series on the Supreme Court, More Perfect from WNYC traces it back to the source and discovers how a clerk and a couple of judges turned a fuzzy medical concept into a hard legal line. Tue Feb 20 8pm	WKSU Specials	More Perfect: No More Souters	David Souter is one the most private, low profile Justices ever to have served on the Supreme Court. He rarely gives interviews or speeches. Yet his tenure was anything but low profile. Deemed a "home run" nominee by Republicans, Souter defied partisan expectations on the bench and ultimately ceded his seat to a Democratic president. In the third of a five-part series on the Supreme Court, More Perfect from WNYC tells the story of how "No More Souters" became a rallying cry for Republicans and inspired a backlash that would change the Court forever. Tue Feb 27 8pm	WKSU Specials	More Perfect: The Supreme Court V. Peyote	More than thirty years ago, a Native American man named Al Smith was fired for ingesting peyote at a religious ceremony. When his battle made it to the Supreme Court, the decision set off a thorny debate over when religious people get to sidestep the law — a debate we're still having today. This is the fourth of a five-part series on the Supreme Court from WNYC's More Perfect .	Law & Justice	one hour
Thu Jan 11 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Ohio House overrides Gov. DeWine's veto of bill that bans gender-affirming care for trans youth	Over the past few weeks, there has been a lot of attention paid to transgender healthcare issues down in Columbus at the Ohio Statehouse. On Dec. 29, Gov. Mike DeWine vetoed House Bill 68, in a move that stood in sharp contrast to his Republican colleagues in the legislature. That bill would ban transgender youth from accessing gender-affirming care, including puberty blockers and hormone therapy. It would also prevent transgender athletes from playing women's sports. Wed Jan 31 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Comprehensive report examines women in Ohio through economic, health and social mobility factors	A new study from The Center for Community Solution takes a thorough look at women in Ohio through dozens of data points. All 88 counties across the state are covered and the report digs into everything from age and race demographics, to high school graduation rates, access to maternal care and cancer screenings. The report finds that women in Ohio are well-educated. In fact, more educated than their male counterparts. But it also shows that they are also more susceptible to poverty, earn less than men, and can have more difficulty accessing healthcare.	Race, Gender & Identity	one hour
Tue Mar 12 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Equal Pay Day highlights continued gender pay gap in Ohio and U.S.	March 12 is Equal Pay Day, according to the National Committee on Pay Equity, which says the date symbolizes how far into the year women must work to earn what men earned in the previous year. Women have to work about 15-and-a-half months to earn on average what men earn in 12 months. The pay gap is worse for Black and Latina women and for working mothers as well. Wed Mar 27 9am	The Sound of Ideas	Researchers say women remain underrepresented in political office at all levels	Women make up half of the population but are underrepresented in elected government positions. Underrepresentation exists at every level of government: federal, state and local. Last year, the Center for American Women and Politics at Rutgers University researched the number of women mayors or women performing mayoral duties in cities or town with populations greater than 30,000. Its study found just 26% of those positions were held by women.	Race, Gender & Identity	one hour

As a young man, though, Thomas listened to records of Malcolm X speeches and strongly identified with the tenets of Black Nationalism. More Perfect digs into his writings and lectures, talks to scholars and confidants, and explores his past, all in an attempt to answer: what does Clarence Thomas think Clarence Thomas is doing?
