WTVN
Quarterly Issues/Programs List

WTVN provides its listeners with programming and public service announcements that address issues of concern to our local community. Among the issues determined to be of most concern to the community during the preceding calendar quarter were:

- 9/11: 17 Years Later - A Call For Action: In this special iHeartRadio presentation hosted by Shelli Sonstein, two families told how they turned their personal tragedies into promoting good work and service: The Tunnel To Towers Foundation and the 9/11 Day of Service. Also included, how many people continue to fall ill and die from 9/11 toxins, anyone who was there up to 8 months after 9/11.
- Brain health: Staff members from the Alzheimer's Association discussed ways to help find cures faster such as joining the Brain Health Registry, which is a free and secure online study.
- Cancer treatment update: Officials from the Ohio State University James Cancer Center discussed advanced radiation treatment, which includes proton therapy. They said the therapy treats the tumor directly and spares healthy tissue, resulting in fewer side effects.
- Diabetes management: Gerald Johnson of the American Diabetes Association talked about how Certified Diabetes Educators can help simplify life and offer information about diabetes, which he said is a complex and often overwhelming disease.
- Disability income protection: Officials from the Ohio Insurance Institute discussed full-time workers who are also primary wage earners. They said that two-thirds of unmarried full-time workers are concerned about having enough money to pay bills during a period of sudden income loss. They discussed disability income benefits that will help.
- Eye health: Staff members from the Ohio Optometric Association talked about important to protect your sight, such as getting a dilated eye exam. They also discussed living healthy lifestyle, eating right, managing chronic conditions and not smoking.
- Financial fitness: Doug White of the Ohio Financial Planning Association talked about ways to keep your finances under control.
- Fire safety: Officials from the American Red Cross talked about the high number of local residential fires this year, and how we can all take a few simple steps that can help keep us out of those statistics.

- Heart health: Officials from the American Heart Association and American Stroke Association discussed programs and services for those living with heart disease or stroke and how emotional support from friends, family and others can help with feelings of depression and isolation.
- Ohio Army National Guard recruiting: Nathan Bell, a recruiting official for the Ohio Army National Guard, discussed their recruiting efforts and the benefits of joining the Guard.
- Premature birth research: Elizabeth Moore, Development Director for the Central Ohio March of Dimes, discussed the programs and services aimed at women to help prevent pre-term birth.
- Public safety: Taylor Price, Program Manager for the See Something, Say Something initiative by the Department of Homeland Security, discussed why "See Say" is important and how all citizens should be aware of their surroundings and act appropriately.
- School safety: Officials from the Ohio Education Association talked about how teachers, parents and lawmakers have a responsibility to see that each student is safe, supported and challenged in school.
- Workplace bullying: Dr. Colleen Logan, Program Director for the Ohio Career Counseling Program, said that workers are discovering a problem that's bad for morale, bad for their own health and happiness and bad for the bottom line. She said it is workplace bullying, which is more common than many realize. She discussed help lines and counseling that can help in prevention.
