Quarterly Issues/Programs List

WTVN provides its listeners with programming and public service announcements that address issues of concern to our local community. Among the issues determined to be of most concern to the community during the preceding calendar quarter were:

- Alzheimer's research: Representatives from the Alzheimer's Association talked about how a quarter of older Americans have memory loss, and how regular assessment can let you know what's normal. They said if it's abnormal memory loss or the early stages of Alzheimer's disease, there are ways to delay the progression.
- Blood pressure medications: Officials from the American Heart Association discussed how if you have high blood pressure, to remember to use use caution when choosing over-the-counter medications. They said many cold and flu products contain decongestants that can raise your blood pressure or interfere with the effectiveness of prescribed blood pressure medications.
- Brain health: Officials from the Central Ohio Area Agency On Aging discussed how doctors are working on ways to combat cognitive impairment and promote healthy brain aging.
- Compulsive gambling: Officials from the Ohio Problem Gambling Helpline talked about how recovering gamblers do everything they can do to avoid temptation. They said that some gambling addicts can't even read ads that give information to sports gamblers because of the anxiety such ads cause.
- Eye health: Representatives from Prevent Blindness Ohio talked about how harmful U-V rays that can damage your eyes are actually present even during the current cold weather period.
- Family participation in education: Elizabeth Miller, a local school teacher, offered information on teaching children teamwork. She said the whole family can work as a team and have fun doing it, while helping to do better in school and in life.
- Health care consumer information: Author Lorene Burkhart talked about her series of books on how to be an empowered patient. She said the books are designed to be an insightful look at how to be a better health care consumer.
- Home weatherization/energy: Representatives from the Ohio Home Weatherization Council talked about how to ease the energy burden for older citizens and help them to stay warm and safe.

- Learning disabilities: Officials from the Ohio Department of Education discussed how parents and educators are so confused about the nature of learning disabilities that it may prevent students from getting the early help they need to keep from falling permanently behind in school. They offered referrals to professionals who can help if a child demonstrates early delays in areas such as learning to speak.
- Managing finances: Michael Johnson of the Ohio Association of Community Banks talked about how the banks help military service members and their families manage their finances with greater ease.
- Retirement information: Lisa Keller of the Ohio Center For Retirement discussed ways to retire comfortably with a retirement plan to help save for one of life's biggest transitions.
- Small and mid-sized business resources: Representatives from the U.S. Small Business Administration talked about more efficient and cost-effective ways for small and mid-sized businesses to manage their IT resources.
- Social Security benefits information: Representatives from the non-profit Academy of Social Insurance discussed how Social Security benefits will be higher monthly for the rest of your life if you delay claiming them until age 70.
