

In the first quarter of 2021, KMUW put its news focus on many local and statewide matters in an effort to give listeners information to help them navigate this changing world. We kept up our COVID-19 coverage, giving people as much knowledge as possible about the vaccine rollout. We also produced many community focused stories, especially regarding the challenges to education and the economy. Our coverage spanned radio and web (as always, with photos and links) via our various platforms. We continue our partnership with the Kansas News Service for public radio stations. Our news team is supplemented by Wichita State interns, who learned valuable lessons in this news season from our award-winning staff while they cover our local news issues.

KMUW covers topics that our community expresses a desire to understand or has a need to know. We foster a dialogue with our area's residents via community projects and listening practices that draw in a variety of voices. KMUW enables the community to ask our leaders their own questions (and give feedback) through regular virtual Democracy on Tap civic engagement events. Projects like these, as well as one-on-one conversations, provide staff with input on topics relevant to Wichitans in order to best inform them.
